

ANNUAL REUNION

Of Immaculate Conception Parish

Last Evening

Rev. Geo. Nolan, O. M. I., Greeted by His Parishioners—Excellent Stage Performance Enjoyed

The annual reunion of the parishioners of the Immaculate Conception church was held last evening in the hall with an attendance that crowded the large hall to the doors. Not only were about all the families of the parish represented but many from the other parishes of the city were in attendance and all had a merry time. The hall was prettily decorated with autumn foliage and flowers while the different booths in the corners of the hall were beautifully adorned, temptingly laden and charmingly attended. All the booths did a flourishing business.

The affair was of more than ordinary interest for it gave many of the parishioners an opportunity to meet the new pastor, Rev. George Nolan, O. M. I., for the first time. Mr. Nolan was present during the greater part of the evening and was kept busy shaking hands with the members of his flock. He was greatly pleased with the large attendance and the cordial spirit with which he was greeted on all sides. Among the other clergymen present were Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I., Rev. William Dalton, O. M. I., Rev. John P. Flynn, O. M. I., and Rev. John P. O'Brien, O. M. I., all of the Immaculate Conception church, and Rev. John Duffy, O. M. I., Green Bay, Wis.; Rev. James Duffy and Rev. Fr. Lyons, the latter of St. Boston; Rev. Fr. Phelan and Strauss of the Novitiate at Towherville, and Rev. Fr. Doran, O. M. I., of Buffalo.

The stage performance came up to expectations and much was expected of it. The one-act comedy, "The First Rehearsal," was given by the Y. M. C. Choral society, with the following cast of characters: "Lillian Doyle," Miss May E. Whitley; stage manager, Edward Sheen; property boy, Frank Madden; and scene shifter, Anthony Doyle. Assisting in the presentation were: James E. Donnelly, James McNulty, John J. Dalton, Andrew Doyle, John H. McCaffrey, Joseph McFarland, Misses Elizabeth McAlister, Lilla Shea, Brennan, Mabel Booth, Ella Cox and Mrs. Madden, and Frank Reedy, John Cleary, William Campbell, Michael Calinan and James Carlin.

The various musical numbers offered by the cast of principals and by some of the "assisting talent" went unusually well. Mr. McFarland gave the opening song, entitled "Daisies Won't Tell." Mr. Madden, with a brace of well timed parodies, scored one of the great big hits of the show. The audience liked the fare offered by Madden and demanded more of it. Andrew Doyle sang the sentimental ballad entitled "Meet Me in Dreamland," and Miss Whitley pleased much with a soprano number. Mr. McCaffrey gave the noted "Garden of Roses." It was an excellent number. Mr. Shea contributed "Barney McGee," "Makin' Sheep's Eyes at Me," and Mr. Donnelly scored his customary popular song, "Mr. McGee." The comic song, "Mr. McGee," was also a hit. Mr. McNulty spoiled in another humorous number, and Mr. Dalton gave a selected number. The performance closed with "Bushels of Kisses," by Anthony Doyle and company. The music was under the direction of Mr. McCaffrey. Gilmore's orchestra, William Gilmore, furnished adequate accompaniment.

The performance was over at 10 o'clock. Thereafter dancing started, and was kept up until midnight.

Wm. J. King was general manager, and James V. Tully was his assistant. James J. Flanagan was floor director, and John H. McCaffrey was assistant. His assistants were John C. Farrington, Eugene C. Queenan, Thomas McCann, Terrence E. Leonard, John Downey, Paul Clark, William Maloney, John H. O'Connor, Wm. L. Gookin, James McNulty, Jas. E. Burns, Wm. C. Harrington, Elias A. McQuade, Jr., and Patrick Farrell.

IRELAND'S CAUSE

BRILLIANT PATRIOTS COMING HERE NEXT TUESDAY

In Associate hall next Tuesday evening there will be a big demonstration under the auspices of the United Irish League at which the speakers will be Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M. T. Capt. Edward O'Meara, Condon and John O'Callaghan.

Mr. O'Connor is one of the ablest orators of the present day and an editor of recognized ability in London. He has been in the house of commons for 25 years and is highly esteemed by the English people as well as those of his own race. Capt. Edward O'Meara, Condon was sentenced to death in 1887 with Allen, Larkin and O'Brien, the Manchester martyrs, but being an American citizen he escaped the death penalty.

His sentence was commuted, and after eleven years in prison he was liberated on condition that he would leave the country. He has just returned from Ireland after a wonderful tour, in which the highest honors were heaped upon him. He can testify to the great work accomplished by the parliamentary movement.

John O'Callaghan, who accompanied Mr. Condon, is the national secretary of the United Irish League and an untiring worker in the cause.

The meeting will be the most interesting of the kind ever held in Lowell. See ad.

FATALLY INJURED IN POLICE COURT

Man Was Run Over by a Fruit Dealer Charged With Assault Goes Free

John Devoe, about 33 years of age, and employed at the Boot mills, was run over by a heavily laden coal car in Amory street near the corner of Bridge street about 9.45 o'clock this morning and suffered injuries which in all probability will prove fatal.

It was while attempting to save himself from being injured, after the car had tipped to one side, that he fell from the car and, as both wheels passed over his body, dismembering him and cutting off one of his legs.

After the car had passed over the body and crashed against the end of the building, the injured man was tenderly picked up by fellow employees, assisted by several passersby, and everything possible done until the ambulance came. He was then taken to the Lowell hospital and placed on the operating table. Despite the fact that the surgeons at the hospital did everything in their power to save his life there is little hope entertained for his recovery.

Employed as Laborer

Devoe was employed as a laborer by the Boot mills and was one of a gang of men who shift coal cars from the siding in Amory street to the coal pockets of the mill.

It is the custom of the company after the cars are left standing on the tracks to shift them into the coal sheds with the assistance of a pair of horses. The horses are attached to the car and haul it along at a fair rate of speed until a curve, leading into the shed, is reached. The horses are then detached and the car travels over the single rail under the momentum, a man being stationed at the brake to bring the car to a stop at the desired place.

The coal car in question was of the ordinary tip type, which can be turned on either side to dump the coal, the top of the car being held in position by two hooks on each side.

This morning Devoe was assigned to man the brake of the car which flung him into the air. As the car was about to start, he was standing on the front of the car with his hands on the brake stood on the car while the horses pulled it to the switch. Just as the horses loosened one of the hooks and dropped to the ground and the force with which the car struck the curve caused the other hook on that side to become released—causing the top of the car to tip to the right.

As the car started to tip, the man at the brake, realizing that he was in danger of his life tried to save himself but fell directly in front of the wheels, which passed over his body and then crashed into the side of the building at a point over the canal bridge and on the track entering the shed.

A Terrible Sight

The wheels of the car passed over the middle of the man's body and one of his legs. He was dragged a short distance and then thrown to one side, bleeding profusely and almost completely covered with coal dust.

His fellow employees were so dazed for a few minutes that they did not seem to know what to do.

James F. Fleming, a clerk for the Flemings' paper and twine company, was passing in his carriage at the time and taking the situation in at a glance grabbed a heavy horse blanket from the seat and rushing to the injured man, covered him with the blanket and did everything possible to relieve his sufferings until others came to his assistance.

The ambulance was summoned and made a quick trip to the scene and then removed the man to the Lowell hospital.

Last Rites of Church

Rev. Fr. Lee, of Jefferson, Mass., who was passing in his carriage in this city, happened to be passing a few minutes after the accident occurred and being attracted to the scene administered the last rites of the church.

Displayed Great Courage

Despite the fact that the man was almost cut in two he remained conscious until the ambulance arrived. In the meantime he never uttered a groan. He spoke, but his words were incoherent.

SCHOOL MASTERS

Held a Meeting and Discussed Educational Affairs

New Rule of School Board Which Promises Good Results—Evening High School Runs Ahead of Last Year

While some of the rules recently adopted by the school board have caused much adverse criticism one which undoubtedly will operate for the good of the school system was put into effect when the first of a series of monthly meetings of the grammar school principals was held at the rooms of the school board at city hall, Supt. Whitcomb presiding. Heretofore under the rules the superintendent called general meetings of all the teachers at the beginning of each term at which addresses were made upon matters pertaining to the welfare of the school system. The new rule requires, in addition to the general meeting of all teachers, a monthly meeting of the grammar school masters.

All of the masters with the exception of one who is ill, were in attendance and a very pleasant conference lasting nearly two hours, resulted. The meeting was entirely informal and all of the masters took part in the discussion. Various matters were discussed and suggestions made and committees were appointed to look into certain matters suggested and to report at a later meeting. Supt. Whitcomb was most enthusiastic over the first meeting and believes that the meetings will be productive of excellent results.

While the new law reducing the age of those who must attend evening school from 21 years to 18 years, has caused a slight falling off in the attendance of the elementary evening schools, the decrease in attendance is not as great as was anticipated and the substantial increase in the attendance at the evening high school makes the general average on a par with that of last year. The high school shows a marked increase in membership and its success is thoroughly deserved as it has proved its worth in the community.

As yet no teachers have been dropped on account of small attendance and in fact there are but two schools in which there is any likelihood of any being dropped from present indications. The school board this year started with 25 less teachers than last year and has been obliged to add one for the Middlesex Village school opened this year for the first time and with only one teacher the need of a second teacher was apparent at the very opening and the teacher was supplied.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Court City of Lowell, Foresters of America, met in regular session last night and transacted considerable routine business. The anniversary committee reported that preparations for the celebration, which will take place on the 17th of next month, are progressing rapidly and that in all probability the grand court officers will attend. Chief Ranger McKenna presided and announced that Dr. Lawlor would fill the unexpired term of Dr. Duggdale, who has moved to Lynn. All members are expected to be present at the next meeting. Remarks were made by Brothers Monahan, Roane, McGilly, McKenna and many others.

POLE FELL

BIG CRASH IN BRIDGE STREET THIS MORNING

An electric light pole at the corner of Bridge and Third streets fell down this morning with a tremendous crash that startled all in the immediate vicinity. Fortunately, it struck nothing but the ground, though there were people near it at the time.

Wedding Postponed Because the Bridegroom Got Drunk and Had to Appear in Police Court

Mahomet Karan, who keeps a fruit store in Broadway, in the vicinity of Willis street, was arraigned in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with assault and battery on Anna Gorallink, the five-year-old daughter of Frank Gorallink, who keeps a second hand clothing store near the place of the defendant.

The little girl testified that about 7.30 o'clock on the night of October 7th she with two little boys was standing near the fruit stand when Karan slapped her in the face and kicked her. Karan denied that he struck her. He said that he had been bothered by children stealing fruit from him and on the night of the alleged assault he ordered the little girl away from the stand. She refused to go and he took her by the arm and walked her into the middle of the street.

During the course of the cross-examination of the little girl counsel for the defense made her admit that her father had promised the two witnesses for the government—little boys—that he would give them ten cents and a pair of stockings apiece and take them to the show if they would testify in court that Karan hit his daughter.

No Wedding Bells For Him

Thomas Leavitt was to have got married either today or tomorrow, and in order to celebrate the coming event got intoxicated and was arrested. He was released on bail last night and ordered to appear in court this morning. When his name was called this morning a man in the dock stood up. Probation Officer Slattery notified the court that the man in the dock was not Leavitt. After glancing about the court room, Mr. Slattery's eye rested on Leavitt, who occupied one of the benches reserved for spectators, and the former called for Leavitt to come forward. The man rose to his feet and staggered across the court room. One glance was sufficient to satisfy the court that the man was intoxicated and Judge Hadley ordered him taken down stairs until he sobered off.

Neglected His Wife

John Caran told Judge Hadley that her husband had not contributed one cent towards her support since June. She said that he had been working on a farm in Bedford, N. H., and she did not see him until the other day when he came home in an intoxicated condition and all he had with him was a bottle of whiskey.

She says that she can get along and support herself and will not leave her husband around if he continues to drink. Caran said that if the court would allow him to go free he would go to Boston to work. He was placed on probation.

Drunken Offenders

James Rourke, charged with drunkenness, was sentenced to six months in jail.

Lawrence O'Neil, William Lively and William Richardson were each fined $5.

Thomas Bailey was sentenced to the state farm.

OFFICIAL PLOT FREIGHT WRECK

Is Alleged Against Federal Prisoner Tied up the Traffic at Northampton

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 21.—Stories are being circulated today by friends of Gutierrez De Lara, the federal prisoner, to the effect that there is an official plot against the Mexican to have him deported from the United States as an anarchist alien. It is declared that there is a direct connection between the De Lara case and the robbery of the post office at Terminal island near San Pedro Tuesday. The significant fact in the robbery is said to be that the only mail taken was that from Mexico. Including letters to friends of De Lara. Washington officials have been notified.

The Herald today says that two members of the Los Angeles police force are accused in serving the Mexican government in cases where political refugees have been arrested or imprisoned. The officers, according to the newspapers are believed to be the ones who gave information to Immigration Inspector Ridgeway purporting to show that De Lara is an anarchist and an alien who under the law should be deported to Mexico. One of these officers at least is said to have been active in obtaining evidence which was used in sending the alleged revolutionists Magdon, Villalobos and Rivers to the Arizona penitentiary for violating the federal neutrality laws.

As far as the local authorities know the Mexican government has no desire for De Lara's return. The Immigration officials say that if he can show that his convictions are due to existing forms of government and his federal conduct are not objectionable as measured by standards applied to every alien, he can remain here indefinitely if he does not violate other laws.

The examination will be held as soon as necessary papers arrive from Washington, probably next week.

HAVERHILL CHARTER

Clearly Explained by City Officials Who Help Administer It

Hon. Otis J. Carlton Talls of Its Advantages—City Solicitor G. M. Nichols and Alderman Bean Testify to the Advantages of New Charter—Judge Fisher Spoke on Behalf of Lowell

A mass meeting was held at the Highland Congregational church under the auspices of the Men's league of that church last evening for the purpose of hearing an explanation and discussion of the new city charter of Haverhill with a view to throwing light on the much mooted question now before the citizens of Lowell, of charter revision.

The speakers were members of the Haverhill city council who have been working a year under their new charter with great success, and which they declare to be the best in the United States.

Carl M. Pihl, president of the league, was in the chair and the only local speaker was Judge Frederick A. Fisher, chairman of the Lowell board of trade committee on charter revision.

Hon. Otis J. Carlton

President Pihl, after brief remarks of welcome, introduced as the first speaker, Hon. Otis J. Carlton of Haverhill the "father" of the Haverhill charter, who, before proceeding with his talk on the charter itself, gave an interesting account of the movement that brought it about.

The movement started with a committee of the men's club of one of the churches, which secured President Pihl as a speaker on the Galveston and Des Moines plans. He had an audience of 800 to 900 voters, and following up the interest there aroused, a municipal league was formed and a charter drafted.

"It passed the legislature, and was adopted by the voters. Preceding the election at which the charter was adopted, several committees were at work. There was a publication committee, through whose efforts the citizens were fully informed about the charter; there was a committee to raise the necessary funds; and a canvass was made of the voters, using the check list as a guide; also, on election day, effort was made to bring voters to the polls. 'If you are going to have a charter in Lowell,' said Mr. Carlton, 'you have got to make up your minds to work several months to spend some money, and to work probably harder than you ever worked before.'"

Responsibility Needed

Relative to the defects of the prevailing system of city government Mr. Carlton said that it is almost impossible to hold anybody responsible where matters go wrong. "What we need is to get into office men—men who are not only honest, but intelligent; and the way to get a fit man into office is to provide him with an office which has power, and responsibility. What a man wants is a chance to make good."

"Another thing: The charters commonly recognize what is an untruth—namely, that the city is not a unit, but is divided into several wards. In Haverhill, we in effect said to these ward-elected officers, 'Go to our city council, and there obtain for us who live in this part of the city, what you can.'"

"We also recognize, in the charters commonly in use, what seems to be an absurdity; that national parties have a fit place in the local government of cities. There are men who will vote for candidates without investigating them to see whether they are fit men or not, because they have some party label attached to them."

"Again: The city government work is conducted in such a way that it is almost impossible to know what those whom we have put in office are doing. There is an almost utter lack of publicity."

"Furthermore, our present charters are defective in that they fail to recognize that the proper administration of a city's affairs is to conduct business, pure and simple, and nothing else. The city officers are not in any proper sense legislators. What our city governments ought to do is simply to do the people's business straight, the same as a trustee is required to account to the court for funds that have been placed in his hands."

Like Business Corporation

A city is a corporation very much like any business corporation. The only difference is that a business corporation exists largely to secure money to pay to the stockholders in dividends, while the city exists to pay dividends to the people in the shape of public benefits. When money and extravagance fail to give us a dollar in value for the dollar we have paid in taxes, our dividends have been stolen from us to that extent."

"The new Haverhill charter seems primarily to recognize that the province of the city government is business; also, to facilitate the choice of fit men for public office. We think that if these defects that I have pointed out are removed from a city charter, fit men will offer themselves as candidates much more readily than under the common system. We also believe that we have demonstrated, at an election, that if the people are sufficiently informed, they can be trusted to elect fit men to office. Our charter, following these lines, provides in the first place for the abolition of ward lines; and our city officers are nominated without reference to what party they belong to. We then entrust all of the city's business—with some exceptions which I need not note—to two boards, one called the municipal council, consisting of the mayor and four aldermen, and a school committee consisting of five men, one of whom is the mayor. And we have the usual boards not affected by the charter, such as a park commission, board of water commissioners, etc."

Aldermen Head Departments

We did not, in our charter, define

PRESIDENT OF NICARAGUA, WHO IS BESET BY REVOLUTIONISTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The rapid mobilization and the show of force made by the insurgents under General Estrada lead the authorities in Washington to believe that the regime of President Zelaya is drawing to a close in Nicaragua. The Atlantic coast ports of the republic are now in the hands of the revolutionists, and the United States government has officially recognized the closing of the ports. While it is not in sense a blockade, it is the next thing to it. Any duties that might be paid to the revolutionists while they are in possession of the customs houses have to be repaid to the Zelaya government in case the ports are retaken; hence the fact that the United States recognizes Zelaya's proclamation closing the ports.

under the new. Already the $50,000 worth of old bills have been paid, and a balance over and above that can still be shown to the good. "Allowing that $250,000 of those bills should have come over to this year—a liberal estimate—then our account for operation and maintenance shows a gain and saving on what it cost to run the city in this department, of $61,000."

Big Saving Noted

"Coming down to the bond issues, and the proceeds of the sale of city bonds for construction purposes: In 1908 the old city government issued bonds to the amount of $409,000. In 1909 the new government issued bonds to the amount of $116,000. The large issue in 1908 was made necessary by extraordinary building conditions but eliminating from the list all of those bonds which in either year were issued for the purpose of public buildings, school houses or bridges, and when you have done that, it is fair to say, roughly, that all of the other bonds issued should in the main have been voted to permanent construction work, streets, sidewalks, gutters, sewers. That leaves the city government of 1908 charged with $141,000 worth of bonds which, roughly speaking, should have been devoted to permanent construction work. I find by making the same deduction under the city government of 1909, $55,000 which they should account for in the construction of new streets, sidewalks, sewers and gutters."

He referred to a blue print, which he said he would leave to be examined, which shows by comparison, the amount of construction work done by the two governments, with the money raised by these bonds. "It is practically the same with the exception of sewers, where there is an advantage on the side of the old government of perhaps 5000 feet of sewer. The same has been accomplished by the old city government with its $141,000, as by the new with its $55,000."

A Creditable Record

Besides this, the new city government record shows many more square yards of macadam road, the comparison being 15,000 and 50,000 square yards. "As a matter of fact of course they did not spend that money on construction work in the old city government. What did they do with it? Some of it was diverted into channels which, if legal, certainly were not creditable. $25,000 was diverted into construction work to pay current expenses; $16,000 was paid for city lighting, and $8,000 was devoted to school maintenance—not school building, which would be legitimate, but for running expenses. That is where some of the $141,000 went that did not go into the streets. There are, however, about $58,000 charged directly to the construction of streets; but with not more than $10,000 they actually declare they did put into street construction, we have done considerable more than twice the work that they did the same amount."

Power of Recall

"We have the initiative and the referendum, and the recall is the means by which an incompetent public official can be removed from office. If you are willing to put in the work that we put in, you will find that you can adopt such a charter here in Lowell. You can educate the people so that they will vote for it, and if you get it you will find an abundant supply of fit men coming forward to fill your offices; and you will find that the people are disposed to elect them."

City Solicitor Nichols

The next speaker introduced was City Solicitor George M. G. Nichols, who declared at the outset that Haverhill has "the best city government in the United States." "First," he said, "good men came forward as candidates and with no organization backing any party of men, without ward or party lines, the people picked out the fit men for office, and selected 'the best city government in the United States.' The first result, in Haverhill, of the new charter, was the election of a list of long-headed, business men, who went into the city hall and did business."

"Then he gave a list of figures, showing financial results. The old city government, he said, left them a legacy of $61,000 worth of unpaid bills, besides a floating debt of $200,000. There was no money to pay salaries. He then compared the work from January 1st to October 1st for the two years, under the old government and argument. "You have got to educate the men who are going to do the voting. The legislature will never let you get by without a referendum if it lets you by at all. You must show them that it is not a plan to take into the hands of a few the government of the many. Get representatives from every class in the city. Make the man who works in the mill see that when he pays his rent there is a rate-off of 60 cents a month's rent, that lands in city hall, has got to be explained to him that he pays the holder."

The Lowell Case

"I think you were down to the legislature last year with two charter provisions. You have not got anything to spare, in the way of strength. Agree on what you want, and go down there with a solid delegation. Put it up to your legislators, strong, that they must give you what you want."

Alderman Bean Speaks

Joseph W. Bean, the alderman in charge of the police, fire, charity and license departments, the city hospital, wires and street lighting, said that he served two terms under the old form of city government. The trouble seemed to be that the government was not near enough to the people. It was a government by politicians, not by the people. Now, the people have the government entirely in their hands. The officers dare not do a dishonest thing, because the people can see what they do. There was an inauguration without hands. The mayor said about fifty or sixty words, and then started in doing business. If voted on again today, there would be four out of five of the citizens of Haverhill that would vote for the new charter. The politicians and special interests that have lost the pull they once had, are against it."

Mr. Bean said that when he went into the Lowell city hall, and the mayor extended to him the freedom of the city, he thought it strange because it seemed to him that the city had no freedom. The people might elect anyone they pleased—and got about equal results."

He advised Lowell not to get a charter without the provisions for publicity. The more publicity the better. "Do not trust everything to a man because you believe him to be honest. We have got no keys to the city of Haverhill; we have thrown them away."

Both Mr. Bean and the city solicitor invited the Lowell people to visit their city hall and inspect the records, which would speak for themselves.

Judge Fisher's Remarks

Judge Frederick A. Fisher spoke a few closing words, relative to the situation in Lowell. He said: "My previous experience confirms everything that the second speaker said of what should be done in order to get a new charter enacted into law." He then explained the provision of the original draft for a new charter here, and the advantages expected to be derived from the changes. The provision for the elimination of party designations was taken from the Haverhill charter. "When we went to the legislature," he said, "we had a good representation of Lowell people with us and we were treated very courteously; and the committee gave a hearing at city hall. Yet there was never a ghost of a chance that the bill would be enacted into law. What was the reason? One reason was that the Lowell delegation was not with us. The Lowell delegation are the men you elect to go there and make the laws. They were not elected on the charter issue; they were not committed, and no one can (sincerely) make that mistake. But I testified that we never will get a charter unless we have the Lowell delegation with us."

"It ought to be possible to get a charter that will meet with the approval of the majority, and you must elect some one to the legislature that will see to it that you get that charter."

ST. JEAN MURDER

Was Committed in Fall River, the Officials Say

FALL RIVER, Oct. 21.—"All the evidence which the Tiverton police find from now on must be turned over to the Fall River authorities," said Chief Manchester of the town police today. It appears evident, say those who have been in close touch with the investigation into the alleged murder of Miss Amelia St. Jean of Woonsocket, that this statement means that both the Massachusetts and Rhode Island police feel practically certain that the murder was committed in Fall River and that the Rhode Island authorities are simply assisting in every way possible and will continue to do so unless events arise to indicate that the affair is a Rhode Island crime.

When questioned regarding the disposal of the evidence already gathered by the Tiverton police, Chief Manchester said:

"We are still holding the evidence we have found up to this time, and it will probably be held in Tiverton until it is called for by the Fall River officers. I don't believe that they will need it before the hearing there Monday, when court."

The local police have not given up the search for the head of the girl whose dismembered body was found along Bulgermarsh road, but we are not making any concentrated effort to locate it as previously," said the chief. "We are almost convinced that the head is somewhere where it cannot be found by us. Understand me, however, we have not given up the search."

With unabated vigor the Fall River police continued to run down new clues and strengthen old ones in order that their case against "IT" will be complete when it is presented to the court Monday.

It has leaked out that so far as Thibault is concerned there is no evidence, and that unless there are new developments his case will be not pressed by Acting City Marshal Plect on Monday.

There must be an organized effort by some association formed by citizens."

THE TRIAL TRIP

Of the Delaware Was Delayed

ROCKLAND, Me., Oct. 21.—The expected trial today of the Delaware, the largest battleship in the world completed and ready for trial, was delayed because of the heating of the hearings on the trip up the coast from Newport News. The builders asked for a delay until necessary changes could be made but this probably will not be longer than today.

Following the first trial which will be to standardize the propellers there will be a four hour run at high speed on which the Delaware must maintain an average of 21 knots an hour. Possibly the big craft will return here at the conclusion of this test, but she may run to the south, having her remaining trials on the way. A new trial which this ship will undergo will be a five hour test, burning both coal and fuel oil.

for fuel oil and this will be used with coal. Then will follow the 24 hour run of at least nineteen knots and another whole day's run at twenty-three knots to test the endurance of machinery, the consumption of coal and the consumption of feed water by the boilers.

The battleship is fitted with bunkers

VIOLENT SCENES

In Spanish Chamber of Deputies

MADRID, Oct. 21.—The session of the chamber of deputies yesterday was exceptionally violent, the position of the government being further shaken. Senator Moray Prendergast, the former premier, who Monday severely arraigned Premier Maura and his ministers, rebuked his attacks. The minister of the interior tried to reply. He managed to shout "We do not fear threats of violence. We will remain, for to resign would be cowardly." The rest of his speech was drowned in the deafening uproar, the opposition shouting and slamming desks. The president of the chamber broke several belts trying to quell the disturbance and finally was forced to adjourn the sitting.

WORCESTER, Oct. 21.—An indictment of first degree murder was returned by the grand jury here yesterday, against Raymond Plouffe of Harvard, for killing Dr. Henry E. Stone of Newburyport, on Sept. 19 to rob him, but "no bill" was reported against George Lapointe of Harvard, who was held in connection with the same case. Braigo Romano was indicted for manslaughter in Fitchburg Aug. 27 by killing Pasquale Raffella with an axe. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $1000 bail.

George A. Popple of Templeton was indicted for burning on three counts by setting fire to the shop of Gilman Waite, and he will be examined as to his sanity.

Timothy Donovan and Jeremiah Hayes of Worcester, indicted for highway robbery of Peter Swanson on Bridge street in broad daylight on Sunday, Oct. 3, were called to plead. Donovan pleaded guilty to robbery and was given one year in the house of correction and Hayes, after pleading guilty to robbery from person, was sent to state prison for not less than three years and not more than four years.

THE RAILROADS THE CHIPPEWAS

Appeal to the Supreme Court Say They Cannot Live on Promises

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 21.—The time has come for the payment into the state treasury of corporation taxes, and those which have thus far been paid by railroad companies doing business in the state have been accompanied by protests. These indicate that it is the intention of the railroads to carry the question to the supreme court and ask an abatement.

In the annual valuation of property by the state board of equalization, recently made public, the valuation of railroad properties within the state was increased about $5,000,000 in one year. The attorneys for the principal roads at once gave out a statement, claiming that the figures fixed by the state authorities were excessive and unjust. The several protests are similar in import to that filed by Fourth Vice Pres. William J. Hobbs of the Boston & Maine, which is as follows:

"Payment of these taxes against these several corporations, the Boston & Maine road and all its leased lines in the state, is made under protest and without paying any legal right whatever on the part of the Boston & Maine railroad or any one of said corporations named to apply for an abatement or reduction of said tax by petition to the supreme court of New Hampshire under chapter 64 of the public statutes.

"Payment of these taxes against the said corporations is made under protest and with a reservation of all legal rights under said statute or any other law of New Hampshire, to secure an abatement or reduction thereof, or for such other or different relief as justice may require."

Under the provisions of chapter 64, railroads and other corporations are compelled to pay the taxes assessed and, in case of the railroads, they have one year in which to petition the court for an abatement.

THE BEST REMEDY

For Women—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Noah, Ky. — "I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from headaches, nervous prostration, and hemorrhages.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was well and strong, so that I can do all my housework, and attend to the store and post-office, and feel much younger than I really am.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most successful remedy for all kinds of female troubles, and I feel that I can never praise it enough." — Mrs. LIZZIE HOLLAND, Noah, Ky.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain.

Women everywhere should remember that there is other remedy, down to medicine this will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

For 30 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female trouble—menstruation, irregularity, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration.

We never publish a testimonial without the special permission of the writer, and then only when we are sure it is genuine. Such testimony will create confidence in all suffering women.

THE INNOCENT AND GUILTY IN A N INTENSE SCENE IN "THE THIRD DEGREE"

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Charles Klein, the author of "The Lion and the Mouse," is responsible for "The Third Degree," his latest play, which comes to this city tonight, where it will be seen at the Opera House for four performances under the management of Henry B. Harris. Prominent in the cast are Marion Kirby, Lawrence Eddinger, James Seely, Margaret Drow, A. W. Ellis, George Seybolt and others.

This play deals with a number of pertinent conditions that exist in our social life in large cities, and it is the purpose of Mr. Klein, by means of this play, to arouse a sentiment in opposition as he did with "The Lion and the Mouse," as regards financial and political conditions. The scenes are all laid in New York. The characters are prominent in the predominant social set. One of its members has been found dead, and the police, in order to refute the general charge of their inefficiency, fasten the guilt on an innocent man, and though they discover that they are in error they refuse to admit it, and bend every effort to fasten the guilt on the unfortunate creature they had placed under arrest. The methods employed by the police are shown in a way most interesting and original. For the first time in the history of the stage, in "The Third Degree" will be portrayed the methods of the police department, which in many instances have rivalled the question for barbarity and cruelty. Mr. Klein has handled the subject deftly and adroitly in a most convincing manner, and as a result this play should invite a large attendance to the performances in this city.

THE HOUSE OF 1000 CANDLES.

The appearance of "The House of a Thousand Candles" at the Opera House, October 25 promises to be an event decidedly out of the ordinary. The play is a powerful dramatization of the story of the same name and contains all its many interesting episodes and strange characters. The man with a past, which will be enacted by William Webb, an actor of rare ability, and who is said to be the ideal artist for the part. Then there is the fascinating young girl, the villainous Pickering, the bright Irishman, Larry Donovan, and the pugilistic preacher, Rev. Dr. Stoddard, in the love school girl, Marion Devereaux, and her equally pert companion, Gladys Armstrong.

THE NOBLE SPANIARD.

Macey Harlan, now appearing as the Count de Moret in "The Noble Spaniard," was at one time a member of the United States navy, and served as a gunner on the battleship "Texas."

THE THIEF.

The action of "The Thief," the famous Paris play by the noted Henry Bernstein, which Chas. Frohman sends with a special cast to the Opera House soon is supposed to all take place within twenty-four hours. It is described as being a pronounced woman's play, as it is all about the peculiar foibles, ambition and cunning of that sex. Love as deep and frailty as wide as that described to the average woman of so-called polished society, is said to be faithfully depicted in this play.

CHARITY BOARD

Wants Alterations at the City Farm

Despite the fact that no notices were sent out to the members, the board of charities held a meeting last evening. Rumor had it that there would be something doing at the meeting, but the doing didn't materialize. Everything was as serene and happy as could be. To begin with, Clerk Howe read the records.

On motion of Mr. Brady it was voted to have the chair appoint a committee of two to confer with the inspector of lands and buildings relative to repairs to an oven at the city farm.

The chair named Mr. Drapeau and Mr. Brady to act.

Clerk Howe called attention to the recent recommendations of the state board of charities that alterations be made in the dining room at the city farm.

Mr. Brady moved that a committee be appointed to co-operate with the inspector of lands and buildings in the matter of alterations. The motion became a vote. Mrs. Tibbels and Mr. Hinkle were appointed as the committee. Adjourned.

Do You Walk---Do You Like to Walk--- Can You Walk---and if Not, Why Not--- Are Your Shoes the Right Kind?

Walking is not only the easiest, the most convenient, and the most pleasurable, but the healthiest of all rational exercise. But to enjoy walking you must have the right kind of shoes—shoes that support the arch of your foot, that will grasp the foot at the waist, back of the ball, that will hold your heel firmly in place, so that when you lift your feet you lift your shoes without exertion. If they continue to build shoes such as they are building today, how long do you suppose it will be before the American people will become a nation of cripples? If they build bridges the same as they build shoes, how many accidents do you suppose would be recorded in a day? Don't you think that a human being should be shod with the same degree of science as a horse? If you had a valuable horse would you allow the blacksmith to place the caulk away in the middle of his shoes, the same as the young ladies of our country are wearing the heels of their shoes, set away down in the shank two inches high when an inch would be enough if the shoe was built right? If the ordinary bridge was built without any support only at both ends how long do you suppose it would carry its weight without breaking down? Think of the human freight that is carried day by day on a pair of shoes without any support whatever from the heel to the ball, only a little piece of thin leather, not even a steel shank as they used to use in days gone by, when shoes were made to walk in. I understand that there is a factory up in New Hampshire where they make nothing but wooden shanks for shoes, which are taking the place of steel shanks, the thickness varying from one-tenth to three-sixteenths of an inch. With this kind of a shank and the foot propped up in the air, would it support a person who weighs anywhere from one hundred to two hundred and fifty pounds, especially when the heel is away under or away back from the line of weights? Is it any wonder then that people have less desire to walk? Is it any wonder that men and women are troubled with tired feet and limbs, pains in the back and in the calves of their legs, and they don't know what the trouble is until they consult their family physician? Then they find that the trouble is with their feet. Those who don't use judgment in such a case run to some one who knows nothing about such cases, and the next thing they have a pair of arch supports set into their shoes to cure the pain. It takes an expert to fit arch supports, and if they don't fit right they are worse than none at all.

There is just one kind of shoe that will cure the falling arch and relieve the pains and torture that go with it, and that is the O'SULLIVAN ARCH SUPPORTING SHOE, built on natural lines to fit the human foot of man or woman. It does away with the clumsy, rigid arch support, 30,000 pairs of which are said to be sold in this country every day, as inserts to put into shoes. This trouble is so alarming today that it can be found from childhood up, all caused by wearing shoes that are constructed wrong, and the most serious phase of it is to be found among young women, many of them with their ankles almost down to the ground, with the heels of their shoes run down on the inside because the arch of the foot is not supported in the shoes they wear. We are prepared to take care of the worst case of flat foot, and we guarantee that the wearers of our shoes will walk straight. If you have foot trouble you know where to come.

N. E. AERO CLUB

Proposes to Make Lowell an Ascension Station

Lowell is to become a centre for aero navigation and will hereafter be the centre for balloon ascensions to be held under the auspices of the Aero club of New England. One trip will be made from this city Saturday afternoon, three more will be made next week, and before the snow flies it is expected that 30 or 40 ascensions will be made from this city.

The first of a series of ascents will take place at two o'clock Saturday afternoon when J. Walter Flagg of Worcester will make an ascension alone.

He is qualifying for an international pilot's license and made the last flight yesterday from Fitchburg.

Next week J. P. Benton of the Boston Transcript will make two ascensions as part of his program necessary to qualify him as a "sky pilot."

The club has been making Fitchburg its headquarters, but the gas company located in that place recently changed hands and the club is now unable to secure gas. Inasmuch as Charles J. Glidden made several successful ascensions from this city and as the gas furnished by the Lowell Gas company has proved to be of the quality necessary for buoyancy, through the efforts of Mr. Glidden it was decided to make Lowell the home station of the club. By next spring the Aero club will have two new balloons ready for use. One of a capacity of 35,000 cubic feet of gas, will be called the "New Boston." It is expected that this balloon will be stationed at Lowell.

NEW HAIR TREATMENT

The air is full of floating dust, dirt and disease germs, which get into your hair. There is a natural oil on your head that holds the dust fast, and in a short time you have dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. The pores in your scalp are stopped up, the hair roots get no nourishment, and then your hair begins to fall out. Cleanliness is the one thing needed. Tonics, renewers, invigorators, and hair growers do not and can not remove the dirt that causes the trouble. You need Birt's Head Wash, the new scientific preparation. This will put the hair and scalp in a healthy, natural condition, so that faded, lifeless hair resumes its natural color. There is no alcohol or ammonia in it, as they are said to make hair turn gray prematurely. Birt's Head Wash is made of Refined Soap, Glycerine, Coconut Oil, White of Eggs, Glycerine and Water. There are no better things than these known for cleaning the hair and scalp, and any doctor will tell you so. If you ask him, "Don't use cosmetics, soaps and shampoos. They often do more harm than good. Use Birt's Head Wash of the most harmful things put on your head."

BODY OF A CHILD

Found in the Merrimack River at Haverhill

HAVERHILL, Oct. 21.—The finding of the body of an infant in the Merrimack river yesterday afternoon by Edward St. Germain, the subsequent discovery by Medical Examiner John P. Croston of a knotted rag about the child's neck, and the fact that on Oct. 9 Mary Olofsky, 23 years old, of 105 River street, applied to the police for a warrant for the arrest of the alleged father of a child born in her, led to her detention.

Patrolman Irving Hussey and Deputy Marshal Pearson, after the finding of the body went to River street to secure information from the woman who, it was known, gave birth to a baby a week ago last Friday. She was not at the address first given, but was found in the sitting room of a factory on Washington street.

Mary Olofsky was taken to the police station where she was cross-examined by Patrolman Hussey, Deputy Marshal Pearson and Inspector Shannon and later placed under arrest on the charge of infanticide.

Yesterday the woman declared that the baby was dead when it was born. Patrolman Hussey says that he is sure that she told him differently the day following the birth of the baby.

The woman admitted that she threw the body into the river from the new county bridge on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 9.

The evidence which leads the police to believe that there was foul play is a rag found around the neck of the baby. The ends of the rag are knotted. The discovery was made by Medical Examiner Croston.

The child which the Olofsky woman told Patrolman Hussey was born to her was a boy, and the one found in the river was that of a boy. According to Medical Examiner Croston it was fully developed.

It was seen floating down stream near the Haverhill bridge by Edward St. Germain. He secured a boat and pulled it from the water.

NARROW ESCAPE

Tank on a Gasoline Launch Exploded

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—By the explosion of a tank of gasoline aboard the launch Jessica in Dorchester bay off the Strandway, South Boston, yesterday, Hostman George Kewer of ladder 19, West Fourth street, skipper of the craft, had a narrow escape from death, and without delay he plunged into the water. Less than five minutes later there was a loud report, and almost simultaneously the boat burst into flames.

Patrolman Edward W. Lasky saw the flames and Kewer struggling in the water and pulled in the alarm. Kewer, in the meantime, had returned to the burning craft, and, with a bucket, dished up water, and by the time that the apparatus put in an appearance the craft was about half filled with water and the fire was nearly out. All the members of the department could do was to stand on shore and watch the plucky hostman and skipper. The damage to the boat will amount to about $500.

Mt. McKinley

Seems as though we have seen that name somewhere—Oh yes, it's a mountain and it's "the top of the Continent." In 1906 a man climbed—but let that pass. We have got a Mountain of our own right here in Lowell. Its head rises above the level of the sea a good many feet and it is composed entirely of COKE. It's in our yard at the School Street Works. It's worth seeing if not climbing. There are thousands of chaldrons in the pile and we shall sell every scrap of it before this time in 1910. If you undertake to climb our Mountain and get to the top, have a notary public with you when you nail the flag and bury your records. Sample pieces of this mountain delivered at any home in Lowell at $4.75 per chaldron.

Clean delivery, full weight. You can see Our Coke every day on the streets being delivered on the yellow wagons. It will look good to you.

THREE STARS "HURRY UP" YOST'S STRONG MICHIGAN ELEVEN AND SCENE IN GAME

ANN ARBOR, Oct. 21.—Now that the football season is progressing and the hard struggles with strong teams are close at hand "Hurry Up" Yost, coach of the University of Michigan eleven, is devising new forms of drill which will help harden and benefit the Wolverine players. In the games so far played several moleskin warriors have been injured simply because they were not fully aware of the requirements necessary for the new style of play. This season Coach Yost has paid particular attention to this style, and he has taken every precaution to instill into the minds of the Wolverines how the ball should be run on the forward pass and onside track. Last year it was quite a puzzle to them when they succumbed to the prowess of the Quakers. During the last week the varsity got a stiff drill, and it now appears that the men are beginning to grasp the situation as it should be taken hold of. With sufficient practice Yost believes his men will master the situation satisfactorily. Much has been learned since the first game of the season. In the initial struggle a lion's share of the work fell to the guard positions, which were considered weak, but these, however, have been braced up by strong men, and it is hoped now that the line is close on to impregna-

ble. Michigan won the second game of its season by a score of 33 to 6 against Ohio State university. Captain Allerdice has been largely responsible for the winning of several of the Wolverine games by his individual playing. It was his toe that defeated Case university recently, and later in the game against Ohio State university he kicked three field goals. Yost has been working Benbrook, formerly a guard, at center. He has shown up well in his new position. Wasmund at quarter has been handling the team in good shape. Illustration shows scene in recent game with Ohio State university.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of industry council, Royal Arcanum, was held last night in Odd Fellows temple. There was an extra large attendance, the occasion for the increased attendance being due to the fact that S. F. G. R. John H. Deegan of Boston paid an official visit. He gave an interesting address on the order and complimented the members upon their fine showing. A fine entertainment of vocal and instrumental music was held, and a collection was served after the meeting. At the next meeting, Nov. 3, a debate will be held upon the question, "Resolved, that corporations are not of interest to our citizens." The affirmative side is to be taken by W. H. Stafford and M. J. Sullivan, and the negative by John J. Hogan and Frank Fox.

Good Templars
Spindle City lodge, 10, I. O. G. T., held a meeting in Pilgrim hall last evening and a membership contest, in which the captains are Harry Welch and Frank McLean will soon be started. A musical program was given and after the meeting refreshments were served.

Knights of Malta
Lowell commandery, 251, held its regular convention last Tuesday evening, Oct. 19, with a good attendance. The black degree was conferred upon four candidates, P. C. Frederick J. Provencher, presiding.

THE BIG FIGHT TEXTILE TEAM

Coffroth is After the Attraction Got a Severe Trouncing at Groton

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—James W. Coffroth, promoter of many big fights here, left yesterday for New York to meet James J. Jeffries and to make a bid for a fight between the former champion and Jack Johnson, the contest to be held here.

"I will offer Jeffries either a guaranteed purse or one made up on the percentage basis," said Coffroth. "I intend to make my offer as tempting as possible, and I believe that my chances for landing the match are very good. Of course there will be some lively bidding for the attraction, but in view of the big houses that San Francisco has always pulled to big fights, I don't see how any one can offer more than I."

While in New York, Coffroth will have a number of other propositions under consideration, including a match between Stanley Ketchel and Sam Langford, and one between the winner of the Pryne-Powell contest and Battling Nelson.

BOXING GOSSIP

There has always been loyalty displayed by Lowell sports when one of their own is in question. Even when George Gardner was a "tyro" he was locally supported, and against proven good men. While every one reasons that Jimmy Gardner has the toughest task of his career on his hands next Tuesday when he faces Bill McKinnon, still it is certain that the local boy will be cheered to greater efforts by the local contingent who will witness the event.

Gardner will be in shape, and he needs to be, as McKinnon has greatly improved in the past five months. He is faster, his left hand is better, and it is no exaggeration to say that the third meeting between this pair will prove the best of all.
McKinnon's people are extremely confident, and this will add zest to a match which is already attracting great attention.
While Gardner should win, judging from past performances, he has got to do so on his skill and agility.

The Textile school football team went to Groton yesterday and received a severe trouncing, the score being 22 to 11 at the end of the game. The Lowell boys rallied in the second half, but the Groton team had got in its work in the first half and Textile was unable to overcome the lead secured by its opponent.

PAYMENT OF TAXES

Heavy Taxpayers Come to Front This Year

While Formerly Some Held Back for Two Years to Realize Additional Interest From Use of Money

The amount of taxes paid to the city treasury up to date for this year's taxes is unusually large as will be noted in another column and the books show that the heavy tax payers who in some cases in the past were delinquent about paying have been coming in with their money this year before the interest started.

Many at first thought will wonder why the richest men in town should allow their taxes to go unpaid until the city charges them six per cent. interest, but there is method in their delinquency.

A few years ago one of the largest taxpayers in Lowell when asked why he allowed his property to be advertised for taxes replied: "There's money in it for me. Suppose I pay the city $10,000 for taxes, my $10,000 is gone. But suppose I neglect to pay. I have two years before they advertise my property for sale for taxes, while in the meantime the city is charging me 6 per cent. interest. During that two years I have the use of that money and can make more on it than the six per cent. interest that I have to pay the city and hence I am a winner in the end. If I pay $10,000 taxes I can make 10 per cent. on that amount for the two years before I am finally compelled to pay and when I pay the city demands six per cent. interest, leaving me four per cent. to the good. That's why I don't pay my taxes until the last moment."

This year, however, most of the heavy taxpayers, including the man quoted above, have paid up last year's and this year's as well and the city will get the use of the tax money instead of the property owner.

LOOKING FOR RAIN

Local Hunters Complain of the Drought

Dryness Makes It Difficult to Discover Game—The Commonwealth of Massachusetts Allows Hunting But One Month In the Year

This is a queer time of year to be looking for rain, to the ordinary person, but there are many in Lowell who would like to see a little rain within a few days and they are the hunters who are worrying over the fact that while the state of Massachusetts allows hunting only one month in the year the present conditions in the country are not at all conducive to successful hunting, and the indications are that they will not be before the 15th of November, when the law goes on again.

At present the ground is exceedingly dry and the leaves are not all off the trees, two facts that operate seriously against the hunter. If the ground were wet the dogs could get a scent much easier than they can under present conditions, and they would get the game in view much easier. With the leaves on the trees the hunter doesn't get as good an opportunity to shoot as when the boughs are bare.

Massachusetts isn't much of a state for hunting at best, and her game is confined to rabbits, partridges, woodcock and a few quail. Up to five years ago quail were plentiful in this state, but the great snow storms followed by the sudden rain and thaw killed off the quail and they have never been plentiful since that time. Gray squirrels are entitled to drop nuts on the heads of the hunters with impunity under a special act passed by the legislature in 1907 the law protects gray squirrels the entire year until October, 1913. The best day's hunting thus far reported by local sportsmen was 12 rabbits brought in last Saturday, but a local man and without the use of a ferret at that.

NEW CARDINALS WARNS FRANCE

Archbishop O'Connell May Be One

ROME, Oct. 21.—Although the pope only recently seemed determined not to have a consistory until 1940, it is now suddenly announced that one will be held about the middle of December and another next spring. It is added that the reason for holding two consistories is for appointing as cardinals in the second consistory certain prelates who cannot be included in the first.

Strict secrecy is being maintained regarding the names of those whom it is intended to elevate, but it is known that Mgr. Mendes Bello, patriarch of Lisbon, will receive the red hat in December, and it is also considered certain that Mgr. Bissoli, papal major-domo, will be elevated in the spring.

Regarding the appointment of a new American cardinal, Archbishop Farley of New York, Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul, Minn., and Archbishop O'Connell of Boston are considered the most likely candidates, while it is reported also that an American cardinal may be named as a member of the curia and will, therefore, live in Rome.

Others likely to receive the red hat in either consistory are the Most Rev. Francis Bourne, archbishop of Westminster, Mgr. Falconio, apostolic delegate at Washington, Mgr. Cusani, secretary of the Congregation of Bishops, Mgr. Dall'Oglio, archbishop of Bologna, and the archbishops of Buenos Ayres and Florence.

KILLED BY GAS

Man Was Found Dead in Bed

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 21.—Dewitt Rogers, a young married man of political promise, a former student at Rutgers college, and engaged in a campaign for a seat in the common council of Metuchen, N. J., was found yesterday in a lodging house beside an unconscious woman who had said she was his wife. The identification was made positive last night by his family physician, who ordered the body removed to Methuen. Mrs. Rogers is prostrated.

Death was caused by gas from a hot air furnace in the cellar, escaping near the head of the bed through a register. The landlady's daughter, who occupied a room above that taken by Rogers, was similarly overcome and only the noise of her falling from bed, which aroused her mother below, saved her life. Search of other rooms discovered Rogers dead. There was no evidence of suicide as the gas cocks were all closed.

Checks payable to Rogers and aggregating $300 suggested the identification last night. His companion was hurried to a hospital where, on regaining consciousness, she positively refused to tell her name or where she lived. Both she and Rogers had been drinking.

To First Consider Her Own Interests

PARIS, Oct. 21.—The exact assurances given by United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich during his recent talks with government officials regarding Franco-American tariff relations and with particular reference to the interpretation of section 2 of the new American tariff law, are revealed in a book just published. M. Cruppi, former minister of commerce, who favors active French commercial expansion, in this book quotes Sen. Aldrich as saying that President Taft's interpretation of "undue discrimination" did not mean that France must necessarily grant all her minimums, but only that the treatment of American products "must be reciprocally just and reasonable," and that naturally it was expected that France would give the United States the same treatment as other active competitors in the matter of French trade.

M. Cruppi adds that Sen. Aldrich's conciliatory assurances are extremely welcome but that after all France must first consider her own interests. He insists that industrial and commercial development are now of primary importance to every country and he warns France that if these questions continue to be politically eclipsed as heretofore by social questions France will soon fall to the fourth rank.

M. Cruppi contends that the policy of negotiation is the commercial policy of the future and expresses regret that the United States in her "splendid isolation" snaps her fingers at the world.

INJURIES FATAL

Woman Thrown Out of Her Auto

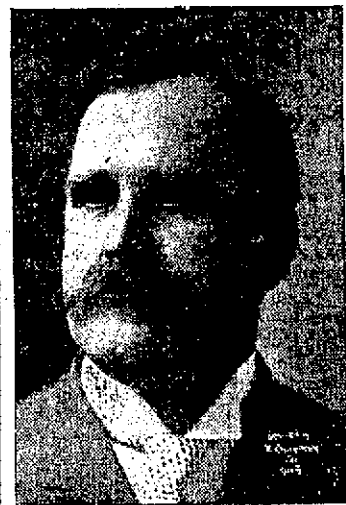

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Mrs. Gardner G. Hubbard, 80 years old, was thrown out of her automobile last evening when it was struck by a street car, sustaining injuries from which she died two hours later in a hospital. Her skull was fractured.

Mrs. Hubbard was prominent in the older set of Washington, one daughter having married Dr. Alexander Graham Bell and another his first cousin, Chas. J. Bell, president of the Washington Loan and Trust Co.

EUGENE N. FOSS

Not Opposed to Eight Hour Bill

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—The state campaign was further enlivened last night by statements issued by Eugene N. Foss, candidate for lieutenant governor on the democratic ticket, and by the campaign committee of the state branch of the American Federation of Labor. Both statements dealt with Gov. Draper's eight hour bill veto. Mr. Foss' statement, in part, follows: "Gov. Draper in his speech at New Bedford last night, if he is correctly reported, in the press, said: 'Among those letters asking me to veto the bill for various reasons, was one from the B. F. Sturtevant Co., E. N. Foss treasurer. The E. N. Foss, treasurer, who signed this letter is the gentleman who is now running as the democratic candidate for lieutenant governor. I would suggest, under the circumstances, that the democrats refrain from attacking me upon the veto of this bill and devote their energies to attacking Mr. Foss for the influence he tried to bring upon me to veto it.'"

EUGENE N. FOSS
Democratic Candidate for Lieutenant Governor

"I challenge Gov. Draper to produce any such letter. "I never wrote Gov. Draper any letter on the eight hour bill so-called. He does not print a photographic reprint of any alleged letter of mine to him asking him to veto this measure. "It is true that I did, in common with many other manufacturers, sign a petition which represented that my plant was to be crippled in competition with other plants if an eight hour bill which had been passed by the legislature and was before the governor for his signature was permitted to become a law. "I took the statements in that petition to be an honest summing up of the substance of that bill. It was not intended to be a deliberately deceptive one, as everyone who signed it."

The statement of the labor men criticizes Gov. Draper for his veto of the eight hour bill. The democratic candidates spoke in Lynn, Salem, Peabody, and Gov. Draper

SENATOR SMITH

Says the Mills Need Not Curtail

FLORENCE, S. C., Oct. 21.—United States Senator F. D. Smith, former general organizer of the Southern Cotton Growers' association, declares that the recent action by the cotton mills of the country, favoring curtailment of production, because of the belief that the prices of cotton are higher than warranted by the crop outlook, is unfounded and appeals to the farmers to resist "the bear raid, since the condition of the world's peace insures ready markets and all supplies are rising in value."

Senator Smith adds that the reports received by him as head of a movement by cotton planters to ascertain exact conditions concerning the present crop, indicate that it will fall far below last season's crop. He gives the following figures: Louisiana, crop half million, mostly sold; balance likely to be held despite high prices. Arkansas, crop 35 to 40 per cent short; selling fast, with no disposition to hold. North Carolina, about same as last year; farmers able to hold. Texas, crop about 40 per cent short; will make between 2,000,000 and 2,500,000 bales, obliged to sell. Mississippi, 1,500,000 bales, 20 per cent short.

Other states report good crops, with farmers generally able to hold.

MINISTER CASTRO

SAYS APPEAL MAY BE MADE TO ARBITRATION COURT

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 21.—If it is true, as some reports indicate, that other nations in Central America, notably Guatemala, are assisting the Estrada revolution in Nicaragua, Francisco Castro, Nicaraguan minister to this country, said yesterday the matter will be taken at once to the Central American court of arbitration at Cartago, Costa Rica.

All Central American countries are bound by the Washington treaties of 1907, which the international court is the territory of one another. The minister declares, and they are emphatically forbidden to aid revolutions. If, says the minister, it is proven that Guatemala or any other Central American country is aiding the Estrada revolution, a suitable penalty will be meted out by the court.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1909. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

LOWELL AS AN ASCENSION STATION.

Lowell citizens will welcome the New England Aero club in coming here to conduct a series of balloon ascensions for experimental and other purposes. The prospect of making Lowell a permanent ascension station is one that should be pleasing to the community in general. The balloon ascensions will not attract so much attention outside of Lowell as did the automobile races, but still they will serve as an advertisement that will be of some value to our city.

It is fitting that Lowell should be an ascension station for the Aero club inasmuch as the leading spirit of the club, Mr. Charles J. Glidden, is a Lowell man. Mr. Glidden is indebted to Lowell for past favors, and if he has any favors to grant in the selection of an ascension station he should certainly confer them upon this city. The ascensions will offer amusement to the citizens of Lowell and suburbs, and will serve as a fit prelude to the time when we shall have an exhibition of flying machines as a substitute for the auto races which a good many people assert we shall have "never again."

FIRE COMMITTEE REPORT.

That was a remarkably good report made by the committee on fire department, and its recommendations are mainly in the line of progress, although some of them would entail more expense than the city can afford at the present time.

Everybody will agree that the time has arrived when automobile trucks should displace some of the fire teams used and that this would be a source of economy. It is claimed that the fire automobile if properly used will do four times as much work as a team of horses and cost but half as much. The fire auto has been so well tried out recently in Springfield and other cities that its superior value is beyond question.

With the addition of fifteen men recommended by the committee the fire department should certainly be one of the most efficient in the state, but if we are to have labor saving machines why increase the number of men?

The recommendation for a drill school is also a good one. The firemen have to spend a large portion of their time sitting around the stations. Through inactivity they lose strength and agility, both of which might be kept up by frequent drills. The drill would also increase their value as fire fighters and would enable them to use the apparatus far more effectively.

THE POOR BOY AND HIS OPPORTUNITIES.

There are a great many boys in Lowell, who, on account of poor circumstances, believe they are debarred from rising to positions of eminence. These boys do not appreciate the opportunities of education and advancement that lie within their grasp. If they live in a city like Lowell they have only to look around to find many opportunities to advance themselves, either in education or in industry. They can avail themselves of the evening schools to learn any ordinary branch of an English education. They can attend the evening sessions of the Textile school and master the principles of a textile trade by which they can rise to better things. Or they can learn a trade in some of the big workshops or factories by which they can earn a livelihood. If they have any special ambition to enter any of the professions they can save their money and study in that direction. If they are made of the right stuff nothing can keep them down. The boy who is poor, thinks he is handicapped, but he has positive advantages over the boy that is spoiled by luxury. The children of the very wealthy are strangers to the trials, the labor and the tribulations that serve to develop muscle and brain and to build up character.

It is better for a boy to have difficulties to overcome. Even in study many parents and some educators endeavor to remove all the difficulties, forgetting that this deprives the education of much of its value. The study of the dead languages may not serve the student in any practical way, but it develops the mind, and that in itself is a very important matter. The problem that requires the most study is longest remembered and most easily applied in practical work. The education that comes easily usually slips from the memory just as readily. As a rule it may be said that self-education is best because it is purchased by the greatest labor.

The poor boy can accomplish a great deal by the assiduous application of his talents in the right direction, but it will not pay him to injure his health by over-work. Better be satisfied with a trade that can be easily acquired than strive for one, the acquisition of which will injure the health.

For the smart, diligent boy today there are many opportunities that were unknown a few years ago. Only a few weeks ago a local car conductor got a position in Washington as a stenographer. He had made himself proficient in the art by regular practice during his leisure hours. He is only one of several who might be mentioned as having secured remunerative appointments through the civil service. There are civil service examinations held under different bureaus to fill federal, state and municipal positions, and the student who sets out to secure a certain position and studies the subjects of examination will succeed in the end if he has the grit to persevere.

Few young men have any accurate idea of the vast possibilities of mental development. They regard their knowledge and ability as fixed and make but slight allowance for the vast possibilities of education and acquisition if they set out to develop their mental faculties. The memory, the reasoning power and manual dexterity may all be developed to a wonderful degree by continued effort of the right kind along the lines indicated. Instead, therefore, of whining because other boys have more assistance than you, go to work and overcome the obstacles that lie between you and success. In the single-handed battle of life you will outstrip the boy brought up in the lap of luxury or if you do not it is because you have not applied your talents or that you have applied them in the wrong direction. They can never succeed in attaining excellence who jump about from one thing to another, or change so often that they do not work long enough at any particular thing to make it a success. To excel in any branch we must concentrate our efforts upon it to the exclusion of other branches. The modern tendency is to specialize. The man who excels today is a specialist in one or two things. The "Jack of all trades" is a back number. The worst mistake a boy can make is to waste his early years in jumping from one occupation to another before settling down to his life work. It is important to make a right selection as early as possible and then climb towards the top.

SEEN AND HEARD

If either Peary or Cook arrived at the North pole their presence there didn't affect the northern lights. There was a brilliant display of aurora borealis a few evenings ago.

It is difficult for the average man to understand that with the death of 22,531 old soldiers during the past year the pension roll is being constantly increased, so that today it contains 533,561 names.

Few persons realize that of the 2,700,000 men who served in the Union armies during the Civil war, 800,000 were only 18 years of age or under, and that 600,000 were not more than 16 years old.

It is this latter class which has recently been added to the list, and from this time on there will be a rapid decrease.

In the attic of the old Royal House at Medford the other day, Curator E. F. Benton noticed a pair of straight lines crossed diagonally with another on a timber near the top of the stairway. "It's the old-fashioned way of marking lumber," he said, "they use a heavy pencil now. I wonder if any of the Journal's readers can tell me the origin of this method, when it was first used, and why it was stopped? The marking was done with a heavy book that has a sharp angled point at the end.

Can any of the Journal readers give explanation?—Boston Journal.

We are not prepared to tell of the origin of the method, but it is not yet solved. The same method is used today in various places, in the loading and unloading of hay, grain, potatoes, etc., to and from cars. If you don't believe it just step into an empty box car and see for yourself.

These little heart-to-heart talks, says The Woman's National Daily, are printed in the hope that a few young men may be induced to hand the ice pitcher to John Barleycorn before it is everlastingly too late. There is some hope for the festive youth who takes the thought of a drink in the morning, after a night of high wasp.

If he can be reached at the psychological moment, he may be induced to cut it out and be an ornament to his sex. But there isn't much hope for the Jolly Good Fellow who wakes up in the morning with such a bad breath that it looks like the snake from a defective dug, and who can hardly wait until he gets his clothes on for the morning horn. When a man's insides demand an alcohol bath the first thing in the morning he is in a bad way; he may fool himself into thinking that he is all right, but he can't fool the bartender, or old John Barleycorn. Most of the absinthes and other deadly dopes are sold in the early morning hours, and usually sold to Jolly Good Fellows whose nerves are in such shape that they can't drink without a funnel. It is a good thing to remember that the man who has to have a morning drink is all in; John Barleycorn has got him. The beginner turns pale at the mention of the morning drink, but after a few roundups with the boys he finds that a stom-acher at 6 a. m. braces him up temporarily, and one calls for another, and after awhile he takes six before breakfast, and then forgets to eat the breakfast.

HOW DID YOU DIE?

Did you tackle the trouble that came your way

With a resolute heart and cheerful, Or hide your face from the light of day?

With a craven soul and a fearful? Oh, a trouble's a ton, or a trouble's an ounce.

Or a trouble is what you make it. And it isn't the fact that you're hurt that counts,

But only—how did you take it?

You are beaten to earth? Well, well, what's that?

Come up with a smiling face. It's nothing against you to fall down flat.

But to lie there—that's disgrace. The more you're thrown, why, the higher you bounce.

Be proud of your blackened eye! It isn't the fact that you're whipped that counts,

It's how did you fight—and why?

And though you've come to the death, what then?

If you battled the best you could, If you played your part in the world of men,

Why, the Critic will call it good, Death comes with a crawl or comes with a pounce.

And whether it's slow or spry, It isn't the fact that you're dead that counts,

But only—how did you die? —Cook.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

The reproduction in Boston of the great spectacle, "The Orient in London," has been postponed until the spring of 1911. It will be called "The World in Boston." It is the largest missionary exhibit ever projected on this continent.

When Supt. H. C. Weber of Nashville, Tenn., was unanimously offered an increase of salary, he answered: "I cannot accept unless the salaries of the teachers are increased. The city ought not to pay its superintendent more than $3000 until it can pay its teachers a better wage."

BEAUTIFUL WOMEN

Bad Stomach Causes Unsightly Complexions. Carter & Sherburne Have a Remedy.

Bad stomachs mean bad blood; bad blood means sallow, unattractive skin. Why? The stomach in a healthy condition separates the nutritious matter from the food and gives it to the blood, to supply the entire body with nourishment.

If the stomach is not in a healthy condition it does not separate from the food the nutritious matter and it passes off with the waste.

Thus the blood is impoverished and has not sufficient nourishment to supply the muscles, skin and body generally.

If you have belching of gas, distress after eating, nausea, biliousness, nervousness or foul breath, then your stomach is wrong and you want the best prescription for stomach troubles the world has ever known.

You want M-O-N-O-L's, the great stomach remedy which Carter & Sherburne guarantee to cure indigestion no matter of how long standing, or money back.

Relieves stomach distress at once. M-O-N-O-L is sold by leading druggists everywhere and in a dozen apices in Boston. For 50 cents a large box. Send samples free from Booth's M-O-N-O-L, Buffalo, N. Y.

ELECTORAL CAMPAIGN

For the Mayoralty of New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Last night was another night of rapid stump speaking in the municipal campaign, but the three candidates produced nothing new in the way of personal attacks. William R. Hearst, the independent nominee, delivered four speeches in New York; Otto T. Bannard, the republican nominee, spoke three times in Brooklyn, and then appeared at Carnegie hall, New York, before a big fusion gathering, and William J. Gaynor, the democratic nominee, appeared at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, for his third speech of the campaign. Mr. Hearst delivered substantially the same speech at all four places. He opened with an attack on Gaynor and Tammany, reviewed his efforts for the people's welfare through his newspapers and concluded with this appeal:

"In this campaign you should not vote for any friend or favorite, but for a man who will in your opinion, do the most for your best and honest interests, and the most for the best and honest interest of all your fellow citizens."

In his address in Brooklyn, former Justice Gaynor referred smilingly to his first visit to Tammany hall Tuesday night. "I have bearded the tiger in his den," he said, "and have faced the dreaded animal without a quail and I am now convinced that nothing on earth can make me afraid."

Covering the same ground, so to speak, as Hearst, he devoted the first part of his speech to an attack on the editor, whom he called a "bellowing demagogue who has never yet read the city charter."

The ex-justice again announced his staunch support of his associates on the democratic ticket, some of whom have been criticized severely, particularly George F. Roesch, Tammany nominee for justice of the city court. The bar association of New York officially denounced Roesch as "not fit for the office," but Gaynor last night stood by the ticket.

At the Carnegie hall meeting where Hearst's name was mentioned by ex-Mayor Low there was an outburst of cheering, even at that republican gathering and Mr. Low said:

"I am glad you applauded Mr. Hearst, because he is fighting with us in this campaign against Tammany."

Mr. Bannard said, in part:

"Tammany is just a society for the promotion of graft. They are not democrats. They have lived by the people, on the people and for themselves, but I think the people are going to kill it this trip. For example, let me tell you a little tale of cast iron pipe."

"Three years ago cast iron pipe was at its highest price $22 to $24 per ton. Business men held off and would not buy it. Every one knew that price could not hold."

"Tammany hall bought 19,500 tons at the top, a difference in this purchase of just $227,500. This pipe was laid north of and south of the Harlem river to the banks for $1,005,000. They never got peritization from the United States war department to connect under the Harlem river. No water has or can run through the pipes. It all lies idle, losing $10,000 to $50,000 a year interest on the investment, and no service and no income, and now it is apparently forgotten. Every taxpayer don't see it because it is buried out of sight."

"Let me ask one question. Wouldn't a business man get a permit to cross the river before he spent the million dollars?"

HE DROPPED DEAD

Postmaster Victim of Heart Failure

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—While sitting with his father-in-law, Jacob F. French, at the home of the latter, and with the remark that he "was feeling fine," scarcely off his lips, Benjamin Barnes, postmaster of this city, who served as executive clerk under President McKinley and later as assistant secretary to President Roosevelt, dropped dead here last night of heart failure. Although restoratives were immediately applied and prompt medical assistance was rendered, Mr. Barnes expired without regaining consciousness.

Mr. Barnes had been in particularly good humor last night over the fact that he had yesterday been admitted to practice before the supreme court of the District of Columbia.

On at least two occasions Mr. Barnes' name came prominently before the public. He was alleged to have played a part in electing Mrs. Alhier Morris, a sister of Rep. D. C. Iowa, from the White House, which incident created a sensation. President Roosevelt stood resolutely by Mr. Barnes, and further emphasized his friendship by appointing him postmaster about there and a half years ago. A storm of protest was raised by Washingtonians against the appointment, and the principal objection being that he was not a local man, although Mr. Barnes had lived here for about a quarter of a century.

RACE TRACK MEN

Placed Under Arrest at Woonsocket

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Oct. 21.—A complaint filed by Truman R. Sudd, of Williamstown, Conn., a well known horseman, led to the arrest yesterday of four race track followers, who are charged with violation of the statute regarding pool selling and betting on horse races. They gave their names as John Smith, Thomas Smith, Thomas Morse and James Morse, and after pleading not guilty, in the district court were bound over to November 3 in the sum of $500 each.

Sudd alleged that the 220 pacing race at the Woonsocket track was fixed. He is the owner of Billikin which got third place in the 220 pace last Thursday.

PUBLIC HEALTH

Mrs. Crane Scores the Dept. of Agriculture

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 21.—Direct charges of incompetency in the federal department of agriculture and of disregard of the rules of the bureau of animal industry in the federal inspection of meat were made by Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane of Kalamazoo, Mich., in an address yesterday afternoon before the American Public Health Association in convention here. Mrs. Crane openly attacked the department for alleged misleading the public into believing that the meat inspected by federal officials was passed upon justly and with the best interests of the public at heart. She stated that the standards of health of animals slaughtered had dropped since the scandal in meat inspection in 1906. One of the most startling charges and one which evoked a spirited denial from Dr. M. Dorset, of the bureau of Washington, was to the effect that the department of agriculture has caused to be issued, simultaneously with the annual rules and regulations, certain "service announcements" intended for inspectors and packers only. The inspectors she said, were warned not to show or give these "service announcements" to any other persons.

Replying to Dr. Dorset's refutation of this, Mrs. Crane offered to show photographs of pages of such pamphlets.

A GREEK LEPER

Is on His Was to Genoa

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Smuggled aboard an outgoing steamer late last night Antonius Freisa, a Greek leper is now on his way to Genoa. The greatest secrecy was necessary to keep the facts from the passengers.

The leper was brought here from the colony on Penikese island, off the Massachusetts coast, by the three masted schooner Andrew J. Pierre, Captain Jesse Smith of New Bedford, Mass., in a room especially built for him in the ship's hold. A surgeon of the United States marine corps and an immigration official accompanied him.

Freisa is far advanced in the disease. He has been in the leper colony 18 months and in this country less than three years, so that his deportation by the government presented no legal difficulties. The partitions constituting his room in the schooner's hold have been torn down and burned, the vessel disinfected and her captain paid a handsome charter fee.

MRS. PANKHURST

Leader of Woman Suffragettes Arrives

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—A quiet little group of New York women, bearing banners labelled "Votes for Women" stood on a White Star pier last night and welcomed to America, Mrs. F. Gould Pankhurst of Manchester, England, the leader of the militant suffragettes of Great Britain.

In accordance with the rulings of the customs authorities, less than twenty persons were admitted upon the dock and the reception to the little woman who has served two terms of imprisonment for her activity in the cause of women's suffrage, was devoid of clamor and smacked nothing of the vigorous methods for which Mrs. Pankhurst had been famous. But immediately she set foot on the shore, she was whisked away by her admirers to a country to a suffrage headquarters at 502 Fifth avenue.

Mrs. Pankhurst is slight of stature and has a wealth of brown hair which is just turning gray. She looked the typical Englishwoman and was becoming dressed in a dress of dark material.

Mrs. Pankhurst displayed a little meditation she wore and explained that it was a distinguishing mark worn by those English women who have been imprisoned for the cause. "I suffered solitary confinement," she said, "and had only one hour of exercise out of the twenty-four. During the other twenty-three I was confined in a little cell, eight by ten feet. I had cell No. 1 on the second floor of Holloway prison and I wore the regular prison garb, too, but I did not bring this costume to New York with me."

"The movement is progressing satisfactorily in England," she went on. "We have pledged from practically two-thirds of the members of the parliament to vote for us as soon as a bill is prepared by the government. And we expect sooner or later to compel the government to introduce the bill. Just when this will come to pass I am not prepared to say."

Mrs. Pankhurst stoutly defended militant tactics. "All great movements have been worked out by violence," she said. "The American people secured their liberty by violence, so why not rush the house of commons to obtain what we regard as our rights. The ballot granted to women will make them more intelligent, less self-centered, and on the whole much better citizens."

"Don't you think there would be corrupt women politicians and women 'ward heelers'?" Mrs. Pankhurst was asked.

At this she laughed outright. Then, after a pause, she said: "Well, I don't think it could make politics any worse, at any rate."

She will speak first at Boston on Friday, will go to Worcester, Mass., on Saturday and will return to New York Sunday for a reception by the National and New York state suffrage associations at headquarters here.

SEN. MCCARREN

To be Deposed as Brooklyn Leader

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Patrick H. McCarrren in the hospital, Brooklyn, is to be deposed from the democratic leadership of that borough, according to a general report in political circles. Two insurgent or anti-McCarren borough tickets were withdrawn from the Brooklyn field yesterday with the understanding, according to a rumor, that they were to cease their fight against McCarrren on consideration of his being ousted.

The instructions, it is said, came directly from Charles F. Murphy. Representatives of the insurgent tickets called upon the board of elections and requested their names to be left off the ballot. This leaves the McCarrren ticket alone in the field in Brooklyn and while the move on one hand is said to have been the result of sympathy for Sen. McCarrren in his illness, one of McCarrren's own lieutenants said last night that the concessions made by the insurgents were the direct result of a deal to supplant him as leader.

CUTS PRICE OF PAPER

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The New York Tribune founded by Horace Greeley, in 1841, announced with its issue this morning that two radical changes had been made—the price has been cut from three cents to one cent while the familiar six column make-up has been changed to seven columns. The change created wide comment throughout the city.

When the Tribune was founded in 1841, the original price was one cent which was changed to three several years later, a standard that had been maintained until the cut today. William R. Reld owns the controlling interest in the paper. Ogden Mills, his father-in-law, is president of the company.

SOME POPULAR INDOOR DIVERSIONS FOR YOUNG FOLK ON HALLOWE'EN

For those young persons who prefer milder Halloween pranks than putting Johnson's wheelbarrow on Bilkins' front porch, planting barbers' poles in front of churches and otherwise altering the scenery surreptitiously there are many interesting and entertaining diversions. The girls usually go in for ducking for apples, burning lucky candles, telling fortunes or questioning the mirror for a glimpse of the lucky young man who may be a future husband. The lucky candle game is an old and popular one. A tub half filled with water is placed in the middle of the floor, and lighted wax candles, set on bits of wood, are floated on the surface of the water. Each person participating in the game chooses a candle, and the one whose candle burns longest will be attended by the best luck through life. Ducking for apples is more fun for those who look on than the ones who do the ducking, for it is no easy matter to lean over a tub of water and pick up a floating apple with your teeth. Halloween, or Hallow Even, the evening of Oct. 31, is so called as being the vigil of All Hallows. It is associated popularly with the prevalence of supernatural influences, and in Scotland the ceremonies of the eve were formerly regarded as a highly superstitious sight. The principal object in consulting the future was to discover who should be the partner for life. Popular belief ascribed to children born on Halloween the faculty of perceiving and holding converse with supernatural beings.

SUPREME COURT PARDON GRANTED RETIRING ENVOY

Says Railways Must Pay But it Arrived Too Late Is Soon to Return From France

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—The full bench of the supreme court yesterday overruled a plea and a demurrer filed by the Fitchburg & Leominster Street Railway company to an action brought by the aldermen of Fitchburg against the Boston & Maine company et al.

Plaintiff petitioned the court to appoint a special commission to determine which party should do the work of making alterations in the river street bridge, Fitchburg, where it crosses under the tracks of the B. & A. railroad and to apportion the cost among the Boston & Maine road, the Fitchburg & Leominster company and the cities and towns peculiarly benefited.

The railway company contended it was not an interested party, and maintained that a portion of the cost only where their tracks were on a bridge which crossed a railroad. Any doubt regarding the statute, the court says, was removed by the act of 1905, defining the duties of county commissioners in the alterations of crossings.

The court further says that in the act of 1898 street railway companies are not only made parties to the proceedings and liable for contribution to the expenses, but counties, cities and towns specially benefited must pay a part of the cost.

It holds that a street railway having tracks in a highway is a party interested in the alteration of a railroad crossing on or over the way, and is liable for its proper portion of the expenses.

BROCKTON, Oct. 21.—Checkmated by death a few hours before he was to have received a pardon from Gov. Draper, Francis Flood, 66 years old, of this city, died at the Charlestown state prison Tuesday night. The body was brought to Brockton late yesterday afternoon for burial.

Flood was sentenced to from four to seven years from Plymouth superior court three years and a half ago for alleged felonious assault. Other than the crime of which he was convicted his life is stated to have been without a blemish.

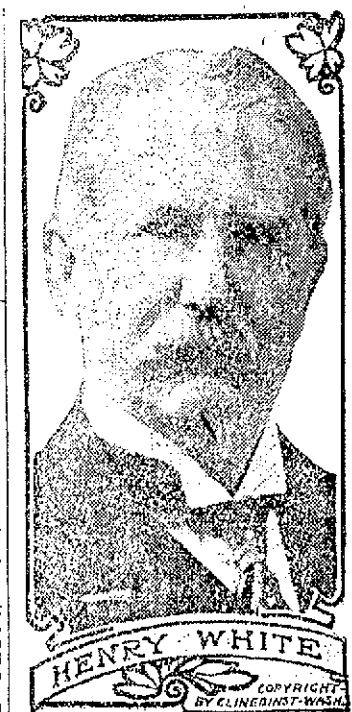

He had a wife and family. He was a plasterer, a competent and steady worker and was held in good repute. Some weeks ago a brother-in-law, Alford Decosta, learned that Flood was seriously ill. Friday he was notified that Flood's condition was critical and about the only thing which might prolong his life was to remove him from the prison.

Decosta enlisted the aid of Judge Walter I. Lane and the latter petitioned to Gov. Draper, receiving a letter yesterday that there was not sufficient time for an investigation and consideration of the case this week. Flood had a bad turn Monday night. The assent of Dist. Atty. Thomas E. Grover to the pardon was quickly obtained and the prison commissioners made an immediate inquiry and a favorable report.

Judge Lane then secured a hearing with the governor, set for Wednesday and on the first Monday morning. When they reached the state house Decosta telephoned to the prison for news of Flood.

"He died during the night," they told him.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Henry White, the retiring ambassador to France, will arrive in New York before Nov. 1 and will attend several banquets which are being arranged in his honor. Mr.

HENRY WHITE

White probably will have some very interesting things to say regarding the tariff controversy which is going on between the United States and the French government. There is talk in Washington that if France persists in her arrogant determination to impose maximum tariff rates on imports from this country the government will retaliate by rigorously enforcing the pure food law upon French wines.

MILL OPERATIVES

Want Longer Holiday on Saturday

A petition is being circulated in the Tremont & Suffolk mills for a longer holiday on Saturday. The petition is for shutting off work at 10 o'clock every Saturday morning after January 1. It is said that a like petition is to be circulated in other mills and that it will eventually include the cotton mill belt.

Under the recent act which cut down the working week to 56 hours in the mills, beginning Jan. 1, 1910, the schedule proposed in some cities provides for 20 minutes reduction daily to make up the two hours less time per week.

It was proposed to start work at 6.40 a. m. and end the day at 5.50 p. m. Under the petition in the Tremont & Suffolk, the operatives will work the usual schedule each day for five days, and will quit at 10 a. m. Saturday.

DONNELLY ARRESTED

The Trouble Arose Over Dispute About Donlon's Horse

James J. Donnelly, a wood and coal dealer, who has a place of business at 16 South Highland street, near the corner of Gorham street, was arrested in the police station this morning by Inspector Martin Maher who had a warrant in his pocket for Donnelly's arrest.

The warrant was sworn out by John T. Donlon, a horse trader, residing at 78 Congress street, who claims that Donnelly stole a horse belonging to him. Donnelly admits that he took the horse, but says that he was entitled to do so inasmuch as he won it on a wager.

According to the story told, Donnelly and Donlon had been discussing the merits of their respective horses. Donnelly contended that he had a horse that could travel better than "half past two," while Donlon claimed that his friend's horse was nothing more or less than a "skate," and would drop dead if it went for any distance.

The argument waxed warm and it was agreed that Donnelly and Donlon would drive their horses from this city to Lawrence and back and the owner of the horse which finished first was to become the owner of the defeated animal.

Monday was the day set for the big race and the appointed hour Mr. Donnelly put in an appearance but Donlon was among the missing. Donnelly felt that as his opponent had allowed the race to go by default, he was the winner and forthwith went to Humphrey's stable in Gorham street and took Donlon's horse and put it up in his stable.

Donnelly later met Donlon, it is alleged, and after the latter had agreed to pull off the race yesterday, Donnelly returned Donlon's horse.

Yesterday at the time designated for the start Donnelly was on hand, but Donlon was missing again. Donnelly applied the whip to his horse, sending him down the street at a fairly good rate of speed. He went over the road to Lawrence and upon arriving in the downriver city telephoned to one of his friends in this city that he was ready to start back to Lowell.

When he arrived in Lowell several hours later he was greeted by a color of friends and was tendered a grand reception. He informed his friends that while he had won Donlon's horse on Monday, that he had carried out his part of the agreement this time and straightway he went to Humphrey's stable and removed the horse.

When Donlon heard that the horse was gone he went to Donnelly and tried to have the latter return the animal, but Donnelly said: "Not this time, John. I might have been technically guilty if I had kept the horse Monday, but today I have carried out my part of the agreement, and as I am the winner I intend to retain possession of the animal."

"If you don't return the horse I will have you arrested," said Donlon.

"You can't frighten me, I know my rights, and I won the horse fair and square," was the answer.

Donlon didn't intend to lose his horse without a struggle, however, and accordingly made his way to the police station and swore out a warrant against Donnelly.

Donnelly having got wind that his friend had applied for a warrant decided that he would consult his lawyer and went to his place of business in the Central block only to find that the lawyer was pleading a case in court this morning.

Donnelly immediately made for the police court, but he had no sooner entered the building than Martin Maher, armed with the warrant for his arrest, met him in the doorway and placed him under arrest.

BIG BOILER HOUSE

To be Built at Harvard Brewery

The Harvard Brewing Co. is about to make still another important addition to its plant, having taken out a permit to build a $14,000 brick boiler house off Payton street, in the rear of its larger brewery. The new building will be of first class construction and thoroughly fireproof, and will be 80 feet by 49, and one story high. P. O'Hearn is the contractor.

Inspector of Buildings Dow spent yesterday in Boston making a study of steel and concrete construction, visiting with the experts several big jobs in line of work in Boston and Cambridge. Mr. Dow is most enthusiastic over what he saw and learned, and believes that this style of construction is going to accomplish wonders in building.

FATALLY INJURED

Man Was Run Over by Coal Car

Headed by Premier Maura Resigned Today

John Devoe, about 32 years of age, and employed at the Boot mills, was run over by a heavily laden coal car in Amory street near the corner of Bridge street about 4.45 o'clock this morning and suffered injuries which resulted in his death at the Lowell hospital at 11.45 o'clock.

It was while attempting to save himself from being injured after the car had tipped to one side, that he fell in front of the car and both wheels passed over his body, dismembering him and cutting off one of his legs.

After the car had passed over the body and crashed against the end of the building the injured man was picked up by fellow employees, assisted by several passersby, and everything possible done until the ambulance came. He was then taken to the Lowell hospital and placed on the operating table. Despite the fact that the surgeons at the hospital did everything in their power to save his life he died two hours after arriving there.

Employed as Laborer

Devoe was employed as a laborer by the Boot mills and was one of a gang of men who shift coal cars from the siding in Amory street to the coal pockets of the mill.

It is the custom of the company after the cars are left standing on the tracks to shift them into the coal sheds with the assistance of a pair of horses. The horses are attached to the car and haul it along at a fair rate of speed until a curve, leading into the shed, is reached. The horses are then detached and the car travels over the single rail under the momentum, a man being stationed at the brake to bring the car to a stop at the desired place.

The coal car in question was of the ordinary tip type, which can be turned on either side to dump the coal, the top of the car being held in position by two hooks on each side.

This morning Devoe was assigned to man the brake of the car which figured in the accident. When the horses were attached to the car he mounted the front and with his hands on the brake stood on the car while the horses pulled it to the switch. Just as the horses were detached one of the hooks got loose from its fastenings and dropped to the ground and the force with which the car struck the curve caused the other hook on that side to become released causing the top of the car to tip to the right.

As the car started to tip, the man at the brake evidently realizing that he was in danger of his life tried to save himself but fell directly in front of the wheels, which passed over his body and then crashed into the side of the building at a point over the canal bridge and on the track entering the shed.

A Terrible Sight

The wheels of the car passed over the middle of the man's body and one of his legs. He was dragged a short distance and then thrown to one side, bleeding profusely and almost completely covered with coal dust.

His fellow employees were so dazed for a few minutes that they did not seem to know what to do.

James F. Flemings, a clerk for the Flemings paper and twine company, was passing in his carriage at the time, and taking the situation in at a glance grabbed a heavy horse blanket from the seat and rushing to the injured man, covered him with the blanket and did everything possible to relieve his sufferings until other came to his assistance.

The ambulance was summoned and made a quick trip to the scene and then removed the man to the Lowell hospital.

Last Rites of Church

Rev. Fr. Len. of Jefferson, Mass., who was visiting relatives in this city, happened to be passing a few minutes after the accident occurred and being attracted to the scene administered the last rites of the church.

Displayed Great Courage

Despite the fact that the man was almost cut in two he remained conscious until the ambulance arrived. In the meantime he never uttered a moan. He spoke, but his words were incoherent.

Died at the Hospital

Examination at the hospital showed that the man was suffering from a compound comminuted fracture of the thigh bone and pelvis. He died at 11.45 o'clock.

CABINET

Man Accused of Trying to Burn His Wife

MADRID, Oct. 21.—The Spanish cabinet, headed by Premier Maura, resigned this afternoon.

The fall of the cabinet was regarded as inevitable after the bitter speech of Minister of the Interior Laidola in the chamber of deputies last night, during which he attacked the liberals with the republicans and socialists who were arrayed against the throne.

Today King Alfonso summoned Premier Maura, Senor Dato, former minister of the Interior and other leaders in parliament. The impression continues that the liberals will refuse to assume power, preferring to leave the conservatives to extricate themselves from the present situation as best they can.

Man Accused of Trying to Burn His Wife

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Assault with intent to kill was the technical charge preferred today against Hyman Gerowsky, who the police allege attempted early today to burn his wife alive. The announcement was also made by the authorities that an additional charge of arson would be lodged against Gerowsky. According to the story given out by the police, Gerowsky and his wife have been living in a state of discord for some time past. Early today, the police say, Gerowsky arose and dressed in the night clothes of his wife and the coverings of the bed in which she was sleeping with kerosene and then lighted the oil-soaked fabric. Mrs. Gerowsky awoke suddenly and leaped out of bed with her night clothes in flames. Her fifteen-year-old son, Israel, put out the fire and then ran to the Joy street police station which is located near the section of the West End where Gerowsky and his family lives. Two officers went to the house and extinguished the fire in the bedroom.

Later Gerowsky appeared at the police station and told the officers that some unknown man had forced an entrance into his house and tried to set it on fire. Gerowsky was arrested on the spot.

The state police assisted the city officers in investigating the affair and during the forenoon announced that they had established a conclusive case against Gerowsky.

Gerowsky was brought into court within a few hours after his arrest. After a few words of testimony by the officers, he was held in $5000 for the grand jury on the charge of assault with intent to kill and arson.

The police stated that Gerowsky had been married 21 years ago, but that his wife had left him three times. He failed to furnish bail and was removed to jail.

AUTOPSY HELD

On the Body of the Girl Murdered in Fall River

FALL RIVER, Oct. 21.—Medical Examiner Thomas Gunning and his associates were at work in a local undertaking shop this afternoon trying to determine by an autopsy what caused the death of the girl whose dismembered body was found distributed along the lonely Bulgermarsh highroad in Tiverton. Meanwhile the police of this city were putting forth every means in their power to locate the missing head and prove their theory beyond a reasonable doubt that Miss Amelia, St. Jean of Woonsocket had been murdered.

It was plainly evident that they regarded the herb shop as the scene of the crime for a gang of men were at work pulling down the partitions and digging up the ground all about to find the missing head of the victim.

CITY HALL NOTES

The board of health will confer with the officials of the American Hide and Leather company tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock when a meeting of the board will also be held at its office in city hall. It is expected that at this meeting the company will inform the board where it would like to locate its beaming plant recently burned out in Howe street.

The health records show that the city is comparatively free from contagious diseases at this time of the year. There are 14 cases of diphtheria and 8 of scarlet fever on the record for the week.

All was quiet at the house of trouble today, as quiet as the meeting held in Pawtucketville a few evenings ago.

Speaking of Pawtucketville it would appear that Supt. Putnam is taking a long chance with some of the eminent powers that be for passersby in Mammoth road of late have been holding their heads high in the air as the result of vile odors emanating apparently from the catch basin located within a few feet of the homes of the chief executive, Mr. Brady of the charity board, and Agent Bates of the health department.

Inasmuch as the charity board has been the first department to show the official necessity of a waste basket and as the chairman of that august body is of the gentler sex, why not swap the beautiful brass cuspidor that adorns the office of the board for a good sized waste basket as the cuspidor for these days is only an ornament, while the waste basket has become a necessity, which bids fair as time goes along to be filled with reports from Mr. Howe containing painful facts, more painful by reason of their truth.

SCHOOL MASTERS

Held a Meeting and Discussed Educational Affairs

New Rule of School Board Which Promises Good Results—Evening High School Runs Ahead of Last Year

While some of the rules recently adopted by the school board have caused much adverse criticism one which undoubtedly will operate for the good of the school system was put into effect when the first of a series of monthly meetings of the grammar school principals was held at the rooms of the school board at city hall, Supt. Whitcomb presiding. It was under the rule the superintendent called the general meetings of all the teachers at the beginning of each term at which addresses were made upon matters pertaining to the welfare of the school system. The new rule requires, in addition to the general meeting of all the teachers, a monthly meeting of the grammar school masters.

All of the masters with the exception of one who is ill, were in attendance and a very pleasant conference lasting nearly two hours, resulted. The meeting was entirely informal and all of the masters took part in the discussion. Various matters were discussed and suggestions made and committees were appointed to look into certain matters suggested and to report at a later meeting. Supt. Whitcomb was most enthusiastic over the first meeting and believes that the meetings will be productive of excellent results.

While the new law reducing the age of those who must attend evening school from 21 years to 18 years, has caused a slight falling off in the attendance of the elementary evening schools, the decrease in attendance is not as great as was anticipated and the substantial increase in the attendance at the evening high school makes the general average on a par with that of last year. The high school shows a marked increase in membership and its success is thoroughly deserved as it has proved its worth in the community.

As yet no teachers have been dropped on account of small attendance and in fact there are but two schools in which there is any likelihood of any being dropped from present indications. The school board this year started with 25 less teachers than last year and has been obliged to add one for the Middlesex Village school opened this year for the first time and with only one teacher the need of a second teacher was apparent at the very opening and the teacher was supplied.

EXPLODER COOK TRIPLE MURDER

Reached the Pole, Says Man, Wife and Her Sister Killed

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 21.—Dr. Otto Mordenskjold, the Antarctic explorer, expressed himself today as much impressed with the work brought from Knud Rasmussen, the explorer now in Greenland, by the Greenland steamer Godthaab.

Rasmussen is reported as quite convinced, through talks with the Eskimos, that Dr. Cook reached the North pole.

"The message from Rasmussen," the doctor said, "leaves me without a doubt that Dr. Cook reached the pole as he stated. I deplore, however, the fact that Cook failed to turn over his observations to the University of Copenhagen immediately upon his arrival in Denmark. Had he done this he would have deprived Commander Peary of an opportunity to allege that his Pole data was made to order after Cook reached New York. Such allegations, however, will not be given credence by anyone who, like myself, is well acquainted with Cook, knowing him as a conscientious explorer."

Railroad Commission in Accident

A collision between the regular electric car from Lowell to Nashua on the Hudson line and a special car going from Nashua to the state line and containing the members of the New Hampshire railroad commission, occurred near the Morris farm, at 11.30 yesterday morning. With the commission at the time of the collision was Supt. Thomas Lee of the Boston & Northern street railway. The front of the special car was banged up considerably and two windows were broken. The occupants of neither car were injured.

Under ordinary circumstances, it would have been possible to avert the collision but as there were leaves on the track, the cars slid toward each other after the brakes were applied.

Passengers on the regular car were badly shaken up, and for some time it was believed that one, a woman who had but recently undergone an operation in a Nashua hospital and was returning to her home, had been seriously injured. Other passengers assisted her to the home of P. J. Connell where she received attention.

Motorman Horace D. Campbell and Conductor Henry Penney were in charge of the regular car. Motorman Francis Bouley and Conductor John Downey had charge of the commission car.

The members of the railroad commission who were on the special car at the time of the collision were: Chairman, Arthur C. Whittemore; Dover, Judge George E. Bales; Wilton, and Judge Oscar L. Young of Laconia.

The railroad commission was in Nashua to inspect street railway and railroad facilities there.

SUPREME COURT

Denies Petition of Albert Bigelow

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—The petition of Albert Bigelow of this city for a rehearing of the suit brought by the Old Dominion Copper Mining & Smelting Co. to recover from him alleged wrongful profits and recently decided against him, was denied by the full bench of the supreme court today. It is not yet known whether an attempt will be made to carry the case to the supreme court of the United States, although it is understood that Mr. Bigelow's attorneys are trying to discover sufficient grounds for such action.

By the judgment of the lower court recently sustained by the supreme court, Mr. Bigelow must pay about $2,000,000 to the Old Dominion Copper Mining & Smelting Co., this sum representing profits he is alleged to have made wrongfully in connection with the sale to the company of the Old Dominion Copper Mining Co.

The engineer and a fireman were thrown under the engine and badly scalded before they could be taken out. The two men were buried in the wreck for over an hour.

6 O'CLOCK AN INJUNCTION ISSUED In Order To Prevent the Transfer of Stock

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 21.—A temporary injunction restraining the transfer of stock alleged to have been secured by the American Banking Co., of Boston, from Mrs. Susan Littlehale of Holliston by fraudulent misrepresentations, was issued by Judge Edward A. Pierce, sitting in the equity session in Boston today, following the filing of a bill in equity on behalf of Mrs. Littlehale in the office of the clerk of the superior court here yesterday. It was known last night that such a bill had been filed, but the clerk refused to divulge its contents at that time or to make known by whom it had been filed. Today it was announced that the bill had been filed by the law firm of Merriam, Hooper & Hill of Boston on behalf of Mrs. Littlehale, and was directed against the American Banking Co., Charles S. Cummings, treasurer of the company, R. S. Stone, said to be connected with the company, the Boston & Albany R. Co., and the Framingham National bank. In the bill Mrs. Littlehale asks forth that on Sept. 15 last, Stone, purporting to be acting for the American Banking Co., induced her to transfer to him five shares of the capital stock of the Boston & Al-

THE ASSESSORS TO PLAY GOLF

Hear Petition for Abatement of Taxes

LAWRENCE, Oct. 21.—The assessors yesterday gave a hearing on the petition of the Essex company for abatement of the excess tax levied upon it this year in consequence of the contention of Mayor White that the corporation was not paying a sufficient amount. Frank E. Dunbar appeared in behalf of the company, and there were also present at the hearing Mayor White and the members of the commission appointed by him and on whose recommendation the extra levy was made. These comprised Franklin B. Har- R. Lawrence, Hugo Bell, A. B. Sutherland and Horace Smith, Deputy State Tax Commissioner. Fales was also in attendance.

Mr. Dunbar contended that the assessors had acted under a mistaken idea. The company questions the validity of the assessment levied on the dam and land under the north and south canals. These aggregated $1,020,000. The company maintained that water power could not be taxed as such, but its value must go with the land which appropriates it. The water power is utilized by the mills and consequently makes the land occupied by the factories more valuable.

Furthermore, it is held that the land under the north canal cannot be taxed as this is a public highway and is no more liable to taxation than a public street. The company's charter provides that it shall maintain locks in the canal to permit the passage of craft through it.

Mayor White desired to know if the company's books were at hand as he had requested, but they were not. Mr. Dunbar also called attention to the fact that the tax commissioners' department had reduced the assessed valuation fixed by $345,000.

BILL IN EQUITY

To Restrain Natick's Chief of Police

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—A petition was brought against Chief of Police Peter G. Klein of Natick in the United States circuit court yesterday by the Natick Interstate Express company, seeking by a bill in equity to restrain Chief Klein from selling express packages of liquor shipped from outside the state to citizens of Natick. The company contends that it is a chartered express company of Massachusetts, entitled to do an interstate business, and that on August 21, 1909, Chief Klein seized a package of liquor shipped by parties in Sutton, Mass., via Woonsocket, R. I., to parties in Natick.

Chief Klein contends that the express company is engaged solely in the business of carrying liquors and is therefore not a bona fide express company in the intent and meaning of the law.

ANNUAL REUNION of Immaculate Conception Parish Last Evening

Rev. Geo. Nolan, O. M. I., Greeted by His Parishioners—Excellent Stage Performance Enjoyed

The annual reunion of the parishioners of the Immaculate Conception church was held last evening in Association hall with an attendance that crowded the large hall to the doors. Not only were about all the families of the parish represented but many from the other parishes of the city were in attendance and all had a merry time. The hall was prettily decorated with autumn foliage and flowers while the different booths in the corners of the hall were beautifully adorned, temptingly laden and charmingly attended. All the booths did a flourishing business.

The affair was of more than ordinary interest for the many of the parishioners an opportunity to meet the new pastor, Rev. George Nolan, O. M. I. for the first time. Fr. Nolan was present during the greater part of the evening and was kept busy shaking hands with the members of his flock. He was greatly pleased with the large attendance and the cordial spirit with which he was greeted on all sides. Among the other clergymen present were Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I., Rev. William Patton, O. M. I., Rev. John P. Flynn, O. M. I., and Rev. John P. O'Brien, O. M. I., all of the Immaculate Conception church, and Rev. John Duffy, O. M. I., Green Bay, Wis.; Rev. James Duffy and Rev. Fr. Lyons, the latter of St. Boston; Rev. Fr. Phelan and Strauss of the Novitiate at Newbury, and Rev. Fr. Dorgan, O. M. I., of Buffalo.

The stage performance came up to expectations and much was expected of it.

The one-act comedy, "The First Rehearsal," was given by the Y. M. C. I. Choral society, with the following cast of characters: "Lillian" by Miss May E. Whitley, stage manager, Edward Shira, property boy, Frank McCarty, stage carpenter, William Marren, and scene shifter, Anthony Doyle. Assisting in the presentation were: James E. Donnelly, James McNulty, John J. Dalton, Andrew Doyle, John E. McCall, Joseph McFarland, Miss Elizabeth McFarland, Ella Shera, Thomas Brennan, Mabelle Booth, Ella Cox and Mary McFadden, and Frank Ready, John Cleary, William Campbell, Michael Calan and James Carlin.

The various musical numbers offered by the cast of principals and by soloists of "The First Rehearsal" were musically well done. Mr. McFarland gave the opening song entitled "Daisies Won't Tell." Mr. Marren, with a brace of well timed parodies, scored one of the great big hits of the show. The audience liked the fare offered by Marren and demanded more of it. Andrew Doyle sang the sentimental ballad entitled "Meet Me in Dreamland," and Miss Whitley pleased much with a soprano number. Mr. McCarty gave the noted "Garden of Roses." It was an excellent number. Mr. Shea contributed "Barney McCreck," "Milk and Honey," "My Love," and "The Girl Who Sang the Customary Popular Hit, 'I'm Going to Do as I Please.'" Mr. McNulty spilled in another humorous number, and Mr. Dalton gave a selected number. The performance closed with "Bunches of Kisses," by Anthony Doyle and company, and music was under the direction of Mr. McCarty. Gilmore's orchestra, William Gilmore's leader, furnished adequate accompaniment.

The performance was over at 10 o'clock. Thereafter dancing started, and was kept up until midnight. Mr. J. King was general manager, and James J. Flannery was his assistant. James J. Flannery was floor director and John H. McCaffrey was assistant. Paul H. McCaffrey was chief aid. His assistants were John C. Farrington, Eugene C. Queenan, Thomas McCann, Terrence E. Leonard, John Downey, Paul Clark, William Maloney, John E. O'Connor, Wm. L. Gookin, James McNulty, Jos. E. Burns, Wm. C. Harrington, Elias A. McQuade, Jr., and Patrick Farrell.

OFFICIAL Is Alleged Against Federal Prisoner

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 21.—Stories are being circulated today by friends of Gutierrez de Lara, the federal prisoner, to the effect that there is an official plot against the Mexican. It is declared that there is a direct connection between the De Lara case and the robbery of the post office at Terminal Island and near San Pedro Tuesday. The significant fact in the robbery is said to be that the only mail taken was that from Mexico, including letters to friends of De Lara. Washington officials have been notified.

The Herald today says that two members of the Los Angeles police force are accused in serving the Mexican government in cases where political religious have been arrested or imprisoned. The officers, according to the newspaper are believed to be the ones who gave information to Immigration Inspector McDugway purporting to show that De Lara is an anarchist and an alien who under the law should be deported to Mexico. One of these officers at least is said to have been active in obtaining evidence which was used in sending the alleged revolutionary Maggon, Villareal and Rivera to the Arizona penitentiary for violating the federal neutrality laws.

As far as the local authorities know the Mexican government has no desire for De Lara's return. The immigration officials say that if he can show that his convictions as to the existing forms of government and his federal conduct are not objectionable as measured by standards applied to every alien, he can remain here indefinitely if he does not violate other laws.

The examination will be held as soon as necessary papers arrive from Washington, probably next week.

IRELAND'S CAUSE

BRILLIANT PATRIOTS COMING HERE NEXT TUESDAY

In Association hall next Tuesday evening there will be a big demonstration under the auspices of the United Irish league at which the speakers will be Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M. P., Capt. Edward O'Meagher Condon and John O'Callaghan.

Mr. O'Connor is one of the ablest orators of the present day and an editor of eminent ability in London. He has been in the house of commons for 26 years and is highly esteemed by the English people as well as those of his own race. Capt. Edward O'Meagher Condon was sentenced to death in 1867 with Allen, Larkin and O'Brien, the Manchester martyrs, but being an American citizen he escaped the death penalty.

His sentence was commuted, and after eleven years in prison he was liberated on condition that he would leave the country. He has just returned from Ireland after a wonderful tour in which the highest honors were heaped upon him. He can testify to the great work accomplished by the parliamentary movement.

John O'Callaghan, who accompanied Mr. Condon, is the national secretary of the United Irish league and an untiring worker in the cause.

The meeting will be the most interesting of the kind ever held in Lowell. See ad.

FRUIT DEALER CHARGED WITH ASSAULT GOES FREE

Wedding Postponed Because the Bridegroom Got Drunk and Had to Appear in Police Court

Mahomet Karan, who keeps a fruit store in Broadway, in the vicinity of Wylie street, was arraigned in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with assault and battery on Anna Gorainik, the five-year-old daughter of Frank Gorainik, who keeps a second hand clothing store near the place of the defendant.

The little girl testified that about 7.30 o'clock on the night of October 7th she with two little boys was standing near the fruit stand when Karan slapped her in the face and kicked her. Karan denied that he struck her. He said that he had been bothered by children stealing fruit from him and on the night of the alleged assault he ordered the little girl away from the stand. She refused to go and he took her by the arm and walked her into the middle of the street.

During the course of the cross-examination of the little girl counsel for the defense made her admit that her father had promised the two witnesses for the government—little boys—that he would give them ten cents and a pair of stockings apiece and take them to the show if they would testify in court that Karan hit his daughter.

The boys when placed on the stand admitted that they had received the money and the stockings but as yet had not witnessed the show. The court after considering the testimony found the defendant not guilty and ordered him discharged.

Walking is not only the easiest, the most convenient, and the most pleasurable, but the healthiest of all rational exercise. But to enjoy walking you must have the right kind of shoes—shoes that support the arch of your foot, that will grasp the foot at the waist, back of the ball, that will hold your heel firmly in place, so that when you lift your feet you lift your shoes without exertion. If they continue to build shoes such as they are building today, how long do you suppose it will be before the American people will become a nation of cripples? If they build bridges the same as they build shoes, how many accidents do you suppose would be recorded in a day? Don't you think that a human being should be shod with the same degree of science as a horse? If you had a valuable horse would you allow the blacksmith to place the caulks which in the middle of his shoes, the same as the young ladies of our country are wearing the heels of their shoes, set away down in the shank two inches high when an inch would be enough if the shoe was built right? If the ordinary bridge was built without any support only at both ends how long do you suppose it would carry its weight without breaking down? Think of the human freight that is carried day by day on a pair of shoes without any support whatever from the heel to the ball, only a little piece of thin leather, not even a steel shank as they used to use in days gone by, when shoes were made to walk in. I understand that there is a factory up in New Hampshire where they make nothing but wooden shanks for shoes, which are taking the place of steel shanks, the thickness varying from one-tenth to three-sixteenths of an inch. With this kind of a shank and the foot propped up in the air, would it support a person who weighs anywhere from one hundred to two hundred and fifty pounds, especially when the heel is away under or away back from the line of weights? Is it any wonder then that people have less desire to walk? Is it any wonder that men and women are troubled with tired feet and limbs, pains in the back and in the calves of their legs, and they don't know what the trouble is until they consult their family physician? Then they find that the trouble is with their feet. Those who don't use judgment in such a case run to some one who knows nothing about such cases, and the next thing they have a pair of arch supports set into their shoes to cure the pain. It takes an expert to fit arch supports, and if they don't fit right they are worse than none at all.

There is just one kind of shoe that will cure the falling arch and relieve the pains and torture that go with it, and that is the O'SULLIVAN ARCH SUPPORTING SHOE, built on natural lines to fit the human foot of man or woman. It does away with the clumsy, rigid arch support, 30,000 pairs of which are said to be sold in this country every day, as inserts to put into shoes. This trouble is so alarming today that it can be found from childhood up, all caused by wearing shoes that are constructed wrong, and the most serious phase of it is to be found among young women, many of them with their ankles almost down to the ground, with the heels of their shoes run down on the inside because the arch of the foot is not supported in the shoes they wear. We are prepared to take care of the worst case of flat foot, and we guarantee that the wearers of our shoes will walk straight. If you have foot trouble you know where to come.

Proposes to Make Lowell an Ascension Station

Lowell is to become a centre for aero navigation and will hereafter be the centre for balloon ascensions to be held under the auspices of the Aero club of New England. One trip will be made from this city Saturday afternoon, three more will be made next week, and before the snow flies it is expected that 30 or 40 ascensions will be made from this city.

The first of a series of ascents will take place at two o'clock Saturday afternoon when J. Walter Flagg of Worcester will make an ascension alone.

He is qualifying for an international pilot's license and made the last flight yesterday from Fitchburg.

Next week J. P. Henton of the Boston Transcript, will make two lone ascensions as part of his program necessary to qualify him as a "sky pilot."

The club has been making Fitchburg its headquarters, but the gas company located in that place recently changed hands and the club is now unable to secure gas. Inasmuch as Charles J. Glidden made several successful ascents from this city and as the gas furnished by the Lowell Gas company has proved to be of the quality necessary for buoyancy, through the efforts of Mr. Glidden it was decided to make Lowell the home station of the club.

By next spring the Aero club will have two new balloons ready for use. One, of a capacity of 33,000 cubic feet of gas, will be called the "New Boston." It is expected that this balloon will be stationed at Lowell.

NEW HAIR TREATMENT

The air is full of floating dust, dirt and disease germs, which get into your hair. There is a natural oil on your head that holds the dust fast, and in a short time you have dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. The pores in your scalp are stopped up, the hair cannot grow and then the hair and your hair begins to fall out. Cleanliness is the one thing needed. Tonics, renewers, invigorators, and hair growers do not and can not remove the dirt that causes the trouble. You need Birt's Head Wash, the new scientific preparation. This will put the hair clean and scalp in a healthy, natural condition, so that the lifeless hair resumes its natural color. There is no alcohol or ammonia in it, as they are said to make hair turn gray prematurely. Birt's Head Wash is made of Redhead Soap, Cocchi Cocconut Oil, White of Eggs, Glycerine and Salicylic Acid. There are no better things than these known for cleansing the hair and scalp, and the doctor will tell you so if you ask him. Don't use cosmetics, soap and shampoo. They often contain too much alkali, and that is one of the most harmful things you can put on your head.

BODY OF A CHILD

Found in the Merrimack River at Haverhill

HAVERHILL, Oct. 21.—The finding of the body of an infant in the Merrimack river yesterday afternoon by Edward St. Germain, the subsequent discovery by Medical Examiner John F. Croston of a knotted rag about the child's neck, and the fact that on Oct. 2, Mary Olofsky, 23 years old, of 105 River street, applied to the police for a warrant for the arrest of the alleged father of a child born to her, led to her detention.

Patrolman Irving Hussey and Deputy Marshal Pearson, after the finding of the body went to River street to secure information from the woman who it was known gave birth to a baby a week ago last Friday. She was not at the address first given, but was found in the stenching room of a factory on Washington street.

Mary Olofsky was taken to the police station where she was cross-examined by Patrolman Hussey, Deputy Marshal Pearson and Inspector Shannon and later placed under arrest on the charge of infanticide.

Yesterday the woman declared that the baby was dead when it was born. Patrolman Hussey says that he is sure that she told him differently the day following the birth of the baby.

The woman admitted that she threw the body into the river from the new county bridge on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 2.

The evidence which leads the police to believe that there was foul play is a rag found around the neck of the baby. The ends of the rag are knotted. The discovery was made by Medical Examiner Croston.

The child which the Olofsky woman told Patrolman Hussey was born to her was a boy, and the one found in the river was that of a boy. According to Medical Examiner Croston it was fully developed.

It was seen floating down stream near the Haverhill bridge by Edward St. Germain. He secured a boat and pulled it from the water.

NARROW ESCAPE

Tank on a Gasoline Launch Exploded

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—By the explosion of a tank of gasoline aboard the launch Jessica in Dorchester bay off the Strandway, South Boston, yesterday, Hoseman George Kewer of ladder 13, West Fourth street, skipper of the craft, had a narrow escape from death. A sizzling noise told him of the danger, and without delay he plunged into the water. Less than five minutes later there was a loud report, and almost simultaneously the boat burst into flames.

Patrolman Edward W. Laskey saw the flames and Kewer struggling in the water and pulled in the alarm. Kewer, in the meantime, had returned to the burning craft, and with a bucket, dished up water, and by the time that the apparatus put in an appearance the craft was about half filled with water and the fire was nearly out. All the members of the department could do was to stand shore and watch the plucky hoseman and skipper. The damage to the boat will amount to about $200.

THREE STARS "HURRY UP" YOST'S STRONG MICHIGAN ELEVEN AND SCENE IN GAME

ANN ARBOR, Oct. 21.—Now that the football season is progressing and the hard struggles with strong teams are close at hand "Hurry Up" Yost, coach of the University of Michigan eleven, is devising new forms of drill which will help harden and benefit the Wolverine players. In the games so far played several moleskin warriors have been injured simply because they were not fully aware of the requirements necessary for the new style of play. This season Coach Yost has paid particular attention to this style, and he has taken every precaution to instill into the minds of the Wolverines how the ball should be run on the forward pass and onside track. Last year it was quite a puzzle to them when they succumbed to the prowess of the Quakers. During the last week the varsity got a stiff drill, and it now appears that the men are beginning to grasp the situation as it should be taken hold of. With sufficient practice Yost believes his men will master the situation satisfactorily. Much has been learned since the first game of the season. In the initial struggle a lion's share of the work fell to the guard positions, which were considered weak, but these, however, have been braced up by strong men, and it is hoped now that the line is close on to impregna-

ble. Michigan won the second game of its season by a score of 33 to 6 against Ohio State university. Captain Allerdice has been largely responsible for the winning of several of the Wolverines' games by his individual playing. It was his toe that defeated Case university recently, and later in the game against Ohio State university he kicked three field goals. Yost has been working Benbrook, formerly a guard, at center. He has shown up well in his new position. Wasmund at quarter has been handling the team in good shape. Illustration shows scene in recent game with Ohio State university.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of industry council, Royal Arcanum, was held last night in Odd Fellows temple. There was an extra large attendance, the occasion for the increased attendance being due to the fact that S. F. G. R. John H. Dorgan of Boston paid an official visit. He gave an interesting address on the order and complimented the members upon their fine showing. A fine entertainment of vocal and instrumental music was held, and a collection was served after the meeting. At the next meeting, Nov. 3, a debate will be held upon the question, "Resolved: That corporations are not of interest to our citizens." The affirmative side is to be taken by W. H. Stafford and M. J. Sullivan, and the negative by John J. Hogan and Frank Fox.

Good Templars

Spindle City lodge, 10, I. O. G. T., held a meeting in Pilgrim hall last evening and a membership contest, in which the captain was Harry Wolcott and Frank McLean will soon be started. A musical program was given and after the meeting refreshments were served.

THE BIG FIGHT TEXTILE TEAM

Coffroth is After the Got a Severe Trouncing at Groton

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—James W. Coffroth, promoter of many big fights here, left yesterday for New York to meet James J. Jeffries and to make a bid for a fight between the former champion and Jack Johnson, the contest to be held here.

"I will offer Jeffries either a guaranteed purse or one made up on the percentage basis," said Coffroth.

"I intend to make any offer as tempting as possible, and I believe that my chances for landing the match are very good. Of course there will be some lively bidding for the attraction, but in view of the big houses that San Francisco has always pulled to big fights, I don't see how any one can offer more than I."

While in New York, Coffroth will have a number of other propositions under consideration, including a match between Stanley Ketchel and Sam Langford, and one between the winner of the Frye-Powell contest and Battling Nelson.

BOXING GOSSIP

There has always been loyalty displayed by Lowell sports when one of their own is in question. Even when George Gardner was a "tyro" he was locally supported, and against proven good men. While every one reasons that Jimmy Gardner has the toughest task of his career on his hands next Tuesday when he faces Bill McKinnon, still it is certain that the local boy will be cheered to greater efforts by the local contingent who will witness the event.

Gardner will be in shape, and he needs to be, as McKinnon has greatly improved in the past few months. He is faster, his left hand is better, and it is no exaggeration to say that the third contingent who will witness the event.

McKinnon's people are extremely confident, and this will add zest to a match which is already attracting great attention.

While Gardner should win, judging from past performance, he has got to do so on his skill and agility.

The Textile school football team went to Groton yesterday and received a severe trouncing, the score being 22 to 11 at the end of the game. The Lowell boys rallied in the second half, but the Groton team had got in its work in the first half and Textile was unable to overcome the lead secured by its opponent.

The lineup and summary follows:

Textile. South, Barnham, re Dana, Friedly, Slidbottom, rt. rt. Pyne, Zobel, Standish, rg. rg. A. Curtis, McCleary, c. c. Atkinson, Morgan, Phillips, Keckey, lg. lg. Palmer, Rogers, Middleton, lt. lt. PAYMENT OF TAXES

Heavy Taxpayers Come to Front This Year

While Formerly Some Held Back for Two Years to Realize Additional Interest From Use of Money

The amount of taxes paid to the city treasurers up to date for this year's taxes is unusually large as will be noted in another column and the books show that the heavy tax payers who in some cases in the past were delinquent about paying have been coming in with their money this year before the interest started.

Many at first thought will wonder why the richest men in town should allow their taxes to go unpaid until the city charges them six per cent. interest, but there is method in their delinquency.

A few years ago one of the largest taxpayers in Lowell when asked why he allowed his property to be advertised for taxes, replied: "There's money in it for me. Suppose I pay the city $10,000 for taxes, my $10,000 is gone. But suppose I neglect to pay. I have two years before they advertise my property for sale for taxes, while in the meantime the city is charging me 6 per cent. interest. During that two years I have the use of that money and can make more on it than the six per cent. interest that I have to pay the city and hence I am a winner in the end. If I pay $10,000 taxes, I can make 10 per cent. on that amount for the two years before I am finally compelled to pay and when I pay the city demands six per cent. interest, leaving me four per cent. to the good. That's why I don't pay my taxes until the last moment."

This year, however, most of the heavy taxpayers, including the man quoted above, have paid up last year's and this year's as well and the city will get the use of the tax money instead of the property owner.

LOOKING FOR RAIN

Local Hunters Complain of the Drought

Dryness Makes It Difficult to Discover Game—The Commonwealth of Massachusetts Allows Hunting But One Month In the Year

This is a queer time of year to be looking for rain, to the ordinary person, but there are many in Lowell who would like to see a little rain within a few days and they are the hunters who are worrying over the fact that while the state of Massachusetts allows hunting only one month in the year, the present conditions in the country are not at all conducive to successful hunting, and the indications are that they will not be before the 15th of November, when the law goes on again.

At present the ground is exceedingly dry and the leaves are not all off the trees, two facts that operate seriously against the hunters. If the ground were wet the dogs could get a scent much easier than they can under present conditions, and they would get the game in view much easier. With the leaves on the trees the hunter doesn't get as good an opportunity to shoot as when the boughs are bare.

Massachusetts isn't much of a state for hunting at best, and her game is confined to rabbits, partridges, woodcock and a few quail. Up to five years ago quail were plentiful in this state, but the great snow storms followed by the sudden rain and thaw killed off the quail and they have never been plentiful since that time. Gray squirrels are entitled to drop nuts on the heads of the hunters with impunity, for under a special act passed by the legislature in 1907 the law protects gray squirrels the entire year until October, 1912. The best day's hunting thus far reported by local sportsmen was 12 rabbits brought in last Saturday, but a local man and without the use of a ferret at that.

Mt. McKinley

Seems as though we have seen that name somewhere—Oh yes, it's a mountain and it's "the top of the Continent." In 1906 a man climbed—but let that pass. We have got a Mountain of our own right here in Lowell. Its head rises above the level of the sea a good many feet and it is composed entirely of COKE. It's in our yard at the School Street Works. It's worth seeing if not climbing. There are thousands of children in the pile and we shall sell every scrap of it before this time in 1910. If you undertake to climb our Mountain and get to the top, have a notary public with you when you nail the flag and bury your records. Sample pieces of this mountain delivered at any home in Lowell at $4.75 per chaldron.

Clean delivery, full weight. You can see Our Coke every day on the streets being delivered on the yellow wagons. It will look good to you.

NEW CARDINALS WARMS FRANCE

Archbishop O'Connell May Be One

ROME, Oct. 21.—Although the pope only recently seemed determined not to have a consistory until 1910, it is now suddenly announced that one will be held about the middle of December, and another next spring. It is added that the reason for holding two consistories is for appointing as cardinals in the second consistory certain prelates who cannot be included in the first.

Strict secrecy is being maintained regarding the names of those whom it is intended to elevate, but it is known that Mr. Mendes Bello, patriarch of Lisbon, will receive the red hat in December, and it is also considered certain that Mr. Bisielli, papal major-domo, will be elevated in the spring.

Regarding the appointment of a new American cardinal, Archbishop Farley of New York, Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul, Minn., and Archbishop O'Connell of Boston are considered the most likely candidates, while it is reported also that an American cardinal may be named as a member of the curia, and will, therefore, live in Rome.

Others likely to receive the red hat in either consistory are the Most Rev. Francis Bourne, archbishop of Westminster, Mr. Falconio, apostolic delegate at Washington, Mr. Guisanti, secretary of the Congregation of Bishops, Mr. Dallachiesa, archbishop of Bologna, and the archbishops of Buenos Ayres and Florence.

KILLED BY GAS

Man Was Found Dead in Bed

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 21.—Dewitt Rogers, a young married man of political promise, a former student at Rutgers college, and engaged in a campaign for a seat in the common council of Metuchen, N. J., was found yesterday in a tottering house beside an unconscious woman who had said she was his wife. The identification was made positive last night by his family physician, who ordered the body removed to Methuen. Mrs. Rogers is prostrated.

Death was caused by gas from a hot air furnace in the cellar, escaping near the head of the bed through a register. The landlady's daughter, who occupied a room above that taken by Rogers, was similarly overcome and only the noise of her falling from bed, which aroused her mother below, saved her life. Search of other rooms discovered Rogers dead. There was no evidence of suicide as the gas cocks were all closed.

Checks payable to Rogers and aggregating $500 suggested the identification last night. His companion was hurried to a hospital where, on regaining consciousness, she positively refused to tell her name or where she lived. Both she and Rogers had been drinking.

To First Consider Her Own Interests

PARIS, Oct. 21.—The exact assurances given by United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich during his recent talks with government officials regarding Franco-American tariff relations and with particular reference to the interpretation of section 2 of the new American tariff law, are revealed in a book just published. M. Cruppi, former minister of commerce, who favors active French commercial expansion, in this book quotes Sen. Aldrich as saying that President Taft's interpretation of "undue discrimination" did not mean that France must necessarily grant all her minimums, but only that the treatment of American products "must be reciprocally just and reasonable," and that naturally, it was expected that France would give the United States the same treatment as other active competitors in the matter of French trade.

M. Cruppi adds that Sen. Aldrich's conciliatory assurances are extremely welcome but that after all France must first consider her own interests. He insists that industrial and commercial development are now of primary importance to every country and he warns France that if these questions continue to be politically eclipsed as hereafter by social questions France will soon fall to the fourth rank.

M. Cruppi contends that the policy of negotiation is the commercial policy of the future and expresses regret that the United States in her "splendid isolation" snags her fingers at the world.

Woman Thrown Out of Her Auto

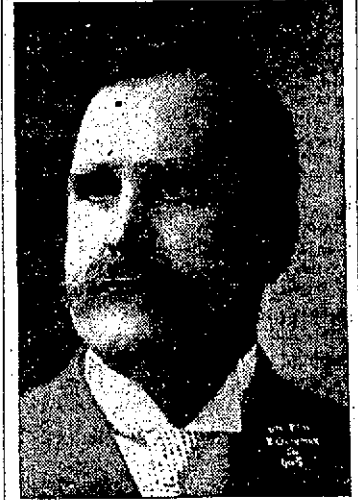

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Mrs. Gardner G. Hubbard, 80 years old, was thrown out of her automobile last evening when it was struck by a street car, sustaining injuries from which she died two hours later in a hospital. Her skull was fractured.

Mrs. Hubbard was prominent in the older set of Washington, one daughter having married Dr. Alexander Graham Bell and another his first cousin, Chas. J. Bell, president of the Washington Loan and Trust Co.

EUGENE N. FOSS

Not Opposed to Eight Hour Bill

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—The slate campaign was further enlivened last night by statements issued by Eugene N. Foss, candidate for lieutenant governor on the democratic ticket, and by the campaign committee of the state.

EUGENE N. FOSS
Democratic Candidate for Lieutenant Governor

branch of the American Federation of Labor. Both statements dealt with Gov. Draper's eight hour bill veto. Mr. Foss' statement, in part, follows:

"Gov. Draper in his speech at New Bedford last night, if he is correctly reported, in the press, said: 'Among those letters asking me to veto the bill for various reasons, was one from the B. F. Sturtevant Co., E. N. Foss treasurer. The E. N. Foss, treasurer, who signed this letter is the gentleman who is now running as the democratic candidate for lieutenant governor. I would suggest, under the circumstances, that the democrats refrain from attacking me upon the veto of this bill and devote their energies to attacking Mr. Foss for the influence he tried to bring upon me to veto it.'

"I challenge Gov. Draper to produce any such letter.

"I never wrote Gov. Draper any letter on the eight hour bill, so-called. He does not print a photographic reprint of any alleged letter of mine to him asking him to veto this measure.

"It is true that I did, in common with many other manufacturers, sign a petition which represented that my plant was to be crippled in competition with other plants if an eight hour bill which had been passed by the legislature and was before the governor for his signature was permitted to become a law.

"I took the statements in that petition to be an honest summing up of the substance of that bill. It was not. It was designed to deliberately deceive everyone who signed it."

The statement of the labor men criticized Gov. Draper for his veto of the eight hour bill.

The democratic candidates spoke in Lynn, Salem, Peabody, and Gov. Draper and other Republicans in Marblehead and Hingham.

GOV. DRAPER

ALLEGES ATTEMPT TO PUT HIM IN A "HOLE"

MARLBORO', Oct. 21.—Speaking at a well attended republican rally held in Preston hall, here last night, Gov. Eben S. Draper stated that "the eight hour bill was a political measure, intended primarily to put me in a hole." Gov. Draper devoted much of his remarks to a re-analyzing of the bill from the point of view bringing out its objections as he has done previously. In connection with its discussion he stated that the persons who are criticizing him for his attitude toward the bill should turn some of their criticism to the democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, Eugene N. Foss, and he repeated the letter which he says he received from the B. F. Sturtevant Co., countersigned by Mr. Foss, urging him to veto the bill.

Although stating that "the question before the voters this year is that of electing state officers, and that the tariff has no place in the campaign," Gov. Draper still devoted considerable attention to a discussion of the tariff.

SENATOR SMITH

Says the Mills Need Not Curtail

FLORENCE, S. C., Oct. 21.—United States Senator F. D. Smith, former general organizer of the Southern Cotton Growers' association, declares that the recent action by the cotton mills of the country, favoring curtailment of production, because of the belief that the prices of cotton are higher than warranted by the crop outlook, is unfounded and appeals to the farmers to resist "the bear raid, since the condition of the world's peace insures ready markets and all supplies are rising in value."

Senator Smith adds that the reports received by him as head of a movement by cotton planters to ascertain exact conditions concerning the present crop, indicate that it will fall far below last season's crop.

He gives the following figures: Louisiana, crop half million, mostly sold; balance likely to be held despite high prices.

Arkansas, crop 35 to 40 per cent short; selling fast, with no disposition to hold.

North Carolina, about same as last year; farmers able to hold.

Texas, crop about 40 per cent short; will make between 2,000,000 and 2,500,000 bales, obliged to sell.

Mississippi, 1,300,000 bales, 20 per cent short.

Other states report good crops, with farmers generally able to hold.

MINISTER CASTRO

SAYS APPEAL MAY BE MADE TO ARBITRATION COURT

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 21.—If it is true, as some reports indicate, that other nations in Central America, notably Guatemala, are assisting the Estrada revolution in Nicaragua, Francisco

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1909. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

LOWELL AS AN ASCENSION STATION.

Lowell citizens will welcome the New England Aero club in coming here to conduct a series of balloon ascensions for experimental and other purposes. The prospect of making Lowell a permanent ascension station is one that should be pleasing to the community in general. The balloon ascensions will not attract so much attention outside of Lowell as did the automobile races, but still they will serve as an advertisement that will be of some value to our city.

It is fitting that Lowell should be an ascension station for the Aero club inasmuch as the leading spirit of the club, Mr. Charles J. Glidden, is a Lowell man. Mr. Glidden is indebted to Lowell for past favors, and if he has any favors to grant in the selection of an ascension station he should certainly confer them upon this city. The ascensions will offer amusement to the citizens of Lowell and suburbs, and will serve as a fit prelude to the time when we shall have an exhibition of flying machines as a substitute for the auto races which a good many people assert we shall have "never again."

FIRE COMMITTEE REPORT.

That was a remarkably good report made by the committee on fire department, and its recommendations are mainly in the line of progress, although some of them would entail more expense than the city can afford at the present time.

Everybody will agree that the time has arrived when automobile trucks should displace some of the fire teams used and that this would be a source of economy. It is claimed that the fire automobile if properly used will do four times as much work as a team of horses and cost but half as much. The fire auto has been so well tried out recently in Springfield and other cities that its superior value is beyond question.

With the addition of fifteen men recommended by the committee the fire department should certainly be one of the most efficient in the state, but if we are to have labor saving machines why increase the number of men?

The recommendation for a drill school is also a good one. The firemen have to spend a large portion of their time sitting around the stations. Through inactivity they lose strength and agility, both of which might be kept up by frequent drills. The drill would also increase their value as fire fighters and would enable them to use the apparatus far more effectively.

THE POOR BOY AND HIS OPPORTUNITIES.

There are a great many boys in Lowell, who, on account of poor circumstances, believe they are deburred from rising to positions of eminence. These boys do not appreciate the opportunities of education and advancement that lie within their grasp. If they live in a city like Lowell they have only to look around to find many opportunities to advance themselves, either in education or in industry. They can avail themselves of the evening schools to learn any ordinary branch of an English education. They can attend the evening sessions of the Textile school and master the principles of a textile trade by which they can rise to better things. Or they can learn a trade in some of the big workshops or factories by which they can earn a livelihood. If they have any special ambition to enter any of the professions they can save their money and study in that direction. If they are made of the right stuff nothing can keep them down. The boy who is poor thinks he is handicapped, but he has positive advantages over the boy that is spoiled by luxury. The children of the very wealthy are strangers to the trials, the labor and the tribulations that serve to develop muscle and brain and to build up character.

It is better for a boy to have difficulties to overcome. Even in study many parents and some educators endeavor to remove all the difficulties, forgetting that this deprives the education of much of its value. The study of the dead languages may not serve the student in any practical way, but it develops the mind, and that in itself is a very important matter. The problem that requires the most study is longest remembered and most easily applied in practical work. The education that comes easily usually slips from the memory just as readily. As a rule it may be said that self-education is best because it is purchased by the greatest labor.

The poor boy can accomplish a great deal by the assiduous application of his talents in the right direction, but it will not pay him to injure his health by over-work. Better be satisfied with a trade that can be easily acquired than strive for one, the acquisition of which will injure the health.

For the smart, diligent boy today there are many opportunities that were unknown a few years ago. Only a few weeks ago a local car conductor got a position in Washington as a stenographer. He had made himself proficient in the art by regular practice during his leisure hours. He is only one of several who might be mentioned as having secured remunerative appointments through the civil service. There are civil service examinations held under different bureaus to fill federal, state and municipal positions, and the student who sets out to secure a certain position and studies the subjects of examination will succeed in the end if he has the grit to persevere.

Few young men have any accurate idea of the vast possibilities of mental development. They regard their knowledge and ability as fixed and make but slight allowance for the vast possibilities of education and acquisition if they set out to develop their mental faculties. The memory, the reasoning power and manual dexterity may all be developed to a wonderful degree by continued effort of the right kind along the lines indicated. Instead, therefore, of whining because other boys have more assistance than you, go to work and overcome the obstacles that lie between you and success. In the single-handed battle of life you will outstrip the boy brought up in the lap of luxury or if you do not it is because you have not applied your talents or that you have applied them in the wrong direction. They can never succeed in attaining excellence who jump about from one thing to another, or change so often that they do not work long enough at any particular thing to make it a success. To excel in any branch we must concentrate our efforts upon it to the exclusion of other branches. The modern tendency is to specialize. The man who excels today is a specialist in one or two things. The "Jack of all trades" is a back number. The worst mistake a boy can make is to waste his early years in jumping from one occupation to another before settling down to his life work. It is important to make a right selection as early as possible and then climb towards the top.

SEEN AND HEARD

If either Peary or Cook arrived at the North pole their presence there didn't effect the northern lights. There was a brilliant display of aurora borealis a few evenings ago.

It is difficult for the average man to understand that with the death of 32,831 old soldiers during the past year, the pension roll is being constantly increased, so that today it contains 693,961 names.

Few persons realize that of the 2,700,000 men who served in the United States during the Civil war, 800,000 were only 18 years of age or under, and that 600,000 were not more than 16 years old.

It is this latter class which has recently been added to the list, and from this time on there will be a rapid decrease.

In the attic of the old Royal House at Medford the other day, Curator B. F. Benton pointed out four straight lines crossed diagonally with another on a timber near the top of the stairway. "It's the old-fashioned way of marking lumber," he said, "they use a heavy pencil now. I wonder if any of the Journal's readers can tell me the origin of this method, when it was first used, and why it was stopped? The marking was done with a heavy

Mrs. Richard Lo Gallienne has taken to millinery. She has found her husband difficult—so gossip says—and finds herself happier to live apart from him. She is reported to be on good terms with her husband, but with distance her regard grows greater. She says he is a poet and an artist, "one of those men on whom there is no counting." So she has opened a millinery shop in Paris. Mrs. Gallienne made a regular find in Brussels, discovering that "united hats" were offered for sale at a dollar apiece in Brussels. She contracted with a milliner to furnish her with any number of such hats, hired a shop in Paris, offered her dollar hats for a handsome advance in price, with the agreeable result that she presently found herself selling money. Her customers are "very select," refined women who would think it disgraceful to be referred to as "prominent" and whose idea in dressing is to be "inconspicuous."

At a largely attended meeting at St. Martin's church hall, Garing Cross, says the London Times, it was decided to form a committee whose object it would be to welcome Chinese women and girls who are completing their education in that country. It was pointed out that the committee for the furtherance of the education of Chinese students in England had already done much good work among the male scholars, but that no similar organization existed for the benefit of women. It was unanimously decided that a committee of women should be formed for the purpose of affording information to Chinese girls who desire to complete their education in England and of furthering the interests of these girls while in the country. Lady Florence Cecil, who presided, said that the government schools in China were generally very inferior to the mission schools. The authorities were badly in want of competent teachers, but were ignorant as to how to secure them. Rev. R. V. Faithfull-Davies stated that hundreds of Chinese girls were now being educated in Japan and dozens in the United States, but there were elements in the home life of England that rendered it far more suitable as a training ground for the Chinese.

HAVERHILL CHARTER

Clearly Explained by City Officials Who Help Administer It

Hon. Otis J. Carlton Tells of Its Advantages—City Solicitor G. M. Nichols and Alderman Bean Testify to the Advantages of New Charter—Judge Fisher Spoke on Behalf of Lowell

A mass meeting was held at the Highland Congregational church under the auspices of the Men's League of that church last evening for the purpose of hearing an explanation and discussion of the new city charter of Haverhill, with a view to throwing light on the much mooted question now before the citizens of Lowell of charter revision.

The speakers were members of the Haverhill city council who have been working a year under their new charter with great success, and which they declare to be the best in the United States.

Carl M. Phil, president of the League, was in the chair and the only local speaker was Judge Frederick A. Fisher, chairman of the Lowell board of trade committee on charter revision.

Hon. Otis J. Carlton

President Phil, after brief remarks of welcome, introduced as the first speaker, Hon. Otis J. Carlton of Haverhill the "father" of the Haverhill charter, who, before proceeding with his talk on the charter itself, gave an interesting account of the movement that brought it about.

The movement started with a committee of the men's club of one of the churches, which secured President Eliot as a speaker on the Galveston and Des Moines plans. He had an audience of 800 to 900 voters, and following up the interest thus aroused, a municipal league was formed and a charter drawn. It passed the legislature, and was adopted by the voters.

Preceding the election at which the charter was adopted, several committees were at work. There was a public hearing committee, through which the citizens were fully informed about the charter; there was a committee to raise the necessary funds; and a canvass was made of the voters, using the check list as a guide; also, an election day, effort was made to bring voters to the polls. "If you are going to have a charter in Lowell," said Mr. Carlton, "you have got to make up your minds to work several months, to spend some money, and to work probably harder than you ever worked before."

Responsibility Needed

Relative to the defects of the prevailing system of city government, Mr. Carlton said that it is almost impossible to hold anybody responsible where matters go wrong.

"What we need is to get into office fit men—men who are not only honest, but intelligent; and the way to get a fit man into office is to provide him with an office which has power and responsibility. What a man wants is a chance to make good."

"Another thing: The charters commonly recognize what is an 'untruth,' namely, that the city is not a unit, but is divided into several wards. In Haverhill, we in effect said, to these ward-elected officers, 'Go to our city council, and there obtain for us who live in this part of the city, what you can.'"

"We also recognize, in the charters commonly in use, what seems to be an absurdity; that national parties have a fit place in the local government of cities. There are men who will vote for candidates without investigating them to see whether they are fit men or not, because they have some party label attached to them."

"Again: The city government work is conducted in such a way that it is almost impossible to know what those whom we have put in office are doing. There is an almost utter lack of publicity."

"Furthermore, our present charters are defective in that they fail to recognize that the proper administration of a city's affairs is to conduct business, pure and simple, and nothing else. The city officers are not in any proper sense legislators. What our city governments ought to do is simply to do the people's business straight, the same as a trustee is required to account to the court for funds that have been placed in his hands."

Like Business Corporation

A city is a corporation very much like any business corporation. The only difference is, that a business corporation exists largely to secure money to pay to the stockholders in dividends, while the city exists to pay dividends to the people in the shape of public benefits. When waste and extravagance fall to give us a dollar in value for the dollar we have paid in taxes, our dividends have been stolen from us to that extent."

"The new Haverhill charter seems primarily to recognize that the province of the city government is business; also to facilitate the choice of fit men for public office. We think that if these defects that I have pointed out are removed from a city charter, fit men will offer themselves as candidates much more readily than under the common system. We also believe that we have demonstrated, at one election, that if the people are sufficiently informed, they can be trusted to elect fit men to office. Our charter, following these lines, provides in the first place for the abolition of ward lines, and our city officers are nominated without any reference to what party they belong to. We then entrust all of the city's business, with some exceptions which I need not note, to two boards, one called the municipal council, consisting of the mayor and four aldermen, and a school committee, consisting of five men, one of whom is the mayor. And we have the usual boards not affected by the charter, such as a park commission, board of water commissioners, etc."

Aldermen Head Departments

We did not, in our charter, define the duties of our five councilmen. We said, if our charter is worth working for, we must assume that we will get, the first year, five good men. If we do, they, after a few months, will be in a better position to divide the work of the city into departments. It happened that after these five men had had some experience, they divided the city of Haverhill into four departments—public buildings; streets, highways and bridges; finance; and a department which includes the poor, fire and police departments. Each of the four aldermen is at the head of one of those departments, and the mayor acts with all four aldermen. Under this arrangement, you can see that responsibility is fixed upon the head of the department. The result is that we are able to judge the product of these men, just as we judge the product of the grocer and the milk man; and if it is not good, by another provision in the charter we can discharge him."

Aldermen Paid $1800

"We pay these men liberal salaries. We expect them, as they do, to give us largely of their time. The four aldermen start work at 7 o'clock and work practically all day. They are paid $1800, and the mayor is paid $2500. We place in the hands of these men practically all of the city's business, with the object of attracting fit men. Having done so, we realize that some time we may make a mistake and elect unfit men, and so we provide for certain features which we call publicity features. In order that we may know exactly what these men are doing, we provide that they shall not meet in committees of five, but that all of the city's business, with the exception of attracting fit men, money appropriated, must be public meetings. Each man's vote is recorded, by yeas and nays; and we can see every record, and find out how the men voted on each measure. Also, the city auditor must give out a statement of all expenditures and all receipts, and at the end of the year these men that we have put in office must submit their accounts to expert auditors."

Power of Recall

"We have the initiative and the referendum, and the recall is the means by which an incompetent public official can be removed from office."

"If you are willing to put in the work that we put in, you will find that you can adopt such a charter here in Lowell. You can educate the people so that they will vote for it, and if you get it you will find an abundant supply of fit men coming forward to fill your offices; and you will find that the people are disposed to elect them."

City Solicitor Nichols

The next speaker introduced was City Solicitor George M. G. Nichols, who declared at the outset that Haverhill has "the best city government in the United States." "First," he said, "good men came forward as candidates and with no organization backing any party of men, without ward or party lines, the people picked out the fit men for office, and selected 'the best city government in the United States.' The result in Haverhill, of the new charter, was the election of a list of long-headed, business men, who went into the city hall and did business."

"Then he gave a list of figures, showing financial results. The old city government, he said, left them a legacy of $51,000 worth of unpaid bills, besides a floating debt of $200,000. There was no money to pay salaries. He then compared the work from January 1st to October 1st for the two years, under the old government and under the new. Already the $51,000 worth of old bills had been paid, and a balance over and above that can still be shown to the good. Allowings that $200,000 of those bills should have come over to this year—a liberal estimate—then our account for operation and maintenance shows a gain and saving on what it cost to run the city in this department, of $61,000."

Big Saving Noted

"Coming down to the bond issues, and the proceeds of the sale of city bonds for construction purposes: In 1908 the old city government issued bonds to the amount of $409,000. In 1909 the new government issued bonds to the amount of $116,000. The large issue in 1908 was made necessary by extraordinary building conditions, but eliminating from the lists all of those bonds which in either year were issued for the purpose of public buildings, school houses or bridges, and when you have done that, it is fair to say, roughly, that all of the other bonds issued in the main have been voted to permanent construction work, streets, sidewalks, gutters, sewers. That leaves the city government of 1908 charged up with $141,000 worth of bonds which, roughly speaking, should have been devoted to permanent construction work. I find by examining the same deduction under the city government of 1909, $85,000 which they should account for in the construction of new streets, sidewalks, sewers and gutters."

He referred to a blue print, which he said he would leave to be examined, which showed the construction work done by the two governments, with the money raised by those bonds. "The amount of work done in yards is practically the same with the exception of sewers, where there is an advantage on the side of the old government. The same has been accomplished by the old city government with its $141,000, as by the new with its $85,000."

A Creditable Record

Besides this, the new city government record shows many more square yards of macadam road, the comparison being 16,000 and 50,000 square yards.

"As a matter of fact of course they did not spend that money on construction work, in the old city government. What did they do with it? Some of it was diverted into channels which, if legal, certainly were not creditable; $35,000 was diverted from construction work to pay current expenses; $16,000 was paid for city lighting, and $8000 was devoted to school maintenance—not school building, which would be legitimate, but for running expenses. That is where some of the $141,000 went that did not go into the streets. There are, however, about $80,000 charged directly to the construction of streets; but with not more than $19,000 they actually declared they did put into street construction, we have done considerable more than twice the work that they did on the same amount."

"You will ask, how did this happen? Did you have a crowd of grafters who were robbing you? I have never seen anything that is so actually and unambiguously a case of stealing. It was not stolen, it just went, just as any man's money will leak out of his business, and he will assign, if he does not attend to his business or if he has no part of business management, 'The personal supervision.'"

He then cited some instances of economic buying whereby great savings were effected.

Street Improvement

"We have also reached a comprehensive system of street improvement, all over the city, fairly distributed. It was added from year to year, as against the old system of ward construction three weeks before election."

He then said that the movement for a new charter must be so managed as to interest all of the people, and the argument used must be a financial argument.

President of Nicaragua, Who Is Be-set by Revolutionists

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The rapid mobilization and the show of force made by the insurgents under General Estrada lead the authorities in Washington to believe that the regime of President Zelaya is drawing to a close in Nicaragua. The Atlantic coast ports of the republic are now in the hands of the revolutionists, and the United States government has officially recognized the closing of the ports. While it is not in sense a blockade, it is the next thing to it. Any duties that might be paid to the revolutionists while they are in possession of the customs houses have to be repaid to the Zelaya government in case the ports are retaken; hence the fact that the United States recognizes Zelaya's proclamation closing the ports.

The Lowell Case

"I think you were down to the legislature last year with two charter provisions. You have not got anything to spare, in the way of strength. Agree on what you want, and go down there with a solid delegation. Put it up to your legislators strong, that they must give you what you want."

Alderman Bean Speaks

Joseph W. Bean, the alderman in charge of the police, fire, charity and license departments, the city hospital, wires and street lighting, said that he served two terms under the old form of city government. The trouble seemed to be that the government was not strong enough for the people. It was a government by politicians, not by the people. Now, the people have the government entirely in their hands. The officers dare not do a dishonest thing, because the people can see what they do. There was an inauguration without out bands. The mayor said about fifty or sixty words, and then started in doing business. If voted on again today, there would be four out of five of the citizens of Haverhill that would vote for the new charter. The politicians and special interests that have lost the pull they once had, are against it."

Mr. Bean said that when he went into the Lowell city hall, and the mayor extended to him the freedom of the city, he thought it strange because it seemed to him that the city had no freedom. The people might elect anyone they pleased—and got about equal results.

He advised Lowell not to get a charter without the provisions for the better. "Do not trust everything to a man because you believe him to be honest. We have got no keys to the city of Haverhill; we have known them away."

Both Mr. Bean and the city solicitor invited the Lowell people to visit their city hall and inspect the records, which would speak for themselves.

Judge Fisher's Remarks

Judge Frederick A. Fisher spoke a few closing words, relative to the situation in Lowell. He said: "My previous experience confirms everything that the second speaker said of what should be done in order to get a new charter enacted in Lowell. He then explained the provision of the original draft for a new charter here, and the advantages expected to be derived from the changes. The provision for the elimination of party designations was taken from the Haverhill charter. "When we went to the legislature," he said, "we had a good representation of Lowell people with us and we were treated very courteously, and the committee gave a hearing at city hall. Yet there was never a ghost of a chance that the bill would be enacted into law. What was the reason? One reason was that the Lowell delegation was not with us. The Lowell delegation are the men you elect to go there and make the laws. They were not elected on the charter issue; they were not committed, and no one can fairly make that contention. But I am satisfied that we never will get a charter unless we have the Lowell delegation with us."

"It ought to be possible to get a charter that will not with the approval of the majority, and you must expect some one to the legislature that will see to it that you get that charter."

ST. JEAN MURDER

Was Committed in Fall River, the Officials Say

FALL RIVER, Oct. 21.—"All the evidence which the Tiverton police find from now on must be turned over to the Fall River authorities," said Chief Manchester of the town police today. It appears evident, say those who have been in close touch with the investigation into the alleged murder of Miss Amelia St. Jean of Woonsocket, that this statement means that both the Massachusetts and Rhode Island police feel practically certain that the murder was committed in Fall River and that the Rhode Island authorities are simply assisting in every way possible and will continue to do so unless events arise to indicate that the affair is a Rhode Island crime.

When questioned regarding the disposal of the evidence already gathered by the Tiverton police, Chief Manchester said: "We are still holding the evidence we have found up to this time, and it will probably be held in Tiverton until it is called for by the Fall River officers. I don't believe that they will need it before the hearing there Monday, which court."

"Prof. Hill and the chauffeur, Thibault, are brought before the police court."

"The local police have not given up the search for the head of the girl whose dismembered body was found along Bulkmursh road, but we are not making any concentrated effort to locate it as previously," said the chief. "We are almost convinced that the head is somewhere where it cannot be found by us, understand me, however, we have not given up the search."

With unabated vigor the Fall River police continued to run down new clues and strengthen old ones in order that their case against Hill will be complete when it is presented to the court Monday.

It has leaked out that so far as Thibault is concerned there is no evidence, and that unless there are new developments his case will be dropped by Acting City Marshal Fleet on Monday.

There must be an organized effort by some association formed by citizens."

THE TRIAL TRIP

Of the Delaware Was Delayed

ROCKLAND, Me., Oct. 21.—The expected trial today of the Delaware, the largest battleship in the world completed and ready for trial, was delayed because of the heating of the bearings on the trip up the coast from Newport News. The builders asked for a delay until necessary changes could be made but this probably will not be longer than today.

Following the first trial which will be to standardize the propellers there will be a four hour run at high speed on which the Delaware must maintain an average of 21 knots an hour. Possibly the big craft will return here at the conclusion of this test, but she may run to the south, having her remaining trials on the way. A new trial which this ship will undergo will be a two hour test, burning both coal and fuel oil.

VIOLENT SCENES

In Spanish Chamber of Deputies

MADRID, Oct. 21.—The session of the chamber of deputies yesterday was exceptionally violent, the position of the government being further shaken. Senator Morey Prendergast, the former premier, who Monday severely arraigned Premier Maura and his ministers, redoubled his attacks. The minister of the interior tried to reply. He managed to shout "We do not fear threats of violence. We will remain, for to resign would be cowardly." The rest of his speech was drowned in the deafening uproar, the opposition shouting and stamping desks. The president of the chamber broke several bells trying to quell the disturbance and finally was forced to adjourn the sitting.

THE MAYORALTY CAMPAIGN

the Mayoralty of New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Last night was another night of rapid stump speaking in the municipal campaign, but the three candidates produced nothing new in the way of personal attacks. William J. Hearst, the independent nominee, delivered four speeches in New York; Otto T. Bannard, the republican nominee, spoke three times in Brooklyn, and then appeared at Carnegie hall, New York, before a big fusion gathering, and William J. Gaynor, the democratic nominee, appeared at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, for his third speech of the campaign. Mr. Hearst delivered substantially the same speech at all four places. He opened with an attack on Gaynor and Tammany, reviewed his efforts for the people's welfare through his newspapers and concluded with this appeal:

"In this campaign you should not

HE DROPPED DEAD

Postmaster Victim of Heart Failure

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—While sitting with his father-in-law, Jacob F. French, at the home of the latter, and with the remark that he "was feeling fine," scarcely off his lips, Benjamin Barnes, postmaster of this city, who served as executive clerk under President McKinley and later as assistant secretary to President Roosevelt, dropped dead here last night of heart failure. Although restoratives were immediately applied and prompt medical assistance was rendered, Mr. Barnes expired without regaining consciousness.

Mr. Barnes had been in particularly good humor last night over the fact that he had yesterday been admitted to practice before the supreme court of the District of Columbia.

On at least two occasions Mr. Barnes' name came prominently before the public. He was alleged to have played a part in ejecting Mrs. Minor Morris, a sister of Rep. Hull of Iowa, from the White House, which incident created a sensation. President Roosevelt stood resolutely by Mr. Barnes, and further emphasized his friendship by appointing him postmaster about there and a half years ago. A storm of protest was raised by Washingtonians against the appointment, the principal objection being that he was not a local man, although Mr. Barnes had lived here for about a quarter of a century.

RACE TRACK MEN

Placed Under Arrest at Woonsocket

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Oct. 21.—A complaint filed by Truman R. Sade, of Willimantic, Conn., a well known horseman, led to the arrest yesterday of four race track followers, who are charged with violation of the statute regarding pool selling and betting on horse races. They gave their names as John Smith, Thomas Smith, Thomas Morse and James Morse, and after pleading not guilty, in the district court were bound over to November 3 in the sum of $500 each.

Sade alleged that the 220 paces race at the Woonsocket track was fixed. He is the owner of Billikin which got third place in the 220 paces last Thursday.

PUBLIC HEALTH

Mrs. Crane Scores the Dept. of Agriculture

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 21.—Direct charges of incompetency in the federal department of agriculture and of disregard of the rules of the bureau of animal industry in the federal inspection of meat were made by Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane of Kalamazoo, Mich., in an address yesterday afternoon before the American Public Health Association in convention here. Mrs. Crane openly attacked the department for alleged misleading the public into believing that the meat inspected by federal officials was passed upon justly and with the best interests of the public at heart. She stated that the standards of health of animals slaughtered had dropped since the scandal in meat inspection in 1906. One of her most startling charges and one which evoked a spirited denial from Dr. M. Dorset of the hygienic bureau of Washington, was to the effect that the department of agriculture has caused to be issued, simultaneously with the annual rules and regulations, certain "service announcements" intended for inspectors and packers only. The inspectors, she said, were warned not to show or give these "service announcements" to any other persons.

Replying to Dr. Dorset's refutation of this, Mrs. Crane offered to show photographs of pages of such pamphlets.

A GREEK LEPER

Is on His Way to Genoa

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Smuggled aboard an outgoing steamer late last night Antonius Preisa, a Greek leper, is now on his way to Genoa. The greatest secrecy was necessary to keep the facts from the passengers.

The leper was brought here from the colony on Penikese island, off the Massachusetts coast, by the three masted schooner Andrew J. Pierce, Captain Jesse Smith of New Bedford, Mass., in a room especially built for him in the ship's hold. A surgeon of the United States marine corps and an immigration official accompanied him.

Preisa is far advanced in the disease. He has been in the leper colony 18 months and in this country less than three years, so that his deportation by the government presented no legal difficulties. The partitions constraining his room in the schooner's hold have been torn down and burned, the vessel disinfected and her captain paid a handsome charter fee.

MRS. PANKHURST

Leader of Woman Suffragettes Arrives

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—A quiet little group of New York women, bearing banners labelled "Votes for Women" stood on a White Star pier last night and welcomed to America, Mrs. E. Gould Pankhurst of Manchester, England, the leader of the militant suffragettes of Great Britain.

In accordance with the rulings of the customs authorities, less than twenty persons were admitted upon the dock and the reception to the little woman who has served two terms of imprisonment for her activity in the cause of women's suffrage, was devoid of clamor and smacked nothing of the vigorous methods for which Mrs. Pankhurst had been famous. But immediately she set foot on the shore, she was whisked away by her admirers in this country to a suffrage headquarters at 502 Fifth avenue.

Mrs. Pankhurst is slight of stature and has a wealth of brown hair which is just turning gray. She looked the typical Englishwoman and was becoming dressed in a dress of dark material.

Mrs. Pankhurst displayed a little medallion she wore and explained that it was a distinguishing mark worn by those English women who have been imprisoned for the cause. "I suffered solitary confinement," she said, "and had only one hour of exercise out of the twenty-four. During the other twenty-three I was confined in a little cell, eight by ten feet. I had cell No. 47 on the second floor of Holloway prison and I wore the regular prison garb, too, but I did not bring this costume to New York with me."

"The movement is progressing satisfactorily in England," she went on. "We have pledged from practically two-thirds of the members of the parliament to vote for us as soon as a bill is prepared by the government. And we expect sooner or later to compel the government to introduce the bill. Just when this will come to pass I am not prepared to say."

Mrs. Pankhurst stoutly defended militant tactics. "All great movements have been worked out by violence," she said. "The American people secured their liberty by violence, so why not rush the house of commons to obtain what we regard as our rights. The ballot granted to women will make them more intelligent, less self-centered, and on the whole much better citizens."

"Don't you think there would be corrupt women politicians and women 'ward heelers'?" Mrs. Pankhurst was asked.

At this she laughed outright. Then, after a pause, she said: "Well, I don't think it could make politics any worse, at any rate."

She will speak first at Boston on Friday, will go to Worcester, Mass., on Saturday and will return to New York Sunday for a reception by the National and New York state suffrage associations at headquarters here.

SEN. MCCARREN

To be Deposed as Brooklyn Leader

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Patrick H. McCarren in the hospital, Brooklyn, is to be deposed from the democratic leadership of that borough, according to a general report in political circles. Two insurgent or anti-McCarren borough tickets were withdrawn from the Brooklyn field yesterday with the understanding, according to a rumor, that they were to cease their fight against McCarren on consideration of his being ousted.

The instructions, it is said, came directly from Charles F. Murphy. Representatives of the insurgent tickets called upon the board of elections and requested their names to be left off the ballot. This leaves the McCarren ticket alone in the field in Brooklyn and while the move on one hand is said to have been the result of sympathy for Sen. McCarren in his illness, one of McCarren's own lieutenants said last night that the concessions made by the insurgents were the direct result of a deal to supplant him as leader.

SOME POPULAR INDOOR DIVERSIONS FOR YOUNG FOLK ON HALLOWE'EN

For those young persons who prefer milder Halloween pranks than putting Johnson's wheelbarrow on Atkins' front porch, planting barbers' poles in front of churches and otherwise altering the scenery surreptitiously there are many interesting and entertaining diversions. The girls usually go in for ducking for apples, burning lucky candles, telling fortunes or questioning the mirror for a glimpse of the lucky young man who may be a future husband. The lucky candle game is an old and popular one. A tub half filled with water is placed in the middle of the floor, and lighted wax candles, set on bits of wood, are floated on the surface of the water. Each person participating in the game chooses a candle, and the one whose candle burns longest will be attended by the best luck through life. Ducking for apples is more fun for those who look on than the ones who do the ducking, for it is no easy matter to lean over a tub of water and pick up a floating apple with your teeth. Halloween, or Hallowe'en, the evening of Oct. 31, is so called as being the night of All Hallowes. It is associated popularly with the prevalence of supernatural influences, and to Scotland the ceremonies of the eve were formerly regarded in a highly superstitious light. The principal object in consulting the future was to discover who should be the partner for life. Popular belief ascribed to children born on Hallowe'en the faculty of perceiving and holding converse with supernatural beings.

SUPREME COURT PARDON GRANTED RETIRING ENVOY

Says Railways Must Pay But it Arrived Too Late

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—The full bench of the supreme court yesterday overruled a plea and a demurrer filed by the Fitchburg & Leominster Street Railway company to an action brought by the attorney of Fitchburg against the Boston & Maine company et al. Plaintiff petitioned the court to appoint a special commission to determine which party should do the work of making alterations in the River street bridge, Fitchburg, where it crosses under the tracks of the B. & M. railroad and to apportion the cost among the Boston & Maine road, the Fitchburg & Leominster company and the cities and towns peculiarly benefited. The railway company contended it was not an interested party, and maintained that street railways were to stand a portion of the cost only where their tracks were on a bridge which crossed a railroad. Any doubt regarding the statute, the court says, was removed by the act of 1908, defining the duties of county commissioners in the alterations of crossings. The court further says that in the act of 1908 street railway companies are not only made parties to the proceedings and liable for contribution to the expenses, but counties, cities and towns specially benefited must pay a part of the cost. It holds that a street railway having tracks in a highway is a party interested in the alteration of a railroad crossing on or over the way, and is liable for its proper portion of the expenses.

MILL OPERATIVES

Want Longer Holiday on Saturday

A petition is being circulated in the Tremont & Suffolk mills for a longer holiday on Saturday. The petition is for shutting off work at 10 o'clock every Saturday morning after January 1. It is said that a like petition is to be circulated in other mills and that it will eventually include the cotton mill belt.

Under the recent act which cut down the working week to 56 hours in the mills beginning Jan. 1, 1910, the schedule proposed in some cities provides for 20 minutes reduction daily to make up the two hours less time per week. It was proposed to start work at 6.40 a. m. and end the day at 5.50 p. m.

Under the petition in the Tremont & Suffolk, the operatives will work the usual schedule each day for five days, and will quit at 10 a. m. Saturday.

EXTRA

LOWELL INVESTORS

Held Notes Against Town of So. Framingham

FRAMINGHAM, Oct. 21.—When the town officials opened up their offices today it was with the knowledge that $185,000 worth of questionable notes of the town of Framingham had been bought by New England investors and it was anticipated that the day would undoubtedly disclose more of these notes. Treasurer Lombard has announced that there is at least $220,000 outstanding. Whether the holders of these securities, whose individual amounts range from $10,000 to $25,000 can recover their money from the town is a question which will probably be adjudicated in the courts. The town council believes that Framingham will not have to make good the alleged illegal and possibly criminal practices involved in the selling of these notes. On the other hand several attorneys for holders of the notes pointed out today that in addition to the signature of Treasurer Lombard, that of Town Clerk Frank E. Hemenway will be on all the notes and the signatures have never been questioned. Clerk Hemenway states that it was Treasurer Lombard's habit to bring him half a dozen notes in which the amounts had not been filled in for his approval, and certification that the town had passed a vote authorizing the treasurer to raise money in anticipation of taxes. He certified all these notes and does not remember how many there were. He does claim that his responsibility only extended to the certification of the vote of the town and lay with the treasurer and the selectmen to fill in the amounts. The outstanding notes against the town whose validity is questioned are held by investors in Boston, Worcester, Springfield, Chicopee, Malden, Somerville, Weymouth, Quincy, Lowell, Fall River, New Bedford, Dedham, Hyde Park and Montpelier. Most of the notes were bought by savings banks, national banks and fire insurance companies and run for less than a year, as no town is authorized to borrow money in anticipation of taxes for more than one year. The state treasurer also holds more than $100,000 worth of securities of the town of Framingham of which $33,000 is in notes. All of these securities were sold to the state by Charles S. Cummings now under arrest in Boston in connection with the town's financial affairs and it is said that when the securities were sold the vendor of the notes received premiums amounting to over $6000.

TEXTILE WORKERS

Opposed to Employment of Children in Cotton Mills

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Severely castigating Dr. C. A. Stiles of the United States public health and marine hospital service for defending before the Southern Textile association meeting at Raleigh, N. C., the employment of children in the cotton mills of the south, F. C. Roberts of Georgia, chairman of a labor committee of the Central labor union of this city, today stirred up strong indignation among delegates to the United Textile Workers of America, assembled in convention in this city. Mr. Roberts expressed his surprise that a public officer, paid from the public revenue, should appear before a convention of employers of labor and undertake to defend the system of child labor in the southern states. Mr. Roberts advocated action by the convention in opposition of any attempt to further extend and to perpetuate the system of child labor in southern cotton mills. Such employment, he said, merely tended to displace adults. "I love the southland," said Mr. Roberts, "and I would do almost anything in my power to have the cotton of the south manufactured here. But there are prices I would not pay for such a commercial victory. I would not give our little children as the price of success. We know that the houses of these people are unsanitary. Here in the District of Columbia it is a daily occurrence to hear white and black men and women asking the judge of the police court to send them to the workhouse because they would be better off there than in their own homes. The workhouse is more sanitary and they are better fed there than in their homes. Our effort has been and will continue to be to try to improve their homes."

Mr. Roberts favored the policy of breaking away from all political parties to obtain the ends that were being fought for by unionists. In North Carolina, he said, legislative methods were the most efficient means for shortening the hours in the mills and he thought they should be used. In the breaking away from old political parties he saw the greatest encouragement of success along those lines. Pres. J. C. Colpois of the Central Labor union of this city, addressed the association. Referring to suggestions of manufacturers that the product of cotton mills be curtailed, he declared that if that were done the textile workers must be paid more money for the curtailed product. What discipline should be meted out to succeeding unions, was the subject of an animated debate among the delegates. The general sentiment favored depriving succeeding unions of all manner of benefits on the part of the Federation of Labor, Central Labor unions and from the national organization of textile workers. Any sympathy given those succeeding and independent unions, it was argued, only encouraged them in their efforts to disorganize the labor union movement. So generally was this plan approved that a resolution declaring the sentiments of the association in favor of withholding all sympathy and support from independent unions was adopted unanimously. The union label department of the American Federation, called attention to an article appearing in an August magazine which he said would place Dr. Stiles in the position of a witness against himself in the matter of employment of children in southern cotton mills. In that article, he said, Dr. Stiles had deprecated the employment of children and had stated there were 200,000 children in the southern cotton mills and that their lives were slowly being shipped out by the hookworm disease. Tracy declared that the union label department of the Federation of Labor has four hundred thousand union men and women in affiliation with it, and he expected soon to see added to that number at least 200,000 more workers. The Federation of Labor, he believed, had the right to realize an withdrawal of patronage singly or collectively from all person or firm, whenever it pleased. He advocated the building up of the principle of purchasing only goods on which the union label was placed.

RALPH WHITNEY

Sentenced on Charge of Forgery

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—When Ralph Whitney, a well appearing young man, came up for sentence on a forgery charge today his attorney surprised the court by declaring that his client belonged to a well known Boston family and had once been private secretary for President Taft. Nevertheless, Whitney was sent down for five years and Grace Malhotra who said she came from California was given three years for the same crime. Both had confessed. Whitney addressed the court for an hour and the girl pleaded in vain.

ARKWRIGHT CLUB

FAVORS A CURTAILMENT IN THE MILLS

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—A curtailment in Massachusetts cotton mills of 224 hours between Nov. 1 and Aug. 1, 1910, is favored by the Arkwright club in a statement issued today. The statement or vote which was adopted at a meeting yesterday was as follows: "It is the sense of this club that production of cotton goods should be curtailed to an amount equivalent to 224 working hours between this time and August next, and that as part of such curtailment the Massachusetts mills should go upon a basis of 56 hours on Nov. 1st."

The Arkwright club is composed of practically all the treasurers of cotton mills in New England and meetings are usually held in this city behind closed doors. A general curtailment of cotton production has been anticipated for some weeks, and if the vote of the club is carried out it is probable that notices will be posted in the mills within a few days.

NEW EXTRADITION TREATY

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 21.—According to reports in circulation in El Paso a new extradition treaty between the United States and Mexico soon will be signed, the new treaty being a result of the recent meeting of the presidents of the two countries. It will make easier the arresting of political offenders, it is said.

LINE NOT SUBSIDIZED

HAMBURG, Oct. 21.—Albert Balin, director general of Hamburg-American steamship line, stated today that it was not true as reported from Valparaiso that the Kosmos of Germany was subsidized by the German government. The line he said, was doing business purely on its own resources. The allegation that the Kosmos line was assisted financially by the government was made the basis of a request for government help for competing lines owned in Chile.

BIG PARADE

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—The Portland festival feature today was the civil and industrial parade. The parade headed by Don Gaspar de Portola and Queen Virginia was the greatest affair of its kind ever witnessed in this city. Twenty thousand persons representing virtually every fraternal, municipal and industrial body of the state were in line.

DONNELLY ARRESTED

The Trouble Arose Over Dispute About Donlon's Horse

Man Was Run Over by a Coal Car

James J. Donnelly, a wood and coal dealer who has a place of business at 13 South Highland street, near the corner of Gorham street, was arrested in the police station this morning by Inspector Martin Maher who had a warrant in his pocket for Donnelly's arrest. The warrant was sworn out by John T. Donlon, a horse trader, residing at 72 Congress street, who claims that Donnelly stole a horse belonging to him. Donnelly admits that he took the horse, but says that he was entitled to do so inasmuch as he won it on a wager. According to the story told, Donnelly and Donlon had been discussing the merits of their respective horses. Donnelly contended that he had a horse that could travel better than "half past two," while Donlon claimed that his first horse was "nothing more or less than a 'skate' and would drop dead if it went for any distance. The argument waxed warm and it was agreed that Donnelly and Donlon would drive their horses from this city to Lawrence and back and the owner of the horse which finished first was to become the owner of the defeated animal. Monday was the day set for the big race and at the appointed hour Mr. Donnelly put in an appearance, but Donlon was absent. His opponent had allowed the race to go by default, he was the winner and forthwith went to Humphrey's stable in Gorham street and took Donlon's horse and put it in his stable. Donnelly later met Donlon, it is alleged, and the latter had agreed to pull out the race yesterday, Donnelly returned Donlon's horse. Yesterday at the time designated for the start Donnelly was on hand, but Donlon was missing again. Donnelly applied the whip to his horse, sending him down the street at a fairly good rate of speed. He went over the road to Lawrence and upon arriving in the downriver city telephoned to one of his friends in this city that he was ready to start back to Lowell. When he arrived in Lowell several hours later he was greeted by a coterie of friends and was tendered a grand reception. He informed his friends that while he had won Donlon's horse on a fluke on Monday, that he had carried out his part of the agreement this time and straightway he went to Humphrey's stable and removed the horse. When Donlon heard that the horse was gone he went to Donnelly and tried to have the latter return the animal, but Donnelly said: "Not this time, John. I might have been technically guilty if I had kept the horse Monday, but today I have carried out my part of the agreement, and as I am the winner I intend to retain possession of the animal."

"If you don't return the horse I will have you arrested," said Donlon. "You can't frighten me. I know my rights, and I won the horse fair and square," was the answer. Donnelly didn't intend to lose his horse without a struggle, however, and accordingly made his way to the police station and swore out a warrant against Donnelly. Donnelly having got wind that his friend had applied for a warrant decided that he would consult his lawyer and went to his place of business in the Central block only to find that the lawyer was pleading a case in court this morning. Donnelly immediately made for the police court, but he had no sooner entered the building than Martin Maher, met him in the doorway and placed him under arrest.

John Devoe, about 32 years of age, and employed at the Boot mills, was run over by a heavily laden coal car in Anory street near the corner of Bridge street about 9.45 o'clock this morning and suffered injuries which resulted in his death at the Lowell hospital at 11.45 o'clock. It was while attempting to save himself from being injured after the car had tipped to one side, that he fell directly in front of the car and both wheels passed over his body, dismembering him and cutting off one of his legs. After the car had passed over the body and crashed against the end of the building the injured man was tenderly picked up by fellow employees, assisted by several passersby, and everything possible done until the ambulance came. He was then taken to the Lowell hospital and placed on the operating table. Despite the fact that the surgeons at the hospital did everything in their power to save his life he lived but two hours after arriving there.

Employed as Laborer

Devoe was employed as a laborer by the Boot mills and was one of a gang of men who shift coal cars from the shaft in Anory street to the coal pockets of the mill. It is the custom of the company after the cars are left standing on the tracks to shift them into the coal sheds with the assistance of a pair of horses. The horses are attached to the car and haul it along at a fair rate of speed until a curve, leading into the shed, is reached. The horses are then detached and the car travels over the single rail under the momentum, a man being stationed at the brake to bring the car to a stop at the desired place. In question was of the ordinary tip type, which can be turned on either side to dump the coal, the top of the car being held in position by two hooks on each side. This morning Devoe was assigned to man the brake of the car which figured in the accident. When the horses were attached to the car he mounted the front and with his hands on the brake stood on the car while the horses pulled it to the switch. Just as the horses were detached one of the hooks got loosened from its fastenings and dropped him down the street at a fairly good rate of speed. He went over the road to Lawrence and upon arriving in the downriver city telephoned to one of his friends in this city that he was ready to start back to Lowell. When he arrived in Lowell several hours later he was greeted by a coterie of friends and was tendered a grand reception. He informed his friends that while he had won Donlon's horse on a fluke on Monday, that he had carried out his part of the agreement this time and straightway he went to Humphrey's stable and removed the horse. When Donlon heard that the horse was gone he went to Donnelly and tried to have the latter return the animal, but Donnelly said: "Not this time, John. I might have been technically guilty if I had kept the horse Monday, but today I have carried out my part of the agreement, and as I am the winner I intend to retain possession of the animal."

"If you don't return the horse I will have you arrested," said Donlon. "You can't frighten me. I know my rights, and I won the horse fair and square," was the answer. Donnelly didn't intend to lose his horse without a struggle, however, and accordingly made his way to the police station and swore out a warrant against Donnelly. Donnelly having got wind that his friend had applied for a warrant decided that he would consult his lawyer and went to his place of business in the Central block only to find that the lawyer was pleading a case in court this morning. Donnelly immediately made for the police court, but he had no sooner entered the building than Martin Maher, met him in the doorway and placed him under arrest.

A Terrible Sight

The wheels of the car passed over the middle of the man's body and one of his legs. He was dragged a short distance and then thrown to one side, bleeding profusely and almost completely covered with coal dust. His fellow employees were so dazed for a few minutes that they did not seem to know what to do. James F. Fleming, a clerk for the Flomings paper and twine company, was passing his car at the time and taking the situation in a glance grabbed a heavy horse blanket from the seat and rushing to the injured man, covered him with the blanket and did everything possible to relieve his sufferings until others came to his assistance. The ambulance was summoned and made a quick trip to the scene and then removed the man to the Lowell hospital.

Last Rites of Church

Rev. Fr. Lee, of Jefferson, Mass., who was visiting relatives in this city, happened to be passing a few minutes after the accident occurred and being attracted to the scene administered the last rites of the church.

Displayed Great Courage

Despite the fact that the man was almost cut in two he remained conscious until the ambulance arrived. In the meantime he never uttered a man. He spoke, but his words were incoherent.

Died at the Hospital

Examination at the hospital showed that the man was suffering from a compound comminuted fracture of the thigh and pelvis. He died at 11.45 o'clock.

FLOOR ON FIRE

BLAZE IN A HOUSE IN MARKET STREET

An alarm from box 125 shortly after seven o'clock this morning summoned a portion of the fire department to a slight blaze in a house in Market street, near Cumiskey's alley, belonging to Mrs. Spalding. A four inch iron pipe had been placed in the building to be used as a chimney and when a fire was started in a stove this morning the pipe became so hot that it set fire to the floor. The blaze was extinguished before much damage was done.

EXPLORER COOK

Reached the Pole, Says Man, Wife and Her Sister Killed

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 21.—Dr. Otto Nordenskjöld, the Antarctic explorer, expressed himself today as much impressed with the word brought from Knud Rasmussen, the explorer now in Greenland, by the Greenland steamer Godthauesund. Rasmussen is reported as quite convinced, through talks with the Eskimos, that Dr. Cook reached the North pole. "The message from Rasmussen," the doctor said, "leaves me without a doubt that Dr. Cook reached the pole as he stated. I deplore, however, the fact that Cook failed to turn over his observations to the University of Copenhagen immediately upon his arrival in Denmark. And he done this he would have deprived Commander Peary of an opportunity to allege that his pole data was made to order after Cook reached New York. Such allegations, however, will not be given credence by anyone who, like myself, is well acquainted with Cook, knowing him as a conscientious explorer."

MAN WAS KILLED

Crushed to Death Under a Car

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Oct. 21.—An eastbound freight train on the Erie railroad ran off the track in the cut at Gayward, a few miles west of here today, and fireman Robert Smith of Port Jervis was caught under the engine as it turned over and crushed to death. The engineer and a trainman were thrown under the engine and badly scalped before they could be taken out. The two men were buried in the wreck for over an hour. The heavy fog is supposed to have prevented the engineer from seeing the signals at the switch. A number of cars loaded with merchandise were derailed and the westbound track was blocked for three hours.

6 O'CLOCK AN INJUNCTION ISSUED In Order To Prevent the Transfer of Stock

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 21.—A temporary injunction restraining the transfer of stock alleged to have been secured by the American Banking Co. of Boston from Mrs. Susan Littlehale of Holliston by fraudulent misrepresentation, was issued by Judge Edward A. Pierce, sitting in the equity session in Boston today, following the filing of a bill in equity on behalf of Mrs. Littlehale in the office of the clerk of the superior court here yesterday. It was known last night that such a bill had been filed, but the clerk refused to divulge its contents at that time or to make known by whom it had been filed.

Today it was announced that the bill had been filed by the law firm of Merriam, Hooper & Hilton of Boston on behalf of Mrs. Littlehale, and was directed against the American Banking Co., Charles S. Cummings, treasurer of the company, R. S. Stone, said to be connected with the company, the Boston & Albany R. R. Co., and the Framingham National bank. In the bill Mrs. Littlehale sets forth that on Sept. 15 last, Stone, purporting to be acting for the American Banking Co., induced her to transfer to him five shares of the capital stock of the Boston & Al-

THE ASSESSORS TO PLAY GOLF

Hear Petition for Abatement of Taxes

LAWRENCE, Oct. 21.—The assessors yesterday gave a hearing on the petition of the Essex company for abatement of the excess tax levied upon it this year in consequence of the contention of Mayor White that the corporation was not paying a sufficient amount.

Frank E. Dunbar appeared in behalf of the company, and there were also present at the hearing Mayor White and the members of the commission appointed by him and on whose recommendation the extra levy was made. These comprised Franklin Butler, Harry R. Lawrence, Hugo Bell, A. B. Smith and Horace Smith, Deputy State Tax Commissioner Poles was also in attendance.

Mr. Dunbar contended that the assessors had acted under a mistaken idea. The company questions the validity of the assessment levied on the dam and land under the north and south canals. The assessed value is $1,020,000. The company maintained that water power could not be taxed as such, but its value must go with the land which it appropriates. The water power is utilized by the mills and consequently makes the land occupied by the factories more valuable.

Furthermore, it is held that the land under the north canal cannot be taxed as this is a public highway and is no more liable to taxation than a public street. The company's charter provides that it shall maintain locks in this canal to permit the passage of craft through it.

Mayor White desired to know if the company's books were at hand as he had requested, but they were not. Mr. Dunbar also called attention to the fact that the tax commissioners' department had reduced the assessed valuation fixed by $545,000.

Assessor Finn moved that the request of the Essex company be refused, but his motion was not seconded and the matter was finally taken under advisement.

BILL IN EQUITY

To Restrain Natick's Chief of Police

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—A petition was brought against Chief of Police Peter G. Klein of Natick in the United States circuit court yesterday by the Natick Interstate Express company, seeking by a bill in equity, to restrain Chief Klein from seizing express packages of liquor shipped from outside the state to citizens of Natick. The company contended that it is a chartered express company of Massachusetts, entitled to do as interstate business, and that on August 21, 1909, Chief Klein seized a package of liquor shipped by parties in Sutton, Mass., via Woonsocket, R. I., to parties in Natick.

Chief Klein contends that the express company is engaged solely in the business of carrying liquors and is therefore not a bona fide express company in the intent and meaning of the law.

ANNUAL REUNION Of Immaculate Conception Parish Last Evening

Rev. Geo. Nolan, O. M. I., Greeted by His Parishioners—Excellent Stage Performance Enjoyed

The annual reunion of the parishioners of the Immaculate Conception church was held last evening in Associate hall with an attendance that crowded the large hall to the doors. Not only were about all the families of the parish represented but many from the other parishes of the city were in attendance and all had a merry time. The hall was prettily decorated with autumn foliage and flowers while the different booths in the corners of the hall were beautifully adorned, temptingly laden and charmingly attended. All the booths did a flourishing business.

The affair was of more than ordinary interest for it gave many of the parishioners an opportunity to meet the new pastor, Rev. George Nolan, O. M. I., for the first time. Fr. Nolan was present during the greater part of the evening and was kept busy shaking hands with the members of his flock. He was greatly pleased with the large attendance and the cordial spirit with which he was greeted on all sides. Among the other clergy present were Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I., Rev. William Patton, O. M. I., Rev. John P. Flynn, O. M. I., and Rev. John P. O'Brien, O. M. I., all of the Immaculate Conception church; and Rev. John Duffy, O. M. I., Green Bay, Wis.; Rev. James Duffy and Rev. Fr. Lyons, the latter of St. Boston; Rev. Fr. Phelan and Strauss of the Novitiate at Tewksbury, and Rev. Fr. Dorgan, O. M. I., of Buffalo.

The stage performance came up to expectations and much was expected of it.

The one-act comedy, "The First Rehearsal," was given by the Y. M. C. I. Choral society, with the following cast of characters: "Lillian Hyde," Miss May E. White; stage manager, Edward Shaw; proprietor, Frank McArthur; carpenter, William Marren, and scene shifter, Anthony Doyle. Assisting in the presentation were: James E. Donnelly, James McNulty, John J. Dalton, Andrew Doyle, John H. McCaffrey, Joseph McFarland, Misses Elizabeth McFarland, Lilla Shea, Fessie McFarland, Mary McFarland, Mary McFarland, and Frank Ready, John Cleary, William Campbell, Michael Calin and James Carlin.

The various musical numbers offered by the cast of principals and by some of the "assisting talent" went off very well. Mrs. McFarland gave the opening song entitled "Daisies Won't Tell." Mr. Marren, with a brace of well timed parodies, scored one of the great big hits of the show. The audience liked the fare offered by Marren and demanded more of it. Andrew Doyle sang the sentimental ballad entitled "Sweet Me in Dreamland" and Miss Whitey pleased much with a soprano number. Mr. McCaffrey gave the noted "Garden of Roses." It was an excellent number. Mr. Shea contributed "Barney McGee," "Makin' Sheep's Eyes at Me," and "Daddy's little secret." Mrs. McNulty sang "I'm Going to Do as I Please." Mr. McNulty slipped in another humorous number, and Mr. Dalton gave a selected number. The performance closed with "Duchess of Killes," by Anthony Doyle and company. The music was under the direction of Mr. McCaffrey. Gilmore's orchestra, William Gilmore's leader, furnished adequate accompaniments.

The performance was over at 10 o'clock. Thereafter dancing started, and was kept up until midnight.

Wm. J. King was general manager, and James V. Flanagan was floor director and John H. McCaffrey was assistant. Paul H. McKee was chief aid. His assistants were John C. Farrington, Eugene C. Queenan, Thomas McCann, Terrence E. Leonard, John Downey, Paul Clark, William Maloney, John H. O'Connor, Wm. L. Gookin, James McNulty, Jas. E. Burns, Wm. C. Harrington, Elms A. OFFICIAL PLOT IN POLICE COURT

Is Alleged Against Federal Prisoner

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 21.—Stories are being circulated today by friends of Gutierrez de Lara, the federal prisoner, to the effect that there is an official plot against the Mexican to have him deported from the United States as an anarchist alien. It is declared that there is a direct connection between the De Lara case and the robbery of the post office at Terminal island and near San Pedro Tuesday. The significant fact in the robbery is said to be that the only mail taken was that from Mexico, including letters to friends of De Lara. Washington officials have been notified.

The Herald today says that two members of the Los Angeles police force are accused in serving the Mexican government in cases where political refugees have been arrested or imprisoned. The officers, according to the newspapers, are believed to be the ones who gave information to Immigration Inspector Ridgeway, purporting to show that De Lara is an anarchist and an alien who under the law should be deported to Mexico. One of these officers at least is said to have been active in obtaining evidence which was used in sending the alleged revolutionist Maggon, Villalera and Rivers to the Arizona penitentiary for violating the federal neutrality laws.

As far as the local authorities know the Mexican government has no desire for De Lara's return. The immigration officials say that if he can show that his convictions as to the existing forms of government and his federal conduct are not objectionable as measured by standards applied to every alien, he can remain here indefinitely if he does not violate other laws.

The examination will be held as soon as necessary papers arrive from Washington, probably next week.

IRELAND'S CAUSE

BRILLIANT PATRIOTS COMING HERE NEXT TUESDAY

In Associate hall next Tuesday evening there will be a big demonstration under the auspices of the United Irish league at which the speakers will be Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M. P., Capt. Edward O'Meara Condon and John O'Callaghan.

Mr. O'Connor is one of the ablest orators of the present day and an editor of eminent ability in London. He has been in the house of commons for 25 years and is highly esteemed by the English people as well as those of his own race. Capt. Edward O'Meara Condon was sentenced to death in 1867 with Allen, Larkin and O'Brien, the Manchester martyrs, but being an American citizen he escaped the death penalty.

His sentence was commuted, and after eleven years in prison he was liberated on condition that he would leave the country. He has just returned from Ireland after a wonderful tour, in which the highest honors were heaped upon him. He can testify to the great work accomplished by the parliamentary movement.

John O'Callaghan, who accompanied Mr. Condon, is the national secretary of the United Irish league and an untiring worker in the cause.

The meeting will be the most interesting of the kind ever held in Lowell. See ad.

Fruit Dealer Charged With Assault Goes Free

Wedding Postponed Because the Bridegroom Got Drunk and Had to Appear in Police Court

Mohomet Karan, who keeps a fruit store in Broadway, in the vicinity of Willow street, was arraigned in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with assault and battery on Anna Gorallink, the five-year-old daughter of Frank Gorallink, who keeps a second hand clothing store near the place of the defendant.

The little girl testified that about 7:30 o'clock on the night of October 7th she with two little boys was standing near the fruit stand when Karan slapped her in the face and kicked her. Karan denied that he struck her. He said that he had been bothered by children stealing fruit from him and on the night of the alleged assault he ordered the little girl away from the stand. She refused to go and he took her by the arm and walked her into the middle of the street.

During the course of the cross-examination of the little girl counsel for the defense made her admit that her father had promised the two witnesses for the government—little boys—that he would give them ten cents and a pair of stockings apiece and take them to the show if they would testify in court that Karan hit his daughter.

The boys when placed on the stand admitted that they had received the money and the stockings but as yet had not witnessed the show.

The court after considering the testimony found the defendant not guilty and ordered him discharged.

THE RAILROADS THE CHIPPEWAS

Appeal to the Supreme Court Say They Cannot Live on Promises

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 21.—The time has come for the payment into the state treasury of corporation taxes, and those which have thus far been paid by railroad companies doing business in the state have been accompanied by protests. These indicate that it is the intention of the railroads to carry the question to the supreme court and ask an abatement.

In the annual valuation of property by the state board of equalization, recently made public, the valuation of railroad properties within the state was increased about $8,000,000 in one year. The attorneys for the railroads at once gave out a statement, claiming that the figures fixed by the state authorities were excessive and unjust. The several protests are similar in import to that filed by Fourth Vice Pres. William J. Hobbs of the Boston & Maine, which is as follows:

"Payment of these taxes against the said several corporations is made under protest and with a reservation of all legal rights under said statute or any other law of New Hampshire, to secure an abatement or reduction thereof, or for such other or different relief as justice may require."

Under the provisions of chapter 64, railroads and other corporations are compelled to pay the taxes assessed and, in case of the railroads, they have one year in which to petition the court for an abatement.

HIRAM DANE SURPRISED

Hiram Dane of North Westford was agreeably surprised Monday evening when a number of his friends called upon him and presented him a beautiful picture. The occasion of the party was to give Mr. Dane a royal send-off prior to his return to southern California.

THE BEST REMEDY

For Women—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Noah, Ky. — "I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from headaches, nervous prostration, and hemorrhages."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me well and strong, so that I can do all my housework, and attend to the store and post-office, and feel much younger than I really am."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most successful remedy for all kinds of female troubles, and I feel that I can never praise it enough."—Mrs. Lizzie Holland, Noah, Ky.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain.

Women everywhere should remember that there is other remedy down to medicine that will successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

For 30 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female ailments—menstrual irregularities, displacements, fibroids, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration.

We never publish a testimonial without the special permission of the writer, and then only when we are sure it is genuine. Such testimony should create confidence in all suffering women.

THE INNOCENT AND GUILTY IN A N INTENSE SCENE IN "THE THIRD DEGREE"

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Charles Klein, the author of "The Lion and the Mouse," is responsible for "The Third Degree," his latest play, which comes to this city tonight, where it will be seen at the Opera House for four performances under the management of Henry R. Harris. Prominent in the cast are Marion Kenby, Lawrence Eddinger, James Seely, Margaret Drew, A. W. Ellis, George Seybold and others.

This play deals with a number of pertinent conditions that exist in our social life in large cities, and it is the purpose of Mr. Klein, by means of this play, to arouse a sentiment in opposition to the "Third Degree" and the "Mouse," as regards financial and political conditions. The scenes are all in New York. The characters are prominent in the predominant social set. One of its members has been found dead, and the police, in order to get the general charge of their inefficiency, fasten the guilt on an innocent man, and though they refuse to admit it, and bend every effort to fasten the guilt on the unfortunate creature they had placed under arrest. The methods employed by the police are shown in a way most interesting and original. For the first time in the history of the stage, in "The Third Degree" will be portrayed the methods of the police department, which in many instances have revealed the acquisition for barbarity and cruelty. Mr. Klein has handled the subject deftly and ably in a most convincing manner, and as a result this play should invite a large attendance to the performances in this city.

"THE HOUSE OF 1000 CANDLES."

The appearance of "The House of a Thousand Candles" at the Opera House, October 25 promises to be an event decidedly out of the ordinary. The play is a powerful dramatization of the life of the same name and contains all its many interesting episodes and strange characters. There is the mysterious Bates, the man with a past, which will be enacted by William Webb, an actor of rare ability, and who is said to be the ideal artist for the part. Then there is the beautiful young Glenora, the villainous Pickering, the bright Irishman, Larry Donovan, and the pugilistic preacher, Rev. Dr. Stoddard, the fun loving school girl, Marion Devereaux, and her equally pert companion, Gladys Armstrong.

"THE NOBLE SPANARD."

Macey Harlam, now appearing as the Count de Moret in "The Noble Spanard," was at one time a member of the United States navy, and served as a gunner on the battleship "Texas."

"THE THIEF."

The action of "The Thief," the famous Paris play by the noted Henry Bernstein, which Chas. Frohman sends with a special cast to the Opera House, is supposed to all take place within twenty-four hours. It is described as being a pronounced woman's play, as it is all about the peculiar follies, ambition and cunning of that sex. Love as deep and frailty as wide as that described to the average woman of so-called polished society is said to be forcefully depicted in this play.

Do You Walk---Do You Like to Walk--- Can You Walk---and if Not, Why Not--- Are Your Shoes the Right Kind?

Walking is not only the easiest, the most convenient, and the most pleasurable, but the healthiest of all rational exercise. But to enjoy walking you must have the right kind of shoes—shoes that support the arch of your foot, that will grasp the foot at the waist, back of the ball, that will hold your heel firmly in place, so that when you lift your feet you lift your shoes without exertion. If they continue to build shoes such as they are building today, how long do you suppose it will be before the American people will become a nation of cripples? If they build bridges the same as they build shoes, how many accidents do you suppose would be recorded in a day? Don't you think that a human being should be shod with the same degree of science as a horse? If you had a valuable horse would you allow the blacksmith to place the caulk away in the middle of his shoes, the same as the young ladies of our country are wearing the heels of their shoes, set away down in the shank two inches high when an inch would be enough if the shoe was built right? If the ordinary bridge was built without any support only at both ends how long do you suppose it would carry its weight without breaking down? Think of the human freight that is carried day by day on a pair of shoes without any support whatever from the heel to the ball, only a little piece of thin leather, not even a steel shank as they used to use in days gone by, when shoes were made to walk in. I understand that there is a factory up in New Hampshire where they make nothing but wooden shanks for shoes, which are taking the place of steel shanks, the thickness varying from one-tenth to three-sixteenths of an inch. With this kind of a shank and the foot propped up in the air, would it support a person who weighs anywhere from one hundred to two hundred and fifty pounds, especially when the heel is away under or away back from the line of weights? Is it any wonder then that people have less desire to walk? Is it any wonder that men and women are troubled with tired feet and limbs, pains in the back and in the calves of their legs, and they don't know what the trouble is until they consult their family physician? Then they find that the trouble is with their feet. Those who don't use judgment in such a case run to some one who knows nothing about such cases, and the next thing they have a pair of arch supports set into their shoes to cure the pain. It takes an expert to fit arch supports, and if they don't fit right they are worse than none at all.

There is just one kind of shoe that will cure the falling arch and relieve the pains and torture that go with it, and that is the O'SULLIVAN ARCH SUPPORTING SHOE, built on natural lines to fit the human foot of man or woman. It does away with the clumsy, rigid arch support, 30,000 pairs of which are said to be sold in this country every day, as inserts to put into shoes. This trouble is so alarming today that it can be found from childhood up, all caused by wearing shoes that are constructed wrong, and the most serious phase of it is to be found among young women, many of them with their ankles almost down to the ground, with the heels of their shoes run down on the inside because the arch of the foot is not supported in the shoes they wear. We are prepared to take care of the worst case of flat foot, and we guarantee that the wearers of our shoes will walk straight. If you have foot trouble you know where to come.

N. E. AERO CLUB

Proposes to Make Lowell an Ascension Station

Lowell is to become a centre for aero navigation and will hereafter be the centre for balloon ascensions to be held under the auspices of the Aero club of New England. One trip will be made from this city Saturday afternoon, three more will be made next week, and before the snow flies it is expected that 30 or 40 ascensions will be made from this city.

The first of a series of ascents will take place at two o'clock Saturday afternoon when J. Walter Flagg of Worcester will make an ascension alone.

He is qualifying for an international pilot's license and made the last flight yesterday from Fitchburg.

Next week J. P. Benton of the Boston Transcript, will make two lone ascensions as part of his program necessary to qualify him as a "sky pilot."

The club has been making Fitchburg its headquarters, but the gas company located in that place recently changed hands and the club is now unable to secure gas. Inasmuch as Charles J. Gidden made several successful ascents from this city and as the gas furnished by the Lowell Gas company has proved to be of the quality necessary for buoyancy, through the efforts of Mr. Gidden it was decided to make Lowell the home station of the club.

By next spring the Aero club will have two new balloons ready for use. One of a capacity of 35,000 cubic feet of gas, will be called the "New Boston." It is expected that this balloon will be stationed at Lowell.

NEW HAIR TREATMENT

The air is full of floating dust, dirt and disease germs, which get into your hair. There is a natural oil on your head that holds the dust fast and in a short time you have dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. The pores in your scalp are stopped up, the hair roots get no nourishment, and then your hair begins to fall out. Cleanliness is the one thing needed. Tonics, renewers, invigorators and hair growers do not and can not remove the dirt that causes the trouble. You need Birt's Head Wash, the new scientific preparation. This will put the hair and scalp in a healthy, natural condition, so that faded, lifeless hair, even its natural color. There is no alcohol or ammonia in it, as they are said to make hair turn gray prematurely. Birt's Head Wash is made of Refined Soap, Cocaine, Coconut Oil, White of Eggs, Glycerine and Biotin. There are no better things than these known for cleansing the hair, scalp, and any doctor will tell you as if you ask him. Don't use common soaps and shampoos. They often contain too much alkali, and that is one of the most harmful things you can put on your head.

NIGHT EDITION

SERIOUS CHARGE

Man Accused of Trying to Burn His Wife

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Assault with intent to kill was the technical charge preferred today against Hyman Gerowsky, who the police allege attempted early today to burn his wife alive. The announcement was also made by the authorities that an additional charge of arson would be lodged against Gerowsky. According to the story given out by the police, Gerowsky and his wife have been living in a state of discord for some time past. Early today, the police say, Gerowsky arose and saturated the night clothes of his wife and the coverings of the bed on which she was sleeping with kerosene and then lighted the oil-soaked fabric. Mrs. Gerowsky awoke suddenly and leaped out of bed with her night clothes in flames. Her fifteen-year-old son, Israel, put out the fire and then ran to the Joy street police station which is located near the section of the West End where Gerowsky and his family lives. Two officers went to the house and extinguished the fire in the bedroom.

AUTOPSY HELD

On the Body of the Girl Murdered in Fall River

FALL RIVER, Oct. 21.—Medical Examiner Thomas Gunning and his associates were at work in a local undertaking shop this afternoon trying to determine by an autopsy what caused the death of the girl whose dismembered body was found distributed along the lonely Bulwermarsh highroad in Tiverton. Meanwhile the police of this city were putting forth every means in their power to locate the missing head and prove their theory beyond a reasonable doubt that Miss Amelia St. Jean of Woonsocket had been murdered.

SEVEN ARRESTED COL. ROOSEVELT

In Connection With Kidnapping of Girl To Hunt in Region of Njoro

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The police today rounded up seven men who are suspected of having had a hand in the kidnapping of four year old Jennie Lopez. The girl was found wandering in the streets last Monday night after having been missing from her home since Sept. 6. The seven prisoners will be confronted with the child today.

BISHOP WALSH

Is To Pay a Visit to Rome

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 21.—Right Rev. Louis S. Walsh, Roman Catholic bishop of this state, will leave in a few days for a visit to Rome. He will be gone several months. The exact date of his departure has not been determined. Monday was the third anniversary of his consecration as the fourth bishop of the Episcopal see of Portland.

Mt. McKinley

Seems as though we have seen that name somewhere—Oh yes, it's a mountain and it's "the top of the Continent." In 1906 a man climbed—but let that pass. We have got a Mountain of our own right here in Lowell. Its head rises above the level of the sea a good many feet and it is composed entirely of COKE. It's in our yard at the School Street Works. It's worth seeing if not climbing. There are thousands of chaldrons in the pile and we shall sell every scrap of it before this time in 1910. If you undertake to climb our Mountain and get to the top, have a notary public with you when you nail the flag and bury your records. Sample pieces of this mountain delivered at any home in Lowell at $4.75 per chaldron.

Clean delivery, full weight. You can see Our Coke every day on the streets being delivered on the yellow wagons. It will look good to you.

STOCK MARKET

CLOSED UNUSUALLY STRONG THIS AFTERNOON

U. S. Steel Was Held Up Beyond Yesterday's Price. Matricke Publishing Co. Dropped. Market Was On the Rise Today.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The opening of the stock market was weak owing to disturbed conditions abroad in trading, the advance of 1 per cent in the bank of England, official rate of discount and the resignation of the Spanish cabinet. Fifteen thousand shares of United States Steel were held up beyond yesterday's price, 88 1/2, and 88 1/2, compared with 89, yesterday. Bethlehem Steel fell 1/2, Reading 1 1/2, Southern Pacific, Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting, 1, and Union Pacific, Great Northern, Erie, Kansas & Texas, Texas Pacific, Kansas City Southern and Chesapeake & Ohio large fractions. There was an isolated advance of 1/2 in Wabash preferred.

When the selling orders distributed at the opening had been cleared up the market rallied and a number of stocks recovered yesterday's losses. Wabash preferred was pushed up 1/2 and American Ice 1. Fresh liquidation started in U. S. Steel and some of the other stocks one or more. There was a fractional rally at 11 o'clock and trading became dull.

A heavy demand developed for U. S. Steel which caused a full recovery in that stock with a parallel movement in the general list. Interborough Metropolitan, Erie rose 1/2 and Pacific Telephone and Telegraph 1/2. The market vibrated narrowly. Union Pacific reacted a point from its best price and then recovered to yesterday's closing level.

The market closed unusually strong. U. S. Steel was bid up 1/2 above yesterday's final price in a turn against the shorts. Wabash preferred extended its gain to 3. The common stock and Wheeling and Lake Erie rose 1/2, Union Pacific 1/2, and Missouri Pacific 1/2. Relatively the list moved narrowly. Butterick Publishing dropped 2/4 points.

Interest in Bank Statement

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—At the opening of the market this morning the support was general and it appeared as though the holders would sell off. A great deal of interest is manifested in the bank statement to be issued today.

If it should appear with a favorable complexion it is thought that it would start a good rally. The market is held up by it should be opposite to the present belief it would add a considerable feeling of uneasiness now prevailing because of the bank of England's action.

Indications during the early hours of trading gave the traders the opinion that the bank of England would extend its rate which has forced the liquidation of the outstanding finance bills and that the situation has greatly improved.

Our commodity exports are growing and we now have an export balance which may prevent us from shipping gold.

Boston Consolidated Co.

The September record of the Boston Consolidated Co.'s property at Salt Lake City was 178 tons of sulphide ore, 178 tons of common stock and 72,000 tons of the material were treated, which produced 3,550 dry tons and contained 1,569,000 pounds of copper. The recovery was 21.8 lbs. of copper per ton of crude ore.

The cost of mining is said to be below 10 cents a pound and the management intends to increase the output with the present capacity.

Jimmie Gardner

Writes Home From His Training Quarters

Down in Boston someone has circulated the report abroad that Jimmie Gardner is not in good condition for his coming match with Bill McKinnon at the Armory Club next Tuesday night, when all the local sports will go below to see their favorite trim the Roxbury boy for the third time.

The report as to Gardner's condition is about as true as the report recently circulated that he was kicked in Omaha three hours after he had walked out of the Sun office in Lowell.

An idea of Gardner's condition may best be obtained from the following letter written by Jimmie from his training quarters at the celebrated Ferncroft Inn, in Middleton, to a friend in the Sun office. The letter reads as follows:

"I thought I would write you a few lines to let you know what I am doing in preparation for my match with Bill McKinnon next Tuesday evening. In the first place, I realize that while I have twice received the decision over McKinnon, he is up and coming all the time and has it on me for weight and hence I am not taking any chances. This is one of the most beautiful spots that I have ever encountered in my travels and you know I have trained all over the country. It makes an ideal training quarters and aside from that is the scene of auto parties and travelers in this section of the state. The scenery here is of historic interest, the scenery most pleasing, while the inn, its equipment and service could not be improved upon. In my camp this time I have by brothers Billie and Mike, Kid Goodman, whom everybody knows, and Jack Fitzpatrick, a noted boxing instructor from West Newton. Martin Cagle is coming down to box with me and so you see I will have plenty of good ones to help me in my work of training. I feel like a two-year-old, and we have a happy family here. I saw by the papers that I was knocked out in Omaha a few nights ago. Say, that was the longest distance knockout on record."

COLLECTOR LOEB

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Collector Loeb of New York conferred today with Acting Secretary of the Treasury Hill and Chief Montgomery of the customs division of the treasury department. Mr. Loeb talked over the pending trials of importers in New York, which is only one of a series of customs prosecutions. He said that the evidence in these cases was more sweeping and complete than in any other yet brought. To effect this he pointed out that it was necessary to assure immunity to two or three of the thirty men implicated. The evidence, he said, could be obtained only in that way, and he was being prosecuted in that way was absolutely essential to the prosecutions. Other prosecutions are to come.

CAPT. WINSLOW DETACHED

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Oct. 21.—Capt. Cameron McRae Winslow, commanding the battleship New Hampshire, which is at present at Portsmouth, has been detached from the command of his ship today and ordered to New York, where he is to be supervisor of New York harbor. Commander Rodgers, equipment officer at the Philadelphia navy yard, has been ordered to relieve Captain Winslow here.

"HEALER" IS DEAD
HASTINGS, Neb., Oct. 21.—C. M. Schmitt, famous a few years ago as a "healer" who claimed to cure illness by divine power, was found dead in a room at a local hotel today. Doctors say he died of old age.

SPANISH CABINET

Headed by Premier Maura Resigned Today

MADRID, Oct. 21.—The Spanish cabinet, headed by Premier Maura, resigned this afternoon. The fall of the cabinet was regarded as inevitable after the bitter speech of Minister of the Interior Lalo Latorre in the chamber of deputies last night, during which he classed the liberals with the republicans and socialists, who were arrayed against the throne.

Today King Alfonso summoned Premier Maura, Senor Dato, former minister of the interior and other leaders in parliament. The impression continued that the liberals will refuse to assume power, preferring to leave the conservatives to extricate themselves from the present situation as best they can.

SCHOOL MASTERS

Held a Meeting and Discussed Educational Affairs

While some of the rules recently adopted by the school board have caused much adverse criticism one which undoubtedly will operate for the good of the school system was put into effect when the first of a series of monthly meetings of the grammar school principals was held at the rooms of the school board at city hall, Superintendent Whitcomb presiding. Heretofore under the rules the superintendent called general meetings of all the teachers at the beginning of each term at which addresses were made upon matters pertaining to the welfare of the school system. The new rule requires, in addition to the general meeting of all teachers, a monthly meeting of the grammar school masters.

SUPREME COURT

Denies Petition of Albert Bigelow

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—The petition of Albert Bigelow of this city for a rehearing of the suit brought by the Old Dominion Copper Mining & Smelting Co. to recover from him alleged wrongfully profits and recently decided against him, was denied by the full bench of the supreme court today. It is not yet known whether an attempt will be made to carry the case to the supreme court of the United States, although it is understood that Mr. Bigelow's attorneys are trying to discover sufficient grounds for such action.

By the judgment of the lower court recently sustained by the supreme court, Mr. Bigelow must pay about $2,000,000 to the Old Dominion Copper Mining & Smelting Co., this sum representing profits he is alleged to have made wrongfully in connection with the sale to the company the Old Dominion Copper Mining Co.

NEW CARDINALS WARNS FRANCE

Archbishop O'Connell May Be One

ROME, Oct. 21.—Although the pope only recently seemed determined not to have a consistory until 1910, it is now suddenly announced that one will be held about the middle of December and another next spring. It is added that the reason for holding two consistories is for appointing as cardinals in the second consistory certain prelates who cannot be included in the first.

Strict secrecy is being maintained regarding the names of those whom it is intended to elevate, but it is known that Mgr. Mendes Beilo, patriarch of Lisbon, will receive the red hat in December and it is also considered certain that Mgr. Bilelet, papal major-domo, will be elevated in the spring.

Regarding the appointment of a new American cardinal, Archbishop Farley of New York, Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul, Minn., and Archbishop O'Connell of Boston are considered the most likely candidates, while it is reported also that an American cardinal may be named as a member of the curia, and will, therefore, live in the Vatican. Others likely to receive the red hat in either consistory are the Most Rev. Francis Bourne, archbishop of Westminster, Mgr. Falconio, apostolic delegate at Washington, Mgr. Giustini, secretary of the Congregation of Bishops, Mgr. Dall'Aglio, archbishop of Bologna, and the archbishops of Buenos Ayres and Florence.

KILLED BY GAS

Man Was Found Dead in Bed

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 21.—Dewitte Rogers, a young married man of political promise, a former student at Rutgers college, and engaged in a campaign for a seat in the common council of Metuchen, N. J., was found yesterday in a lodging house beside an unconscious woman who had said she was his wife. The identification was made positive last night by his family physician, who ordered the body removed to Metuchen. Mrs. Rogers is prostrated.

Death was caused by gas from a hot air furnace in the ceiling, opening near the head of the bed through a register. The landlady's daughter, who occupied a room above that taken by Rogers, was similarly overcome and only the noise of her falling from bed, which aroused her mother below, saved her life. Search of other rooms discovered Rogers dead. There was no evidence of suicide as the gas cocks were all closed.

Checks payable to Rogers and aggregating $900 suggested the identification last night. His companion was hurried to a hospital where, on regaining consciousness, she positively refused to tell her name or where she lived. Both she and Rogers had been drinking.

To First Consider Her Own Interests

PARIS, Oct. 21.—The exact assurances given by United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich during his recent talks with government officials regarding Franco-American tariff relations and with particular reference to the interpretation of section 2 of the new American tariff law, are revealed in a book just published. M. Cruppi, former minister of commerce, who favors active French commercial expansion, in this book quotes Sen. Aldrich as saying that President Taft's interpretation of "undue discrimination" did not mean that France must necessarily grant all her minimums, but only that the treatment of American products "must be reciprocally just and reasonable," and that naturally it was expected that France would give the United States the same treatment as other active competitors in the matter of French trade.

M. Cruppi adds that Sen. Aldrich's conciliatory assurances are extremely vague, but that, after all, France must first consider her own interests. He insists that industrial and commercial development are now of primary importance to every country, and he warns France that if these questions continue to be politically eclipsed as heretofore by social questions France will soon fall to the fourth rank.

M. Cruppi contends that the policy of negotiation is the "commercial" policy of the future and expresses regret that the United States in her "splendid isolation" snaps her fingers at the world.

INJURIES FATAL

Woman Thrown Out of Her Auto

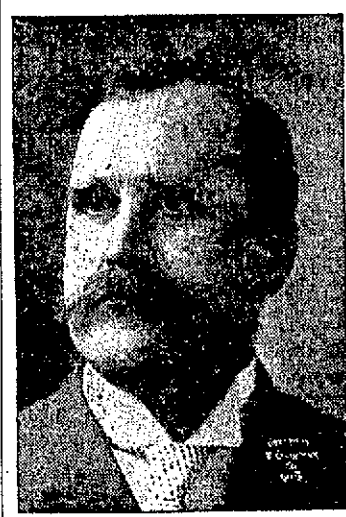

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Mrs. Gardner G. Hubbard, 80 years old, was thrown out of her automobile last evening when it was struck by a street car, sustaining injuries from which she died two hours later in a hospital. Her skull was fractured.

Mrs. Hubbard was prominent in the older set of Washington, one daughter having married Dr. Alexander Graham Bell and another his first cousin, Chas. J. Bell, president of the Washington Loan and Trust Co.

EUGENE N. FOSS

Not Opposed to Eight Hour Bill

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—The state campaign was further enlivened last night by statements issued by Eugene N. Foss, candidate for lieutenant governor on the democratic ticket, and by the campaign committee of the state branch of the American Federation of Labor. Both statements dealt with Gov. Draper's eight hour bill veto. Mr. Foss' statement, in part, follows:

"Gov. Draper in his speech at New Bedford last night, if he is correctly reported, in the press, said: 'Among those letters asking me to veto the bill for various reasons, was one from the B. F. Sturtevant Co., E. N. Foss treasurer. The B. F. Sturtevant Co., who signed this letter is the gentleman who is now running as the democratic candidate for lieutenant governor. I would suggest, under the circumstances, that the democrats refrain from attacking me upon the veto of this bill and devote their energies to attacking Mr. Foss for the influence he tried to bring upon me to veto it.'

"I challenge Gov. Draper to produce any such letter.

"I never wrote Gov. Draper any letter as the eight hour bill, so-called. He does not print a photographic reprint of any alleged letter of mine to him asking him to veto this measure.

"It is true that I did, in common with many other manufacturers, sign a petition which represented that my plant was to be crippled in competition with other plants if an eight hour bill which had been passed by the legislature and was before the governor for his signature was permitted to become a law.

"I took the statements in that petition to be an honest summing up of the substance of that bill. It was not, it was designed to deliberately deceive everyone who signed it."

GOV. DRAPER

ALLEGES ATTEMPT TO PUT HIM IN A "HOLE"

MARLBORO, Oct. 21.—Speaking at a well attended republican rally held in Preston hall, here last night, Gov. Eben S. Draper stated that "the eight hour bill was a political measure, intended primarily to put me in a hole." Gov. Draper devoted much of his remarks to a re-analyzing of the bill from his point of view bringing out its objections as he has done previously. In connection with its discussion he said that the persons who are criticizing him for his attitude toward the eight hour bill should turn some of their criticism to the democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, Eugene N. Foss, and he repeated the letter which he says he received from the B. F. Sturtevant Co., countersigned by Mr. Foss, urging him to veto the bill.

Although stating that "the question before the voters this year is that of electing state officers, and that the tariff has no place in the campaign," Gov. Draper still devoted considerable attention to a discussion of the tariff.

SENATOR SMITH

Says the Mills Need Not Curtail

FLORENCE, S. C., Oct. 21.—United States Senator F. D. Smith, former general organizer of the Southern Cotton Growers' association, declares that the recent action by the cotton mills of the country, favoring curtailment of production, because of the belief that the prices of cotton are higher than warranted by the crop outlook, is unfounded and appeals to the farmers to resist "the bear raid, since the condition of the world's peace insures ready markets and all supplies are rising in value."

Senator Smith adds that the reports received by him as head of a movement by cotton planters to ascertain exact conditions concerning the present crop, indicate that it will fall far below last season's crop.

He gives the following figures:
Louisiana, crop half million, mostly sold; balance likely to be held despite high prices.
Arkansas, crop 35 to 40 per cent short; selling fast, with no disposition to hold.
North Carolina, about same as last year; farmers able to hold.
Texas, crop about 40 per cent short; will make between 2,000,000 and 2,500,000 bales, obliged to sell.
Mississippi, 1,300,000 bales, 20 per cent short.

Other states report good crops, with farmers generally able to hold.

MINISTER CASTRO

SAYS APPEAL MAY BE MADE TO ARBITRATION COURT

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 21.—If it is true, as some reports indicate, that other nations in Central America, notably Guatemala, are assisting the Estrada revolution in Nicaragua, Francisco Castro, Nicaraguan minister to this country, said yesterday the matter will be taken at once to the Central American court of arbitration at Cartago, Costa Rica.

TO introduce fine materials, clean methods, scientific equipment into the making of soda crackers was one triumph—

To actually bake into them a subtle goodness, a real individuality, never before known, was another triumph—

But to effectually protect them so that the fullest benefit of these fine materials, this careful, cleanly baking, this unique goodness comes to you unaltered, was the crowning triumph that gave the world territory of one another, the minister declares, and they are emphatically forbidden to aid revolutions. If, says the minister, it is proven that Guatemala or any other Central American country is aiding the Estrada revolution, a suitable penalty will be meted out by the court.

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1909. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

LOWELL AS AN ASCENSION STATION.

Lowell citizens will welcome the New England Aero club in coming here to conduct a series of balloon ascensions for experimental and other purposes. The prospect of making Lowell a permanent ascension station is one that should be pleasing to the community in general. The balloon ascensions will not attract so much attention outside of Lowell as did the automobile races, but still they will serve as an advertisement that will be of some value to our city.

It is fitting that Lowell should be an ascension station for the Aero club inasmuch as the leading spirit of the club, Mr. Charles J. Glidden, is a Lowell man. Mr. Glidden is indebted to Lowell for past favors, and if he has any favors to grant in the selection of an ascension station he should certainly confer them upon this city. The ascensions will offer amusement to the citizens of Lowell and suburbs, and will serve as a fit prelude to the time when we shall have an exhibition of flying machines as a substitute for the auto races which a good many people assert we shall have "never again."

FIRE COMMITTEE REPORT.

That was a remarkably good report made by the committee on fire department, and its recommendations are mainly in the line of progress, although some of them would entail more expense than the city can afford at the present time.

Everybody will agree that the time has arrived when automobile trucks should displace some of the fire teams used and that this would be a source of economy. It is claimed that the fire automobile if properly used will do four times as much work as a team of horses and cost but half as much. The fire auto has been so well tried out recently in Springfield and other cities that its superior value is beyond question.

With the addition of fifteen men recommended by the committee the fire department should certainly be one of the most efficient in the state, but if we are to have labor saving machines why increase the number of men?

The recommendation for a drill school is also a good one. The firemen have to spend a large portion of their time sitting around the stations. Through inactivity they lose strength and agility, both of which might be kept up by frequent drills. The drill would also increase their value as fire fighters and would enable them to use the apparatus far more effectively.

THE POOR BOY AND HIS OPPORTUNITIES.

There are a great many boys in Lowell, who, on account of poor circumstances, believe they are debarred from rising to positions of eminence. These boys do not appreciate the opportunities of education and advancement that lie within their grasp. If they live in a city like Lowell they have only to look around to find many opportunities to advance themselves, either in education or in industry. They can avail themselves of the evening schools to learn any ordinary branch of an English education. They can attend the evening sessions of the Textile school and master the principles of a textile trade by which they can rise to better things. Or they can learn a trade in some of the big workshops or factories by which they can earn a livelihood. If they have any special ambition to enter any of the professions they can save their money and study in that direction. If they are made of the right stuff nothing can keep them down. The boy who is poor thinks he is handicapped, but he has positive advantages over the boy that is spoiled by luxury. The children of the very wealthy are strangers to the trials, the labor and the tribulations that serve to develop muscle and brain and to build up character.

It is better for a boy to have difficulties to overcome. Even in study many parents and some educators endeavor to remove all the difficulties, forgetting that this deprives the education of much of its value. The study of the dead languages may not serve the student in any practical way, but it develops the mind, and that in itself is a very important matter. The problem that requires the most study is longest remembered and most easily applied in practical work. The education that comes easily usually slips from the memory just as readily. As a rule it may be said that self-education is best because it is purchased by the greatest labor.

The poor boy can accomplish a great deal by the assiduous application of his talents in the right direction, but it will not pay him to injure his health by over-work. Better be satisfied with a trade that can be easily acquired than strive for one, the acquisition of which will injure the health.

For the smart, diligent boy today there are many opportunities that were unknown a few years ago. Only a few weeks ago a local car conductor got a position in Washington as a stenographer. He had made himself proficient in the art by regular practice during his leisure hours. He is only one of several who might be mentioned as having secured remunerative appointments through the civil service. There are civil service examinations held under different bureaus to fill federal, state and municipal positions, and the student who sets out to secure a certain position and studies the subjects of examination will succeed in the end if he has the grit to persevere.

Few young men have any accurate idea of the vast possibilities of mental development. They regard their knowledge and ability as fixed and make but slight allowance for the vast possibilities of education and acquisition if they set out to develop their mental faculties. The memory, the reasoning power and manual dexterity may all be developed to a wonderful degree by continued effort of the right kind along the lines indicated. Instead, therefore, of whining because other boys have more assistance than you, go to work and overcome the obstacles that lie between you and success. In the single-handed battle of life you will outstrip the boy brought up in the lap of luxury or if you do not it is because you have not applied your talents or that you have applied them in the wrong direction. They can never succeed in attaining excellence who jump about from one thing to another, or change so often that they do not work long enough at any particular thing to make it a success. To excel in any branch we must concentrate our efforts upon it to the exclusion of other branches. The modern tendency is to specialize. The man who excels today is a specialist in one or two things. The "jack of all trades" is a back number. The worst mistake a boy can make is to waste his early years in jumping from one occupation to another before settling down to his life work. It is important to make a right selection as early as possible and then climb towards the top.

SEEN AND HEARD

If either Peary or Cook arrived at the North pole their presence there didn't effect the northern lights. There was a brilliant display of aurora borealis a few evenings ago.

It is difficult for the average man to understand that with the death of 12,331 old soldiers during the past year, the pension roll is being constantly increased, so that today it contains 933,961 names.

Few persons realize that of the 2,700,000 men who served in the United States during the Civil war, 800,000 were only 18 years of age or under, and that 600,000 were not more than 16 years old.

It is this latter class which has recently been added to the list, and from this time on there will be a rapid decrease.

In the attic of the old Royal House at Medford the other day, Curator B. P. Benton pointed out four straight lines crossed diagonally with another on a timber near the top of the stairway. "It's the old-fashioned way of marking lumber," he said, "they use a heavy pencil now. I wonder if any of the Journal's readers can tell me the origin of this method, when it was first used, and why it was stopped? The marking was done with a heavy book that has a sharp, angled point at the end.

Can any of the Journal readers give explanation?—Boston Journal.
We are not prepared to tell of the origin of the method, but it is not yet obsolete. The same method is used today, in various places, in the loading and unloading of hay, grain, potatoes, etc., to and from cars. If you don't believe it just step into an empty box car and see for yourself.

These little heart-to-heart talks, says The Woman's National Daily, are printed in the hope that a few young men may be induced to hand the ice pitcher to John Barleycorn before it is everlastingly "leg late." There is some hope for the young man who hates the thought of a drink in the morning, after a night of high wall. If he can be reached at the psychological moment, he may be induced to cut it out and be an ornament to his sex. But there isn't much hope for the Jolly Good Fellow who wakes up in the morning yellow who wakes with a breath that looks like the smoke from a defective stove, and who can hardly wait until he gets his clothes on for the morning horn. When a man's insides demand an alcohol bath the first thing in the morning he is in a bad way; he may fool himself into thinking that he is all right, but he can't fool the bartender, or John Barleycorn. Most of the absinthes and other deadly dyes are sold in the early morning hours, and usually sold to Jolly Good Fellows whose nerves are in such shape that they can't drink without a funnel. It is a good thing to remember that the man who has to have a morning drink is all right; John Barleycorn has got him. The beginner turns pale at the mention of the morning drink, but after a few roundups with the boys he finds that a stem-winder at 6 a. m. braces him up temporarily, and one calls for another, and after while he takes six before breakfast, and then forgets to eat the breakfast.

HOW DID YOU DIE?

Did you tackle the trouble that came your way?
With a resolute heart and cheerful,
Or hid your face from the light of day?

With a craven soul and a fearful?
Oh, a trouble's a ton, or a trouble's an ounce.

Or a trouble is what you make it.
And it isn't the fact that you're hurt that counts.

But only—how did you take it?
You are beaten to earth? Well, well, what's that?

Come up with a smiling face.
It's nothing against you to fall down flat.

But to lie there—that's disgrace.
The harder you're thrown, why, the higher you bounce.

Be proud of your blackened eye!
It isn't the fact that you're whipped that counts.

It's how did you fight—and why?
And though you be done to the death, what then?

If you battled the best you could,
If you played your part in the world of men,

Why, the Critic will call it good,
Death comes with a crawl or comes with a pounce.

And whether he's slow or spry,
It isn't the fact that you're dead that counts.

But only—how did you die?
—Cooke.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

The reproduction in Boston of the great spectacle, "The Orient in London," has been postponed until the spring of 1911. It will be called "The World in Boston." It is the largest missionary exhibit ever projected on this continent.

When Supt. H. C. Weber of Nashville, Tenn., was unanimously offered an increase of salary, he answered: "I cannot accept unless the salaries of the teachers are increased. The city ought not to pay its superintendent more than $3000 until it can pay its teachers a better wage."

BEAUTIFUL WOMEN

Bad Stomach Causes Unsightly Complexions. Carter & Sherburne Have a Remedy.

Bad stomach means bad blood; bad blood means sallow, unattractive skin. Why? The stomach in a healthy condition separates the nutritious matter from the food and gives it to the blood to supply the entire body with nourishment.

If the stomach is not in a healthy condition it does not separate from the food the nutritious matter and it passes off with the waste.

Thus the blood is impoverished and has not sufficient nourishment to supply the muscles, skin and body generally.

If you have belching of gas, distress after eating, nausea, flatulency, nervousness or foul breath, then your stomach is wrong and you want the best prescription for stomach troubles the world has ever known.

You want M-I-O-n-a tablets, the great stomach remedy which Carter & Sherburne guarantee to cure indigestion no matter of how long standing, or money back.

M-I-O-n-a is sold by leading druggists everywhere and in Lowell by Carter & Sherburne for 50 cents a large box. Best samples free from Booth's M-I-O-n-a, Buffalo, N. Y.

HAVERHILL CHARTER

Clearly Explained by City Officials Who Help Administer It

Hon. Otis J. Carlton Tells of Its Advantages—City Solicitor G. M. Nichols and Alderman Bean Testify to the Advantages of New Charter—Judge Fisher Spoke on Behalf of Lowell

A mass meeting was held at the Highland Congregational church under the auspices of the Men's league of that church last evening for the purpose of hearing an explanation and discussion of the new city charter of Haverhill with a view to throwing light on the much mooted question now before the citizens of Lowell of charter revision.

The speakers were members of the Haverhill city council who have been working a year under their new charter with great success, and which they declare to be the best in the United States.

Carl M. Phil, president of the league, was in the chair and the only local speaker was Judge Frederick A. Fisher, chairman of the Lowell board of trade committee on charter revision.

Hon. Otis J. Carlton
President Phil, after brief remarks of welcome, introduced as the first speaker, Hon. Otis J. Carlton of Haverhill, the "father" of the Haverhill charter, who, before proceeding with his talk on the charter itself, gave an interesting account of the movement that brought it about.

The movement started with a committee of the men's club of one of the churches, which secured President Eliot as a speaker on the Galveston and Des Moines plans. He had an audience of 800 to 900 voters, and following up the interest, there arose a municipal league was formed and a charter drawn. It passed the legislature, and was adopted by the voters.

Responsibility Needed
Relative to the defects of the prevailing system of city government Mr. Carlton said that it is almost impossible to hold anybody responsible where matters go wrong.

"What we need is to get into office at men—men who are not only honest, but intelligent; and the way to get a fit man into office is to provide him with an office which has power and responsibility. What a man wants is a chance to make good.

"Another thing: The charters commonly recognize what is an untruth, namely, that the city is not a unit, but is divided into several wards. In Haverhill, we in effect said to these ward-elected officers, 'Go to our city council, and there obtain for us who live in this part of the city, what you can.'

"We also recognize, in the charters commonly in use, what seems to be an absurdity; that national parties have a fit place in the local government of cities. There are men who will vote for candidates without investigating them to see whether they are fit men or not, because they have some party label attached to them."

Again: "The city government work is conducted in such a way that it is almost impossible to know what those whom we have put in office are doing. There is an almost utter lack of publicity.

"Furthermore, our present charters are defective in that they fail to recognize that the proper administration of a city's affairs is to conduct business pure and simple, and nothing else. The city officers are not in any proper sense legislators. What our city governments ought to do is simply to do the people's business straight, the same as a trustee is required to account to the court for funds that have been placed in his hands."

Like Business Corporation

A city is a corporation very much like any business corporation. The only difference is that a business corporation exists largely to secure money to pay to the stockholders in dividends, while the city exists to pay dividends to the people in the shape of public benefits. When waste and extravagance fail to give us a dollar in value for the dollar we have paid in taxes, our dividends have been stolen from us to that extent.

"The new Haverhill charter seems primarily to recognize that the province of the city government is business; also to facilitate the choice of fit men for public office. We think that if these defects that I have pointed out are removed from a city charter, fit men will offer themselves as candidates much more readily than under the common system. We also believe that we have demonstrated, at one election, that if the people are sufficiently informed, they can be trusted to elect fit men to office. Our charter, following these lines, provides in the first place for the abolition of ward lines; and our city officers are nominated without any reference to what party they belong to. We then entrust all of the city's business—with some exceptions which I need not mention—to two boards, one called the municipal council, consisting of the mayor and four aldermen, and a school committee consisting of five men, one of whom is the mayor. And we have the usual boards not affected by the charter, such as a park commission, board of water commissioners, etc."

We did not, in our charter, define

PRESIDENT OF NICARAGUA, WHO IS BESET BY REVOLUTIONISTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The rapid mobilization and the show of force made by the insurgents under General Estrada lead the authorities in Washington to believe that the regime of President Zelaya, is drawing to a close in Nicaragua. The Atlantic coast ports of the republic are now in the hands of the revolutionists, and the United States government has officially recognized the closing of the ports. While it is not in sense a blockade, it is the next thing to it. Any duties that might be paid to the revolutionists while they are in possession of the customs houses have to be repaid to the Zelaya government in case the ports are retaken; hence the fact that the United States recognizes Zelaya's proclamation closing the ports.

under the new. Already the $61,000 worth of old bills have been paid, and a balance over and above that can still be shown to the good. "Allowing that $20,000 of those bills should have come over to this year—a liberal estimate—then our account for operation and maintenance shows a gain and saving on what it cost to run the city in this department, of $41,000.

Big Saving Noted

"Coming down to the bond issues, and the proceeds of the sale of city bonds for construction purposes: In 1908 the old city government issued bonds to the amount of $400,000. In 1909 the new government issued bonds to the amount of $116,000. The large issue in 1908 was made necessary by extraordinary building conditions but eliminating from the list all of those bonds which in either year were issued for the purpose of public buildings, school houses or bridges, and what you have done that, it is fair to say, roughly, that all of the other bonds issued should in the main have been voted to permanent construction work, streets, sidewalks, gutters, sewers. That leaves the city government of 1908 charged up with $141,000 worth of bonds which, roughly speaking, should have been devoted to permanent construction work. I find by making the same deduction under the city government of 1909, $35,000 which they should account for in the construction of new streets, sidewalks, sewers and gutters."

His reference to a blue print, which he said he would leave to be examined, which shows by comparison, the amount of construction work done by the two governments, with the money raised by those bonds. "The amount of work done in yards is practically the same with the exception of sewers, where there is an advantage on the side of the old government of perhaps 3000 feet of sewer. The same has been accomplished by the old city government with its $141,000, as by the new with its $55,000."

A Creditable Record

Besides this, the new city government record shows many more square yards of macadam road, the comparison being 15,000 and 50,000 square yards.

"As a matter of fact of course they did not spend the money on construction work in the old city government. What did they do with it? Some of it was diverted into channels which, if legal, certainly were not creditable; $39,000 was diverted from construction work to pay current expenses; $14,000 was paid for city lighting, and $5000 was devoted to school maintenance, not school building, which would be legitimate, but for running expenses. That is where some of the $141,000 went that did not go into the streets. There are, however, about $50,000 charged directly to the construction of streets; but with not more than $10,000 they actually declare they did put into street construction, we have done considerable more than twice the work that they did on the same amount."

"You will ask, how did this happen? Did you have a crowd of grafters who were robbing you? I have never seen anything that I could actually put my finger on. In the way of stealing, it was not stolen, it just went, just as any man's money will leak out of his business, and he will assign, if he does not attend to his business or if he has no sort of business management, The personal supervision."

He then cited some instances of economic buying whereby great saving was effected.

Street Improvement

"We have also reached a comprehensive system of street improvement, all over the city, fairly distributed, to be added to from year to year, as against the old system of ward construction three weeks before election."

He then said that the movement for a new charter must be so managed as to interest all of the people, and the argument used must be a financial argument.

gument. "You have got to educate the men who are going to do the voting. The legislature will never let you get by without a referendum, if it lets you at all. You must show them that it is not a plan to take into the hands of a few the government of the many. Get representatives from every class in the city. Make the man who works in the mill see that when he pays his rent there is a rake-off on every month's rent, that lands in city hall; it has got to be explained to him that he pays the fiddler."

The Lowell Case

"I think you were down to the legislature last year with two charter provisions. You have not got anything to spare, in the way of strength. Agree on what you want, and go down there with a solid delegation. Put it up to your legislators strong, that they must give you what you want."

Alderman Bean Speaks

Joseph W. Bean, the alderman in charge of the police, fire, charity and license departments, the city hospital, wires and street lighting, said that he served two terms under the old form of city government. The trouble seemed to be that the government was not near enough to the people. It was a government by politicians, not by the people. Now, the people have the government entirely in their hands. The officers dare not do a dishonest thing, because the people can see what they do. There was an inauguration without bands. The mayor said about fifty or sixty words, and then started in doing business. If voted on again today, there would be four out of five of the citizens of Haverhill that would vote for the new charter. The politicians and special interests that have lost the pull they once had, are against it.

Mr. Bean said that when he went into the Lowell city hall, and the mayor extended to him the freedom of the city, he thought it strange because it seemed to him that the city had no freedom. The people might elect anyone they pleased—and got about equal results.

He advised Lowell not to get a charter without the provisions for publicity. The more publicity the better. "Do not trust everything to a man because you believe him to be honest. We have got no keys to the city of Haverhill; they have taken them away."

Both Mr. Bean and the city solicitor invited the Lowell people to visit their city hall and inspect the records, which would speak for themselves.

Judge Fisher's Remarks

Judge Frederick A. Fisher spoke a few closing words, relative to the situation in Lowell. He said: "My previous experience confirms everything that the second speaker said of what should be done in order to get a new charter enacted into law." He then explained the provision of the original draft for a new charter here, and the advantages expected to be derived from the changes. The provision for the elimination of party designations was taken from the Haverhill charter.

"When we went to the legislature," he said, "we had a good representation of Lowell people with us and we were treated very courteously; and the committee gave a hearing at city hall. Yet there was never a ghost of a chance that the bill would be enacted into law. What was the reason? One reason was that the Lowell delegation was not with us. The Lowell delegation was not with us. They were not elected on the charter issue; they were not committed, and no one can fairly make that contention. But I am satisfied that we never will get a charter unless we have the Lowell delegation with us."

"It ought to be possible to get a charter that will meet with the approval of the majority, and you must elect some one to the legislature that will see to it that you get that charter."

ST. JEAN MURDER

Was Committed in Fall River, the Officials Say

FALL RIVER, Oct. 21.—"All the evidence which the Tiverton police find from now on must be turned over to the Fall River authorities," said Chief Manchester of the town police today. It appears evident, say those who have been in close touch with the investigation into the alleged murder of Miss Amelia St. Jean of Woonsocket, that this statement means that both the Massachusetts and Rhode Island police feel practically certain that the murder was committed in Fall River and that the Rhode Island authorities are simply assisting in every way possible and will continue to do so unless events arise to indicate that the affair is a Rhode Island crime.

When questioned regarding the disposal of the evidence already gathered by the Tiverton police, Chief Manchester said: "We are still holding the evidence we have found up to this time, and it will probably be held in Tiverton until it is called for by the Fall River officers. I don't believe that they will need it before the hearing there Monday, when court."

"The local police have not given up the search for the head of the girl whose dismembered body was found along Bulgermarsh road, but we are not making any concentrated effort to locate it as previously," said the chief. "We are almost convinced that the head is somewhere where it cannot be found by us. Understand me, however, we have not given up the search."

With unabated vigor the Fall River police continued to run down new clues and strengthen old ones in order that their case against Hill will be complete when it is presented to the court Monday.

It has leaked out that so far as Thibault is concerned there is no evidence, and that unless there are new developments his case will be dropped by Acting City Marshal Fleet on Monday.

There must be an organized effort by some association formed by citizens."

Both Mr. Bean and the city solicitor invited the Lowell people to visit their city hall and inspect the records, which would speak for themselves.

DAILY CAMPAIGN

For the Mayoralty of New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Last night was another night of rapid stump speaking in the municipal campaign, but the three candidates produced nothing new in the way of personal attacks. William D. Hearst, the independent nominee, delivered four speeches in New York; Otto T. Bannard, the republican nominee, spoke three times in Brooklyn, and then appeared at Carnegie hall, New York, before a big fusion gathering, and William J. Gaynor, the democratic nominee, appeared at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, for his third speech of the campaign. Mr. Hearst delivered substantially the same speech at all four places. He opened with an attack on Gaynor and Tammany, reviewed his efforts for the people's welfare through his newspapers and concluded with this appeal:

"In this campaign you should not vote for any friend or favorite, but for a man who will in your opinion do the most for your best and honest interest, and the most for the best and honest interest of all your fellow citizens."

In his address in Brooklyn, former Justice Gaynor referred smilingly to his first visit to Tammany hall Tuesday night. "I have beard the tiger in his den," he said, "and have faced that dreaded animal without a quail and I am now convinced that nothing on earth can make me afraid."

Covering the same ground, so to speak, as Hearst, he devoted the first part of his speech to an attack on the editor, whom he called a "bellowing donkey" who has never yet read the city charter.

The ex-justice again announced his staunch support of his associates on the democratic ticket, some of whom have been criticized severely, particularly George F. Roesch, Tammany nominee for justice of the city court. The bar association of New York officially denounced Roesch as "not fit for the office," but Gaynor last night stood by the ticket.

At the Carnegie hall meeting where Hearst's name was mentioned by ex-Mayor Low there was an outburst of cheering, even at that republican gathering and Mr. Low said:

"I am glad you applauded Mr. Hearst, because he is fighting with us in this campaign against Tammany."

Mr. Bannard said, in part:

"Tammany is just a society for the promotion of graft. They are not democrats. They have lived by the people, on the people and for the people, but I think the people are going to kill this trip. For example, let me tell you a little tale of cast iron pipe.

"Three years ago cast iron pipe was at its highest price, $33 to $34 per ton. Business men held off and would not buy it. Every one knew that price could not hold.

"Tammany hall bought 15,500 tons at the top, a difference in this purchase of just $27,500. This pipe was laid north of and south of the Harlem river to the banks for $1,065,000. They never got permission from the United States war department to connect under the Harlem river. No water has or can run through the pipes. It all lies idle, losing $40,000 to $50,000 a year interest on the investment, and no service and no income, and now it is apparently forgotten. You tax payers don't see it because it is buried out of sight.

"Let me ask one question. Wouldn't a business man get a permit to cross the river before he spent the million dollars?"

HE DROPPED DEAD

Postmaster Victim of Heart Failure

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—While sitting with his father-in-law, Jacob F. French, at the home of the latter, and with the remark that he "was feeling fine," scarcely off his lips, Benjamin Barnes, postmaster of this city, who served as executive clerk under President McKimley and later as assistant secretary to President Roosevelt, dropped dead here last night of heart failure. Although restoratives were immediately applied and prompt medical assistance was rendered, Mr. Barnes expired without regaining consciousness.

Mr. Barnes had been in particularly good humor last night over the fact that he had yesterday been admitted to practice before the supreme court of the District of Columbia.

On at least two occasions Mr. Barnes' name came prominently before the public. He was alleged to have played a part in electing Mrs. Minor Morris, a sister of Rep. Hull of Iowa, from the White House, which incident created a sensation. President Roosevelt stood resolutely by Mr. Barnes, and further emphasized his friendship by appointing him postmaster about there and a half year ago. A storm of protest was raised by Washingtonians against the appointment, the principal objection being that he was not a local man, although Mr. Barnes had lived here for about a quarter of a century.

RACE TRACK MEN

Placed Under Arrest at Woonsocket

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Oct. 21.—A complaint filed by Truman R. Sudd, of Williamstown, Conn., a well known horseman, led to the arrest yesterday of four race track followers, who are charged with violation of the statute regarding pool selling and betting on horse races. They gave their names as John Smith, Thomas Smith, Thomas Morse and James Morse, and after pleading not guilty, in the district court were bound over to November 3 in the sum of $500 each.

Sudd alleged that the 220 paces race at the Woonsocket track was fixed. He is the owner of Billikin which got third place in the 230 paces last Thursday.

PUBLIC HEALTH

Mrs. Crane Scores the Dept. of Agriculture

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 21.—Direct charges of incompetency in the federal department of agriculture and of disregard of the rules of the bureau of animal industry in the federal inspection of meat were made by Mrs. Caroline Bartlett Crane of Kalamazoo, Mich., in an address yesterday afternoon before the American Public Health Association in convention here. Mrs. Crane openly attacked the department for alleged misleading the public into believing that the meat inspected by federal officials was passed upon justly and with the best interests of the public at heart. She stated that the standards of health of animals slaughtered had dropped since the scandal in meat inspection in 1906. One of her most startling charges and one which evoked a spirited denial from Dr. M. Dorset of the biochemic bureau of Washington, was to the effect that the department of agriculture has caused to be issued, simultaneously with the annual rules and regulations, certain "service announcements" intended for inspectors and packers only. The inspectors, she said, were warned not to show or give these "service announcements" to any other persons.

Replying to Dr. Dorset's refutation of this, Mrs. Crane showed a photograph of pages of such pamphlets.

Is on His Was to Genoa

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Smuggled aboard an outgoing steamer late last night Antonius Freisa, a Greek leper, is now on his way to Genoa. The greatest secrecy was necessary to keep the facts from the passengers.

The leper was brought here from the colony on Penikese island, off the Massachusetts coast, by the three-masted schooner Andrew J. Pierce, Captain Jesse Smith of New Bedford, Mass., in a room especially built for him in the ship's hold. A surgeon of the United States marine corps and an immigration official accompanied him.

Freisa is far advanced in the disease. He has been in the leper colony 18 months and in this country less than three years, so that his deportation by the government presented no legal difficulties. The partitions constituting his room in the schooner's hold have been torn down and burned, the vessel disinfected and her captain paid a handsome charter fee.

MRS. PANKHURST

Leader of Woman Suffragettes Arrives

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—A quiet little group of New York women, bearing banners labeled "Votes for Women" stood on a White Star pier last night and welcomed to America, Mrs. E. Gould Pankhurst of Manchester, England, the leader of the militant suffragettes of Great Britain.

In accordance with the rulings of the customs authorities, less than twenty persons were admitted upon the dock and the reception to the little woman who has served two terms of imprisonment for her activity in the cause of women's suffrage, was devoid of clamor and smacked nothing of the vigorous methods for which Mrs. Pankhurst had been sponsor. But immediately she set foot on the shore, she was whisked away by her admirers in this country to a suffrage headquarters at 502 Fifth avenue.

Mrs. Pankhurst is slight of stature and has a wealth of brown hair which is just turning gray. She looked the typical Englishwoman and was becoming dressed in a dress of dark material.

Mrs. Pankhurst displayed a little medallion she wore and explained that it was a distinguishing mark worn by those English women who have been imprisoned for the cause. "I suffered solitary confinement," she said, "and had only one hour of exercise out of the twenty-four. During the other twenty-three I was confined in a little cell, eight by ten feet. I had cell No. 47 on the second floor of Holloway prison and I wore the regular prison garb, too, but I did not bring this costume to New York with me.

"The movement is progressing satisfactorily in England," she went on. "We have pledged from practically two-thirds of the members of the parliament to vote for us as soon as a bill is prepared by the government. And we expect sooner or later to compel the government to introduce the bill. Just when this will come to pass I am not prepared to say."

Mrs. Pankhurst stoutly defended militant tactics. "All great movements have been worked out by violence," she said. "The American people secured their liberty by violence, so why not rush the house of commons to obtain what we regard as our rights. The ballot granted to women will make them more intelligent, less self-centered, and on the whole much better citizens."

"Don't you think there would be corrupt women politicians and women 'ward healers'?" Mrs. Pankhurst was asked.

At this she laughed outright. Then, after a pause, she said: "Well, I don't think it could make politics any worse, at any rate."

She will speak first at Boston on Friday, will go to Worcester, Mass., on Saturday and will return to New York Sunday for a reception by the National and New York state suffrage associations at headquarters here.

Our New Range a Hit!

"Palace Crawford" for large families, and "Castle Crawford" for average use.

The useless End Hearth is omitted. The ashes fall into a HOD far below the fire, which makes their removal easier and the grates last longer. The Coal and Ash Hods are of the same size, and the Ash Hod when emptied can be returned full of coal. There is also more room on top.

SEN. MCCARRREN

To be Deposed as Brooklyn Leader

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Patrick H. McCarren in the hospital, Brooklyn, is to be deposed from the democratic leadership of that borough, according to a general report in political circles. Two insurgent or anti-McCarren borough tickets were withdrawn from the Brooklyn field yesterday with the understanding, according to a rumor, that they were to "cease their fight against McCarren on consideration of his being ousted."

The instructions, it is said, came directly from Charles F. Murphy, representatives of the insurgent tickets called upon the board of elections and requested their names to be left off the ballot. This leaves the McCarren ticket alone in the field in Brooklyn.

SEN. MCCARRREN

To be Deposed as Brooklyn Leader

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The New York Tribune founded by Horace Greeley, in 1841, announced with its issue this morning that two radical changes had been made—the price has been cut from three cents to one cent while the familiar six column make-up has been changed to seven columns. The change created wide comment throughout the city.

When the Tribune was founded in 1841, the original price was one cent which was changed to three several years later, a standard that had been maintained until the cut today. White-law held owns the controlling interest in the paper. Ogden Mills, his father-in-law, is president of the company.
